DEADLOCK RESULTS IN PLOT

Rhode Island Solons Overcome As Poison Sweeps Over Chamber

FILIBUSTER CAUSE OF DARING SCHEME

Governor Discovers Death Dealing Package Under Speaker's Table

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 19.—What is believed to have been poison gas was used today in an attempt to break the filibuster in the Rhode Island State Senate which has been in continuous session since 2 p. m. Tuesday.

The deadlock is due to Democratic insistence that Republican members vote in favor of a Constitutional convention before the annual appropriation bill is passed and the Senate adjourns. The chair refuses to recognize Republicans.

Fist fights, rioting on a small scale and humorous scenes such as when the speaker, Lieutenant Governor Loupin, a Democrat, was shaved as he sat in the chair, have marked the long drawn out battle of wits but today the climax was reached with the introduction of gas into the chamber.

About 7:45 a. m. those senators who were awake after the long night noticed a strong odor of gas permeating the room. One by one they started coughing, but no one would leave the room.

A few minutes later a reporter, sitting at the press table near the rostrum, fell over unconscious. Lieutenant Governor Loupin, swaying to his feet, his head drooping, caught at one of his bodyguards to save himself from falling. Two men ran from the chamber, crying for assistance and doctors.

Governor Flynn, who was in his office at this time, dashed into the senate chamber, searching about the rostrum and sniffing the air. He looked under the tables and the lieutenant governor's chair, he found a pile of papers apparently soaked with liquid.

Without waiting to investigate further, Governor Flynn ran from the chamber, throwing the papers into the corridor.

They smelled strongly of what was declared to be chlorine gas and chemists were sent for to analyze the liquid with which the papers had been soaked.

Several senators said they were nearly overcome by the gas but continued the filibuster. The senate continued its deadlocked session while Governor Flynn and the lieutenant governor began an investigation to determine who had placed the gas soaked water under the speaker's seat.

Four senators were overcome by the gas and nearly all those in the room were made ill. Two senators were taken to the Rhode Island hospital. Two others were carried from the chamber and revived in the corridor.

Wife Of Ousted Texas Governor Seeking Post To Vindicate Mate

DALLAS, Texas, June 19.—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, who aspires to be the "first woman governor in the world," today outlined her plans of campaign and the platform on which she will appeal to the voters "from the forks of the creeks."

Mrs. Ferguson, whose husband was held ineligible to hold office again as a result of his impeachment as governor in 1919 for alleged misapplication of state funds, is asking election as governor of Texas to vindicate "Jim."

"If I am elected, Jim will help me give the people of Texas the best administration that our ability, tempered with love and gratitude can produce," Mrs. Ferguson said in an interview with the United Press.

She expects her chief support to come from the voters

Ask $10,000 Ransom In Kidnap Threat

CHICAGO, June 19.—Police and private detectives today guarded the homes of wealthy residents of Ellis avenue on the South Side, following the receipt of a ransom letter by Irvin H. Hartman, millionaire furniture dealer, threatening to kidnap Irvin Jr., 10 years old, unless $10,000 is paid. The Hartman home is within a block of the home of Robert Franks, the 14 year old school boy kidnaped and slain by Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, millionaire youths.

"Details will be given later," the letter said.

FEAR WHEAT PERILED BY HOT SPELL

Kansas Reports Record Temperatures for June as Crop Harvest Now Under Way.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 19.—Record high heat levels for June were established over the southwest today, causing harvesters of the record wheat crop great inconvenience.

Farmers were working in the early morning and late at night in order to rest during the day.

Continuance of the heat wave causing the grain to ripen rapidly, resulted in grave fears that the crop might become over-ripened before it could be cut.

The mercury went above 90 in Kansas City, 113 at Altus, Okla., 106 at Dodge City and many points reported temperatures registering 108 and 110 in southwest Kansas and Oklahoma.

FIND BODY OF LAD LOST IN BOAT WRECK

The body of the boy found at the Palisades this morning was positively identified as the Winbigler Mission here this afternoon as that of David Thornton, 8 years old. Identification was made by means of the shoes the lad wore. Private services will be held at the grave in Fairhaven cemetery at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The body of either Allan or David Thornton, 10 and 8 years old, respectively, who lost their lives in the disaster at the mouth of Newport harbor June 8 in which their father, H. Newton Thornton, local architect, and five other persons also were drowned, was found at 9:30 a. m. today by boys playing along the seashore at Balboa Palisades, a quarter of a mile from the scene of the tragedy.

Ernest Winbigler, of the Winbigler Mission funeral home here, who brought the body to Santa Ana at 1:15 p. m., said he believed it was that of the younger of the two lads.

Immediately after the body was discovered a report was made to Antor Deraga, captain of the Newport life guards. An unidentified woman, believed to be the mother of one of the lads who found the corpse, telephoned the sheriff here, who in turn notified the funeral director here.

"The forks of the creek"—her husband's favorite way of referring to his staunchest friends, who are farmers.

"I have adopted the platform on which he had planned to run and he will be my chief adviser if I am elected."

Mrs. Ferguson is strongly opposed to the K. K. K. She believes in capital punishment "in extreme cases."

The possibility of being governor of the largest state in the Union holds no terrors for the plucky woman.

"A woman can be governor just as well as a man," she said.

SWING PLANK FLYER LEAPS 5,000 FEET TO SAFETY

Support of Local Harbor, Boulder Dam, G. O. P. Policies Pledged

Support of Republican nominees and policies, of the Boulder dam, of tax reduction, of the naval base at San Diego, of Newport harbor, of regulations at the Mexican border, of law enforcement and of adequate tariffs on California products—these are the eight planks of the platform of Congressman Phil D. Swing of El Centro, as announced last night at a reception given the congressman upon his arrival at his home in Imperial county.

Scores of automobiles filled with enthusiastic, loyal neighbors and friends of the congressman, met his train at Westmoreland and escorted him to El Centro. A tremendous ovation was given the man who went to congress from El Centro.

At a dinner given last night by men and women from every community in Imperial county, as well as by representatives from San Diego, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, the congressman announced a platform that he said is the foundation upon which he will go before the people of this district seeking reelection.

Swing's statement, read last night and given to newspapers of the district for publication today, follows:

"To the voters of the eleventh congressional district: I herewith submit my candidacy to the electorate of my district. My efforts in your behalf as a representative in congress are a matter of public record. I stand on that record. In addition I solicit your support on the following:

"1. Will support Republican ticket and Republican policies: I shall unreservedly support Calvin Coolidge, nominee of the Republican party, for President, and the entire Republican ticket. I shall co-operate with the President and my party in congress on all fundamental Republican policies. I shall at all times work for the best interests of my district, never forgetting that I am your representative and that my first duty is to you who have honored me with the high office of representing you in the congress of the United States.

"2. Boulder Dam project: I shall continue the fight for the development of the Boulder dam project, with which I have been intimately connected since its inception. In association with able representatives of my district, I have labored to lift this project from a plane of purely local interest to a place where it would be recognized as the greatest outstanding constructive project before the American people. Our efforts have met with success. Two Presidents have endorsed the undertaking and two secretaries of the interior have reported favorably upon the project.

"3. Tax Reduction: I shall continue to work for tax reduction. I was glad as a member of the 67th congress to vote for the law which reduced the taxes of the country $830,000,000 per year. In the present congress I voted for the law which will give the country additional relief by further reducing the taxes $290,000,000 for the current calendar year, $361,000,000 for the next fiscal, and $400,000,000 each year thereafter. This reduction was made with due regard for the financial needs of the government, and leaves a surplus of $400,000,000 in the treasury at the close of the current fiscal year after the new deductions have been made.

"4. Appropriations for San Diego Naval Base: While I have thrown my influence in behalf of world peace, I recognize that under conditions that exist today an efficient navy is necessary for the adequate protection of our country and its citizens. To this end I have worked, and will continue to work, for appropriations to make a complete and up-to-date naval base at San Diego. The two congresses of which I have been a member have

MacReady Dodges Death By Narrow Margin As Plane In Night Crash

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
DAYTON, O., June 19.—His plane plunging earthward from an altitude of 5,000 feet directly over the business district of Dayton, Lieutenant John A. Macready, hero of the first non-stop flight across the continent, averted a disastrous accident last night when he walked calmly out on the wing of his hurtling ship and stepped off into space, supported only by his emergency parachute.

Then, as he sailed with the breeze, Macready watched the ship he had left fall to earth and explode just outside the city limits. Macready's parachute landed in the tree tops on the brink of a ravine and after several calls he succeeded in arousing two men who lived nearby and they came out and cut him down.

The famous pilot was returning to McCook Field here from Columbus in an airways ship at 11 p. m. when something went wrong with his motor high above Dayton.

Realizing his life depended on gliding toward the outskirts of the city and leaping out in his parachute, Macready steered his plane north and when it came over an open space he stepped out of the cockpit to jump off.

Something caught and he had to climb back.

By this time the plane was plunging at a terrific rate. Macready walked out on the wing of the unguided plane, jumped off, counted two and then pulled the ring which opened the parachute.

"30" BULLETINS
A letter found in the effects of Eli Bunt, who died of natural causes at Eureka, Tuesday, was written by Mrs. C. B. Nicholson of Santa Ana, whom Western Union officials have been unable to locate here, according to a wire received late today by The Register from the corner there. It was dated here September 26, 1918, and was addressed to "Dear Uncle."

Hint War Near On Alleged 'Gas' Combine

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The federal trade commission's report on alleged profiteering by the gasoline industry, made at the request of President Coolidge, has been laid before the department of justice for appropriate action. This course is believed to foreshadow anti-trust prosecutions, as it is being carefully studied by August Seymour, assistant to the attorney general, in charge of anti-trust prosecutions.

HIGH WINDS CAUSE HUGE CROP LOSS

Santa Barbara County Ranchers Report Lemons and Walnuts Hit by Cyclone.

SANTA BARBARA, June 19.—Walnut and lemon crops in the Gofeta Valley have suffered a heavy loss due to cyclonic winds which blew through the section the first of the week, it was reported here today. Nuts were blown from the trees and limbs whipped off. The lemons were also badly damaged.

Farmers stated no lima beans will be harvested this year, except those grown in irrigated fields, because of the destruction caused by the wind.

TWO SUGGESTED FOR CHIEF OF S. A. C. OF C.

Two men are possible candidates for the office of secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, to succeed J. C. Metzgar, who resigned Tuesday, were being mentioned here today.

One is Leslie R. Saunders, executive secretary of the East Side organization, Inc., Los Angeles, who was in Santa Ana yesterday, and the other is E. A. Bradbury of Long Beach, who recently has taken the position of secretary of the Redondo Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Bradbury stated today that he was "not in a position to say at this time whether I will make application for the position." He intimated that he would come to Santa Ana shortly to study conditions here before deciding whether to file his application.

Reports were to the effect that Saunders' visit here yesterday was for the purpose of investigating the local situation here, relative to applying for the position. J. C. Wallace, realty broker, denied this, adding that Saunders was here in connection with his East Side organization work, and came to see him regarding an invitation sent Saunders by Wallace to be a speaker or before the Santa Ana Lions' club next Thursday.

"So far as I know, Saunders' trip to Santa Ana was in no way connected with the Chamber of Commerce re-organization and so far as I know, the subject of his possible candidacy for the secretaryship here never was approached," stated Wallace.

Saunders will address the Lions' club Thursday on "What the East Side Organization Is Doing," relative to increased payrolls and bringing industries to southern California.

The East Side Organization, of which Saunders is the head, is described as one of the biggest promotion enterprises in Southern California. Back of it are scores of big business men in Los Angeles, interested in selling California to Eastern manufacturers and in bringing industries to the industrial center of Los Angeles, the East Side of the city.

Bradbury is a native of Cannon City, Colo., and was secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in that city for seven years. He is also a past grand master of the Colorado state lodges of Elks. He moved to Long Beach in 1922 and until two months ago, when he accepted the secretaryship of the Redondo Chamber of Commerce, was connected with the bond department of a large realty firm there.

THIRD PARTY MEET ENDS IN FIGHT

(By United Press Leased Wire.)
CONVENTION HALL, ST. PAUL, Minn., June 19.—The National Farmer-Labor third party convention in its closing session today avoided endorsement of Senator Robert M. La Follette for president.

A majority from the nominations committee leaving the question of a presidential and a vice presidential candidate to the national committee, was adopted by an overwhelming majority after a brief but spirited fight.

"We can swing behind La Follette later if he runs," William Mahoney, farmer leader, who previously had fought for endorsement of La Follette declared.

Clash Over Report
A minority report was presented by Delegate Taylor of Kansas, declaring "We favor La Follette for the presidency." This was greeted with silence and Taylor said:

"I suppose you will rip me up the back."

When Taylor read the report a delegate from Kansas jumped to his feet and shouted:

"Why don't you consult the workers. (Communist) delegates in the Kansas delegation before you make a report like that?"

"I consulted the farmers in the delegation and I don't take orders from you," Taylor hurled back.

La Follette was ripped up and down the back by Communists.

Ben Gilroy, New York Representative of the Federated Farmer-Labor party—a Communist organization—declared during the debate that "La Follette is not interested in the workers of this country—he is interested only in Senator La Follette."

C. A. Ruthenberg, Communist leader, led the denunciatory attack upon La Follette.

"It is a question of polling 1,000,000 or 2,000,000 votes for a mass class candidate or forming some sort of coalition of those who do not represent us to poll 5,000,000 votes, if that is possible," Ruthenberg said.

"We adopted an organization plan stating that we would found this party on the basis of groups represented here. The cause of the workers and the farmers cannot be represented by big business nor by that organization of liberal business represented by La Follette."

"La Follette's record in Congress shows that he has not extended a hand to those who suffered most under our existing conditions."

"You can't put the farmer, who is being robbed by the railroads, and the worker who is governed by court injunctions on the same ticket with La Follette."

Subs Collide Under Sea At San Diego

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Another near disaster in the navy occurred yesterday off San Diego when two submarines making a submerged attack in practice sideswiped each other, the navy department was informed today.

The two underwater craft, the S-33 and S-35, which collided, pulled through without any injury to personnel. The S-33 suffered no material damage at all, while the S-35 suffered only slight hull damage, which is being repaired by submarine tenders.

The submarines proceeded back to their base after the accident.

Argument in the case was completed shortly before noon, and judge Crail commenced charging the jury. Deliberation should be started soon after noon, it was said.

RANCHERS TOLD CUT IN POWER USE VITAL

Declaring that the electric power situation in Southern California as a result of last winter's drought is extremely serious, R. B. Peters, of San Bernardino county, chairman of Federal Farm Bureau Division No. 1, was one of the principal speakers who addressed a gathering of ranchers from Orange county and seven other Southern California counties at Los Angeles today.

"The condition is much more serious than is generally realized," Peters said. "Due to the growing season and the lack of rainfall, there must be a drastic reduction in power consumption."

"One third of the power in California is used by farmers. We do not propose to curtail the use of power on the ranches and starve our irrigation projects unless there is a corresponding reduction made in the use of industrial power as well."

Peters declared there should be a drastic cut made in the amount of electricity used by street railway and interurban companies as one means of helping out the critical situation, which promises to become worse as the season advances.

"We believe the prosperity of this section of the state rests on agricultural conditions," he said, "and the power used by the farmers should be the last to be reduced when the streams from which the electricity is derived dry up even more late in the summer."

The speaker said reduction in street lighting and electric signs would not help the situation materially, as only a small part of the electricity consumed is used for lighting purposes, he stated.

Peters made the following recommendations:

NEW YORK OVERRUN WITH 'DARK HORSES'

Brennan Seeking Strong 'Anti-Klan Plank In Party's Platform

NEW YORK, June 19.—William Gibbs McAdoo today called his strategists into conference to map out a short, sharp campaign to effect his nomination in the Democratic National convention on or before the tenth ballot.

Those called were Senator Carter Glass, diminutive statesman from Virginia who arrived to find himself a prominent "dark horse"; Tom Love of Texas; J. Bruce Kremer and Homer S. Cummings, formerly chairman of the Democratic National committee.

At the same time, opposition forces—for it is generally conceded it is McAdoo against the field—were preparing to prolong the struggle in the hope of breaking down the strength and superb coincidence of the former treasury chief, pushing him out of the running.

Rockwell Confident
Judge Rockwell, campaign manager for McAdoo says the latter's strength may reach its peak as early as the fifth ballot and that McAdoo will surely go over by the tenth ballot.

George Brennan, Illinois chief, in who wants Al Smith nominated, says there will be no decision and intimates the voting may surpass the endurance tests of 1920—when it required 44 ballots to nominate James M. Cox—and the record set in 1912 when Woodrow Wilson was nominated on the 46th ballot. Wilson trailed Champ Clark through the earlier balloting, even as Smith is expected to trail McAdoo at the outset there.

The strategy of the anti-McAdoo forces at the outset will be to "get rid of McAdoo first." Then Smith will be given his big chance and if he fails of nomination, as many of the leaders believe, the time will have arrived to agree in the rival camps upon a compromise.

Another storm signal sent up by Brennan was announcement that he favors a plank in the platform mentioning the Ku Klux Klan by name and denouncing it and its principles. This might be construed as a double-edged stroke—directed on the one hand against McAdoo, who has been alleged frequently to be profiting by Klan support, and indicating on the other hand that possibly Brennan might ultimately take kindly to the candidacy of Senator Underwood of Alabama, who makes the Klan one of his major issues.

Chief developments today were:—McAdoo held a conference with his convention lieutenants aimed to effect an early decision of the contest after balloting begins next week.

2—Friends of Gov. Smith and William Randolph Hearst moved to bring a temporary truce in their personal quarrels, so there would be no rift in the Smith forces from New York. Smith would discuss the move and Hearst was out of the city.

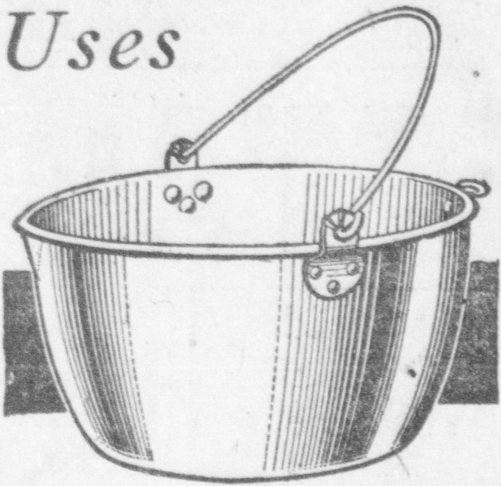

3—Would Prolong Vote
1—George Brennan had luncheon conference with New York delegation leaders, including Norman Mack, national committee man, and J. J. Fitzgerald. Brennan is working to prolong the voting in the belief it will weaken McAdoo. Also he advocates anti-Klan plank in the platform which leaders regard as designed to embarrass McAdoo.

4—John W. Davis' supporters opened up headquarters at the Waldorf and began a campaign to make the West Virginian the favorite "dark horse" of the convention. Judge John H. Holt of Huntington, a noted orator of West Virginia, will nominate Davis and Mrs. Izetta Jewell Brown will second the nomination.

5—Dark horse fanciers also trotted Senator Pat Harrison and Senator Carter Glass today, the

S. A. WOMEN IN $11,000 SUITS AGAINST P. E.

Damage suits brought by two local women against the Pacific Electric Railway company in the superior court here today aggregated $11,091.50, and represented claims for injuries alleged to have been sustained in a bus accident on South Main street, last December 11.

The two women, Merle L. Carey and Florence B. Parks, claimed to have been passengers on the bus when it was said to have collided with an automobile. Both received severe injuries, spinal and internal, they alleged.

Merle Carey asked judgment for $5,576.50 damages, while Florence B. Parks sought to recover $5,515. The latter was part owner of a lunch counter and her damage claim included loss of time from her business and expense of hiring a substitute.

Attorney Hugh Dickson, Los Angeles, filed the actions for both plaintiffs.

Couple Seized in 'Love Nest' Raid Ask for Lenience

An attempt to secure probation, in connection with an alleged statutory offense, of which they were convicted after two trials in the superior court, was launched today by G. E. Brookins, Anaheim printer, and Mrs. Addie Wiley.

After their motion for a new trial had been denied today by Superior Judge F. C. Drumm, Charles Swanner, attorney for the defendants, filed their application for probation. The hearing was set for Friday, June 27, at 9:30 a. m. Pronouncement of sentence, originally scheduled for today, was accordingly postponed until that date.

Brookins and Mrs. Wiley, who were arrested in a raid on an asserted "love nest" at Newport Beach, escaped conviction at their first trial, when the jury disagreed, but at the second trial a verdict of guilty was brought in.

appropriated for permanent construction at the naval establishments and other government activities at San Diego, the sum of $5,563,300, or in excess of a million and a half per year for the time I have been in congress.

"5. Aid for Newport harbor: After years of striving and waiting Newport harbor at last was given government recognition last December, in approval by the war department of the preliminary report on this project. The district engineer has now completed his survey and has recommended government aid. It has been my pleasure to work in close co-operation with Orange county citizens in this matter and I have every confidence that our joint efforts will bring substantial government aid in opening this harbor to the commerce of the world.

"6. Closing of Mexican border: I supported the request of thousands of my constituents, asking the federal government to close the Mexican boundary line at 9 o'clock. Gambling vice and the drug evil had grown to astounding proportions on the Mexican side of the line, the pernicious and injurious effect of which was being felt in American communities for 100 miles back from the border. Since night closing went into effect I am advised that conditions on both sides of the line have greatly improved and I am glad to have been instrumental in bringing about this improvement. I shall favor the continuance by the United States government of all regulations necessary to insure obedience to our laws, safety on the public highways and protection to the good morals of our communities.

"7. Law Enforcement: I favor the Volstead act and its strict enforcement.

"8. Tariff: I recognize agriculture as the basic industry of our country, and have worked consistently for all measures that would promote its welfare. I am proud to have had a part in winning for California's agricultural products the best protective tariff they have ever had. I shall work to maintain these rates. In view of the elasticity clause in the present law permitting cuts in rates of as much as 50% eternal vigilance is necessarily the price of adequate protection."

should be eliminated. Second: Such large users of power as street railways should, by eliminating cars and stopovers, reduce their consumption by 25 per cent.

Third: Industrial users should reduce either the number of days operated per week or hours per day to conserve the electric power supply.

J. S. Edwards, chairman of the utility committee of the San Bernardino county farm bureau, and one of the prominent orange growers in that county, spoke of last year's unprecedented drought and its subsequent effect upon crops and electric power.

He recommended the use of gas or distillate engines instead of electric power motors wherever possible. A number of farmers have already accomplished this substitution in view of the present power scarcity, he said.

Edwards spoke of the reduced crops and the drought's influence on the quality and quantity of output. As an orange grower, it was his opinion that citrus growers should take the necessary steps toward electric power conservation to maintain the yield and quality of their crops.

It was stated that on the Edison system, its two principal sources of water supply, the Kern river east of Bakersfield and the tributaries of the San Joaquin river northeast of Fresno, are carrying only 25 per cent of the water usually available at this period.

New Victor Records by McCormack and Paderewski

As examples of perfect tone production the voice of McCormack and the playing of Paderewski are really marvelous. As examples of what the Victor alone can offer, they are typical.

In making Victor Records Paderewski uses his own piano, knowing that the Victrola and Victor Records reproduce minutely tone, technique and individual artistry.

The amazing accuracy of reproduction in the records of these two great artists extends to all Victor Records when played upon the Victrola.

Light Vocal Selections

Oh! Eva (Hard Boiled Rose)	The Happiness Boys	19340	.75
	The Happiness Boys

First record by this combination of Billy Jones and Ernest Hare, who by their team name are well known to radio audiences. One of the cleverest and most irresistible vaudeville turns ever recorded, with a lively encore song.

Anchored (Out on the Deep)	Wilfred Glenn	19315	.75
	Wilfred Glenn

Sea-songs for the bass voice. The words are simple and familiar, but the music has the roll of the sea in it. Most of us know these numbers, but few have heard them as they are sung on this record.

Dance Records

It Had to Be You—Fox Trot	Paul Whiteman and His Orchestra	19339	.75
The Hoodoo Man—Fox Trot

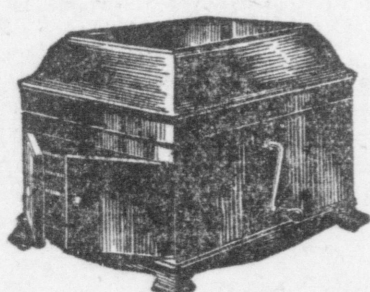

New fox trots by this world-model organization. One of them brilliant, in the extreme; the other patterned all over with weird "hoodoo" figures. Characteristic Whiteman ingenuity is heard everywhere, brought out to perfection by Victor recording.

When Dixie Stars are Playing Peek-a-Boo—Fox Trot with yodeling chorus	Barney Rapp and His Orchestra	19341	.75
I Need Some Pettin'—Fox Trot

The first number is a fine light-moving fox trot with some comedy yodel effects. The second is cheerful yet with sentiment, and the piano has some notable solo work. Both are splendidly recorded—a delight for dancing.

Nightingale—Waltz (vocal refrain and bird effects)	S. S. Leviathan Orchestra	19342	.75
Sunrise and You—Medley Waltz (introducing "Smilin' Through")	The Troubadours

Two fine examples of the "American slow waltz." The first one with "two-tone" whistling effects and a vocal refrain; the second on two famous Arthur Penn melodies. Dance records of the kind for which the Victor is famous.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT
Your longing for God has been stilled by concentration upon your daily tasks. In the face of a great sorrow these reveal themselves as inadequate for the yearning for that which endures.
Amid the shadows you find Him who alone is competent to satisfy your hunger for a great sustaining love.

LAMBERT—Accidentally, June 18, 1924, Robert W. Lambert, aged 38 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Lambert of 518 South Van Ness avenue.
Services will be held from the Winbigler Mission Funeral home tomorrow at 2 p. m., the Rev. H. G. Burgess of the Richard Avenue Methodist church officiating.
Interment will follow in Fairhaven cemetery.

CLAPP—In Redlands, June 18, 1924, Frank L. Clapp, aged 61 years. Funeral services tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. from Smith and Tutill's chapel.

Would Give Death Word to Woman

Eli Bunt, a friend or relative of Mrs. C. B. Nickelson of this city, died at Eureka, Cal., Tuesday, according to a telegram held at the office of the Western Union because of failure to find Mrs. Nickelson.

The address in the telegram was given as 1019 East Fourth street. There is no such number.

F. E. Warner, manager of the local office, today was endeavoring to locate the woman, but had failed. He requested that anyone knowing her address notify the Western Union office.

It was understood that Mrs. Nickelson was employed in some restaurant on East Fourth street, but inquiry among owners of several cafes failed to develop any one who knew the woman.

Accuses Employee of Embezzlement

Released today under $300 bail when arraigned on a charge of embezzlement. Cutler M. Westcott, 18, was facing prosecution for alleged misappropriation of funds from his former employer, Peter Vlahos, 312 East Fourth street.

Vlahos alleged that Westcott embezzled $36 June 7. Westcott was apprehended at Pasadena and was arraigned here before Justice Jack Landell.

All persons attending will be "tagged" with a ribbon on arrival, showing what state they originally came from.

J. L. Avery and T. M. Pierce of Los Angeles, members of the state department of agriculture, were in the county yesterday, inspecting several citrus groves said to have been badly damaged as a result of using a certain sort of oil spray declared to have been sold to several growers in the county. Their findings will be reported to the department.

Owing to the press of affairs incident to commencement week, the picnic of Ebel's sixth Household Economics section, planned for tomorrow at the P. N. Robinson cottage at Newport Beach, has been postponed until further notice, the section secretary, Mrs. T. L. Warren, announced today.

Aid Society

Twins and triplets galore celebrated their birthdays in a particularly happy manner yesterday at the First Presbyterian church when the Ladies' Aid society gave its annual birthday party for its members, all of whom joined with enthusiasm in the plans for a happy day.

Each of the twelve months of the year claimed its own children until group by group, there were approximately 200 celebrants to be seated for the enjoyment of a most delectable feast served by a bevy of attractive girls in bright summer frocks.

At the January table, Mrs. Fred Bomby, the chairman and her vice-chairman, Mrs. L. H. Martin, arranged a beautiful snow scene with the shining crystals glittering from small evergreens at intervals down the length of the table. New Year resolutions offered by each of the January born added a gay note to the entertainment.

February with Charles Cotant and Mrs. H. J. Forey in charge, presented a brilliant valentine scene with its red candles and vivid decorations and each guest wearing a clever valentine cap. March winds whistled and moaned from the table arranged by Mrs. G. B. Darnell and Mrs. Dearth, and St. Patrick's own shamrocks formed the decorative motif, the centerpiece being an artistic arrangement of shamrocks and Cecil Brunner buds under green draped chandeliers. Whistles were noisy favors.

April's children entered the room with umbrellas raised to fend off showers and found a showery table with an ornamental umbrella sheltering a peaceful spring scene on a farm where cattle and horses sought the coolness of a little lake. Mrs. W. E. Maxon and Mrs. Bear planned the charming effect. Wee Japanese umbrellas accompanied French corsage bouquets as favors and the table had the added glory of the "most beautiful" cake, a pyramid angel food, concocted by the skillful hands of Mrs. Armstrong. April's showers brought the May flowers where a Maypole with its parti-colored ribbons leading to each place, May baskets filled with salted nuts, and pastel tinted candles beautified the table which was in charge of Mrs. W. W. Anderson and Miss Effie Douglas.

June roses dominated the table sacred to that month, baskets of exquisite pink buds flanking the beautiful birthday cake on its silver standard. June rose nut cups and place cards were other attractive features planned by Mrs. H. H. Ball and Mrs. Crosier. A pyramid bouquet of flowers in the traditional colors centered the patriotic July table where red, white and blue banners criss-crossed over the white linen and where Old Glory waved above everything else. Mrs. Crissman and Mrs. Yarnell planned the beautiful effect which was carried out to the final detail of patriotic place cards and nut cups. Pin crackers added to the general excitement, while patriotic songs and the pledge to the flag offered a variety to the informal program.

A sea scene with pretty bathing girls enjoying the shade of we umbrellas on the sands, light-houses, boats and all the effects of a summer vacation at the shore, saddened the eyes of the august host. Places were found by brilliant balloons suspended above the table, each bearing the name of an August celebrant. Wee paper sand-pails and shovels were appropriately chosen for nuts and the true carnival spirit was fostered by Mrs. R. P. Yeagle and Mrs. George Lewis.

Harvest time with its wealth of golden fruit and flowers was suggested by Mrs. O. H. Egge and Mrs. Vieira at the September table where a long basket held the flaming flowers of "lion's tail" and yellow candles glowed. Brilliant orange colored blossoms with trailing vines concealed the chandelier.

Witches, hobgoblins and black cats ruled at October's table where hallowe'en held sway and each guest found a place to add to the general merriment planned by Mrs. Esther Gardiner and Mrs. E. B. Sprague. Appropriate place cards and favors, brilliant orange and black candles and a spirit of lively hallowe'en mischief added to the fun.

A golden horn of plenty spilled its rich fruits over the table planned for November folk by Mrs. F. D. Plavan and Mrs. E. H. Higgins. At intervals the month's daughters gave their yell which spelled November, pronounced turkey and ended with a life-like "gobble-gobble-gobble." Quaint little turkey place cards, appropriate nut cups and other amusing features were used, all suggestive of Thanksgiving.

Two glittering Christmas trees, adorned the December table where Mrs. J. C. Winans and Mrs. Pollock were in charge. Christmas cards marked the places and Christmas stockings decorated the background. An exciting moment came with the arrival of Santa Claus who bore a huge pack filled with amusing gifts which formed the favors.

The succession of songs and "stunts" made the luncheon hour one continual vaudeville show but never interfered with the enjoyment of fruit cocktail, creamed chicken on biscuits, green peas, fried new potatoes, jelly, olives, combination salad, Neopolitan ice cream, coffee, and the delicious angel food cakes which, adorned with candles were on each table.

In the afternoon following a brief business session a delightful program offered by Mrs. Herbert M. Sammis whose songs, "Break o' Day" by Sanderson, and "I Want to Be Ready" an old negro spiritual, were highly enjoyed; Miss Ruth Armstrong who in addition to playing Mrs. Sammis's accompaniments, gave two beautiful organ solos; Mrs. W. E. Roberts in reverent devotionals, Mrs. J. R. Medlock in reminiscences of the founding of the society in 1884, and two talented children, the little Misses Mary Henrietta Nau and Virginia Herisher in readings.

Miss Virginia gave a charming child impersonation followed by "The Runaway Boy" and pleased her audience immensely as did little Mary Henrietta whose "Raggy Man" was delightful and who responded to the pleased applause with "Little Boy Blue."

MAN WHO CAME HERE 40 YRS. AGO DIES

Funeral services to be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Smith and Tuthill funeral parlors here, were being completed today for a former Santa Ana, Frank Clapp, who at one time conducted extensive farming operations on the Irvine ranch and who died last night at his home at Redlands.

Mr. Clapp was born in Alameda county, California, 62 years ago last March, and came to what is now Orange county forty-three years ago, accompanying his parents here from Downey. The family settled in what was then known as the Gospel Swamp, now the Greenville district.

In his early life, a farmer, at one time he had more acreage under cultivation on the Irvine ranch than any other one tenant. He carried on farming operations in this county and near Corona for many years, at the same time engaging here in the buying and selling of horses and mules. For many years he conducted the Blue Front livery stable on the site of the municipal water plant on East First street.

He suffered for many years from a disease of the leg which necessitated many operations and which finally resulted in loss of the entire limb.

He had maintained his residence at Redlands four or five years. He had been seriously sick a year and had been confined to his bed since last February.

Elder T. B. Lacey, pastor of the Church of Christ, Later Day Saints, of San Bernardino, will officiate at the services.

Mr. Clapp is survived by his widow and two sons and a daughter, Virgil, Yucalpa, Leroy, Santa Ana, and Mrs. Stella Brown, Los Angeles. Seven brothers and three sisters also survive him.

They are Amos and Elmer, Wilmington; John and Joe, Corona; Sam, Huntington Beach; Richard, Anaheim; Mrs. Jennie Starkey, Chico; Mrs. Fannie Brooks, Balboa, and Mrs. Dora Herrin, Long Beach.

According to Wellington, both officers and enlisted men will be in camp at Del Monte, at which time the "mobilization plan," pertaining to the reserve, will be discussed.

Santa Ana Night Over Radio KHJ To Be Saturday

Saturday night will be "Santa Ana night" over radio KHJ, from its broadcasting station in Los Angeles. The program will begin at 8 o'clock.

This announcement was made today through the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, under whose auspices the program will be given, and will include musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental, all given by local artists, together with a talk, "The History of the Orange," by H. E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor. Wahlberg is chairman of the committee in charge of the entertainment.

Santa Ana artists who will entertain over KHJ are: Madam Mameela V. Budrow, Spanish concert singer; Ollimae Enlow Mathews, violinist; D. C. Clanton, trombonist and Earl Fraser, pianist. The program was arranged by Ollimae Mathews.

THORNTON BOYS CHUM'S DEATH IS SIFTED

Circumstances surrounding the death late yesterday of 7-year-old Robert Lambert, who was killed by a car, were being sifted by a coroner's jury at 4 p. m. today, at the Winbigger Mission funeral home here.

Friends recalled that Robert was a playmate of David and Allan Thornton, who lost their lives in the Newport harbor tragedy, ten days before, in which eight persons were drowned.

The lad's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Lambert of 518 South Van Ness avenue, who live across the street from the Thorntons, were immediately notified and the child was hurried to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where he died in two hours. Esther, aged 10, a sister, is another survivor.

Eyewitnesses told Motorcycle Officer H. D. Jaynes, who investigated the accident, that Dickson was in no way to blame for the tragedy. The boy had darted from behind an automobile that was parked between the two street intersections near the Lowell school on South Flower street. He was struck to the pavement and run over by the Dickson car, according to the report at police headquarters.

Dickson was not placed under arrest. City Marshal Rogers stated that police investigation of the accident disclosed that he was in no way to blame for the death.

Funeral services were announced for 2 p. m. tomorrow, from Winbigger's Mission funeral home, with the Rev. H. G. Burgess, pastor of the Richmond-avenue Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be made in Fairhaven cemetery.

After these funeral arrangements were announced and since the findings were reported of the boy of one of the Thornton boys, who was Robert's chum, it is thought possible by relatives that the funeral might be delayed so that joint services may be held for both lads.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Reinhardt, son, Aubrey and brother, Herman Reinhardt, of 330 South Flower street, who are leaving here next Saturday to return to their ranch home in Salina, Kansas, were given a surprise farewell party on Tuesday evening, when returning from a drive with Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Norman, they found a large company of friends gathered in their home.

During their absence the rooms had been brightened with flowers. The evening hours were passed with games, both in and out of doors. Delectable refreshments provided by the party consisted of fruit salad, sandwiches, pickles, coffee and cake.

On behalf of the friends, Verne Morris presented Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt with a beautiful silver spoon with a "Santa Ana" handle, by which they will remember their pleasant stay in this city. Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt responded with appreciative remarks.

Those who participated in the event besides Mr. and Mrs. Reinhardt, Aubrey Reinhardt and Herman Reinhardt, were Mr. and Mrs. J. Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Morse, Leo and Lyle Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Vern Morse, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil May, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Baldwin and Marian Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irvin, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Norman and Miss Neva Norman, Mr. and Mrs. Wanda Norman, Mrs. Alice Morse, Mr. and Mrs. E. Smith and Duane Smith, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Swanson and Miss Ruth Swanson of Riverside, William Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Means, Vern and Virginia Means, and Jesse Clerk.

HOLD PILOT WHOSE CAR INJURED GIRL

George Wright, Orange rancher, was arraigned today before Justice of the Peace G. W. Inglis at Orange on a charge of operating an automobile while intoxicated and his trial was set for July 1 at 2 p. m. Miss Opal Stevenson, Santa Ana girl, was injured when the car Wright was driving crashed into a parked car in Santa Ana early this week after a chase from Orange on the part of Motorcycle Officer George Feterkin and City Marshal Jamison of Orange. Miss Stevenson suffered a broken jaw and facial lacerations.

JURY INFORMED OF CAR CRASH BY SISTERS

Description of an automobile collision near El Toro which resulted fatally for Mrs. Stena Duncan, 52, of Montebello, was laid before a jury today in Judge F. C. Drumm's Superior court here, where J. B. Brooks, driver of one of the cars involved in the wreck, was on trial charged with manslaughter.

The jury was selected late yesterday after two days of legal skirmishing by opposing attorneys. The close contesting of every point continued to retard progress today, and court attaches predicted that the trial would not be completed this week.

The Misses Martha and Ruth Duncan, sisters-in-law of the deceased, and her companions at the time of the wreck, testified that the car driven by Brooks was on the wrong side of the highway when the crash took place.

That Brooks' car "suddenly shot out" from its proper side of the road and came directly in front of the Duncan car, then reversed sharply back in an effort to avoid the collision, was the declaration of both sisters.

The serious surface of the court atmosphere was relieved somewhat during the testimony of Miss Ruth Duncan, who said she was rendered unconscious in the crash.

"I saw the other car shooting across the highway in front of us, traveling at very high speed," she said. "That was all I remembered."

"Then for a moment I heard voices. That was a little later and I must have been conscious for that moment. I remember someone flashing a light in my face and saying 'she's dead.'"

"That made me cross and I told them that I was not dead," said the witness, tossing her head, as the spectators smiled.

Third Youth Is Taken in Week As Gun Carrier

Whether a 16-year-old boy arrested at 3:30 a. m. today intended to "stick up" the police station is not known, but the youngster was said to have had his hand on a revolver concealed in a hip pocket when Officer Robert Elliott marched him into the station for investigation.

The lad, who said he had ridden here in a truck from Los Angeles, and who was remanded to juvenile authorities, was arrested when he darted behind a building as Officer Elliott passed the corner of Third and Sycamore streets.

When the boy preceded the officer into the police station, Elliott noticed the youth slide his right hand to his hip pocket. The officer immediately grabbed the lad's arm and removed a .32 revolver from the pocket. This was the third time this week that an asserted runaway boy, armed with a revolver, has been arrested here.

Enrich Your Blood

With This Newer

Form of Iron

For many years physicians and chemists experimented to produce a newer form of iron, like the iron in your blood, because they realized that the old metallic iron often blackened the teeth and upset the stomach. Their examinations proved that three people out of every four were deficient in iron content in the blood and that thousands were weak, sick, nervous, ailing and run-down, and suffering from all sorts of alarming symptoms, when as a matter of fact their trouble was all due to iron starvation of the blood. At last they discovered this newer form of iron, like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples in highly concentrated form. It quickly helps put strength into your muscles and color into your cheeks. Get your doctor to take your red blood count today, then take this newer form of iron known as Nuxated Iron for a few weeks and watch your red blood corpuscles increase; see how much purper and richer your blood becomes; how much stronger you feel, how much more energetic it makes in your nerves. Over 4,000,000 people annually are using Nuxated Iron. Your money will be refunded if you do not obtain satisfactory results. In tablet form only. At all druggists. adv

Betrothals Weddings Receptions

June Announcement To Be Followed By July Wedding

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Semone Thomas and Clyde Otto was made last night at a delightful party given by Miss Gladys Thomas, sister of the bride-to-be, at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Thomas, 914 South Main street.

The announcement was made to the assembled guests when they were seated at one long table at the refreshment hour and was charmingly unique in its plan. A great bluebird's nest centered the table and from it radiated narrow pink ribbons leading to each place. When these were drawn, each guest received a blue bird of happiness. The evening was devoted to answering amusing questions on love and marriage. Also each guest wrote her favorite recipe to be added to the bride-elects special cook-book. Dancing concluded the happy evening.

Miss Thomas admitted that the wedding would be an event of July but retained the secret of the exact date. Guests apprised of the happy event included Mrs. Frank Thomas, Miss Gladys Thomas, Mrs. Harold Bullock and Mrs. Clyde Dearthoff, mother and sisters of the bride, Mesdames Carl Baker, Louise McMillon, Blanche Brown, Eugene Adams, E. E. Martin of Los Angeles, W. S. Decker, Levi Halderman, Virginia Thompson, Fielders of Corona, the Misses Marguerite Wallace, of Long Beach, Joan Blake, Gladys Blake, Rose Leiberman, Elsa Steffens, Lydia Davis and "Billy" Walters.

Efficiency Club

Members of the Efficiency club of the Southern Counties Gas company today continued discussion of features of the annual outing meeting of the organization held Tuesday evening at Orange County park. One hundred and twenty-five men and women were present to enjoy the pleasures of the evening.

Arriving at the park a little after 6 p. m. the employees of the company were "parked" on the benches paralleling two of the long tables provided for accommodation of picnic parties, and were served with dinner, the menu including cold roast pork, salads and other good things to eat.

Arrangements for the affair were in charge of C. L. Hinkle, Thomas Allender, George Allender and H. G. Miller. Members of the club assisted in serving.

At conclusion of the dinner, a group of the members entertained the park and its patrons by singing a number of popular songs. The evening was concluded with dancing in the pavilion, music being furnished by the Chapman orchestra of four pieces. By courtesy of the club, members of family groups and other organizations of Santa Ana and Orange picnicking at the park, were privileged to participate in the dance.

Bigamist Suspect Under $2000 Bail

Preliminary hearing of George L. Gorman on a bigamy charge being set for June 30 at 2 p. m., in Justice Jack Landell's court here, Gorman was held in the county jail in default of $2000 bail.

Gorman, recently extradited here from Phoenix, Ariz., was charged with having married Helen Kellogg of Santa Ana, while legally wed to Leona Bishop of Los Angeles.

City Engineer With Staff, Engineers Grun on Hunt

"When is a grun hunt not a grun hunt?" today propounded city hall employees, of the staff of the city engineer's office, to be met with the logical reply "when no grun are found," which effectively silenced further comments on a merry party staged at Huntington Beach last night when the succulent little fish didn't figure on the program but other delightful things did.

W. G. Knox, city engineer, with Mrs. Knox and their little daughter Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. De Witt Dudley and small son Jimmie, Mr. and Mrs. L. Loucks, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Jenken, with Mrs. Jenken's sister, Miss Josephine Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fletcher, Miss Catherine Voorhees, and her house-guest, Miss Dolores Rich of Los Angeles, Miss Janey Wilde and Messrs. Charles Wollaston and Vernon Cruzen completed the group of merry-makers who began the evening's fun with a swim in the plunge at the beach city.

This was followed by a delightful picnic supper enjoyed on the sands and succeeded in turn by a patrolling of the shore in search of the elusive grun. Not being successful, the party repaired to the pavilion where dancing was enjoyed during the remainder of the evening.

Newly Wedded Couple To Enter Berkeley In September

Following the recent betrothal announcement of Miss Pauline Carman and Hugh Warren Haley, a succession of delightful engagement festivities honoring them, was the pretty marriage ceremony of the youthful pair Tuesday night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carman, 501 East Walnut street.

Only the near relatives of the young people were included in the limited list of wedding guests who gathered in the beautifully decorated home for the 7 o'clock ceremony at which the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock of the Congregational church, officiated.

Roses and carnations in varying tints of pink predominated in the floral scheme with quantities of fernery as a background.

Miss Carman was charming in a gown of powder-blue canton crepe and wore a corsage of pink rosebuds, white sweet peas and maidenhair fern. She was accompanied by Mr. Haley's sister, Miss Margaret Haley, who wore a pretty maid of honor costume of soft, sand-colored crepe. Herbert Melsinger served Mr. Haley as best man.

Following the nuptial service the wedding party and guests gathered in the pretty dining-room where ices and cake were served ere the young Mr. and Mrs. Haley departed on a motor honeymoon to parts unknown. Mrs. Haley added a becoming little white hat to her outfit, completing the pleasing effect of the blue frock with white gloves and slippers.

The summer will be spent in Santa Ana but in the fall Mr. Haley and his bride plan to enter Berkeley there to complete courses being in Santa Ana High school and Junior college. Mr. Haley was a college student this year while Mrs. Haley returned to high school for post-graduate work here. She was a member of the 1923 graduating class.

Guests at their charming wedding were Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Haley, their daughter, Miss Margaret Haley and Mrs. Haley's father, Mr. O'Connor, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Carman and Mrs. M. J. Hoffman, parents and grandmother of the bride; Mrs. Helen McCollum and Mrs. D. C. Mattocks of San Francisco, her sisters and her brother, and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Carman with wee Carol-Jeanne McCollum.

Laguna Beach Guest Scores Highest at Bridge Luncheon

Characterized by a quiet smartness which ever seems to mark her entertaining, was the bridge luncheon given Tuesday by Miss Rosa Boyd at her home, 801 North Main street, when four tables were utilized.

The delicate pastel colorings of hydrangeas, now in the glory of their blooming, were complemented by other equally decorative flowers in the same soft tones. A daintily appetizing summer luncheon menu was served at the small tables where bridge was later enjoyed.

Miss Lolita Perine of Laguna Beach was fortunate holder of high score, thus receiving the attractive first prize while guest prize went to Mrs. Gray, here as the guest of her sister, Miss Katherine Edwards, and Mrs. Robert Simons was consoled.

Mrs. Robert Reid and Miss Edwards assisted Miss Boyd in her hostess duties.

Merry Outing At County Park

The employees of the Santa Ana Iron works were given a half day holiday Tuesday and accompanied by their families hied them away at one o'clock to beautiful Orange county park, where all sorts of festivities were programmed.

Witnessed by a company of sixty-five excited fans, the Iron Workers won a baseball game with the team from the Julia C. Lathrop Junior high school. Barnyard golf was also a diversion.

At 6:30 o'clock the merry-makers had their appetites well whetted for a sumptuous feast of chicken, turkey and all the accessories.

The evening hours were happily whittled away with dancing, the excellent music being furnished by the Sargent orchestra.

S. A. Women's Club

With her characteristic gracious hospitality, Mrs. Anna Vandermast welcomed the members of the Santa Ana Woman's club Tuesday afternoon at her South Birch street home where a miscellaneous program was presented in place of the address scheduled to be given by Mrs. E. E. Knight of Yorba Linda, county president.

A wedding in Mrs. Knight's home, made necessary the change in her plans but the afternoon was carried through to a successful finish despite the disappointment. Mrs. F. H. Finney presided with her usual quiet charm and Mrs. C. H. Stanley played the piano accompaniment for community singing of "America." Mrs. William Whitehead led in the reading of the "kum kum" and play with "Italy," "Sadie," "Rally," "Deany" and "Treny" and "Rally."

While the afternoon was devoted to fun, fast and furious, and all the games of childhood in which the be-ruffled little girls joined, it was with the utmost reverence that a favorite childish song, "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam" was sung in the brief devotional service, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Ryall.

In a very short business session it was announced that there would be no July meeting and then members joined in the enjoyment of a childish program opening with "Little Orphan Annie" read by Mrs. Ruddy followed by a piano exercise, "Little Brighteyes," cleverly played (with one finger) by Mrs. Lee.

"Little Dandelion" a delightful motion song, was given by the hostess group after which the supreme event of the evening came as a surprise "hospital" shower honoring Miss Jennie Lasby whose early vacation days will be spent in a hospital where she will undergo a minor operation.

The astronomical studies of the horoscope inspired a clever poem by Mrs. Earl Morris, which was accompanied by a pantomime showing how the heavens paid obeisance to Miss Lasby's mentality. The Milky Way, Orion, the Pleiades, Ursa Major and Ursa Minor were shown in turn, together with the planets and a comet or two. All were cleverly depicted and kept the onlookers in gales of merriment. Miss Lasby was then blindfolded and told to search for the pot of gold at the end of a rainbow surmounting the scene where the pantomime was given.

Her search was rewarded, for the pot of gold contained the shower gifts, all designed to brighten her hospital stay with golden thoughts of loving friends.

Suitable refreshments of animal cookies, ice cream, cake and other dainties beloved by children, were served at tables adorned with countless yellow flowers in keeping with the sunshine nature of the afternoon and the general decorative effect. Amusing riddles added to the merriment of the refreshment hour.

Birds have two flying speeds—a normal rate which is used for everyday purposes and for migration, and an accelerated speed which is used for protection or pursuit. Chocolate and cocoa stains may be removed by borax and cold water, or by bleaching if necessary.

Plans were completed for the final festivity of the year, the club picnic at Birch park, Tuesday, June 24 with a mid-day luncheon.

Gardens Yield Bloom For Home Wedding At Sunset Hour

A beautiful sunset wedding amid a bower of summer blossoms occurred last night at the George W. Bartlett home, 1059 West Third street when their niece, Miss Nora McCune became the bride of Philip Lalonde, well-known young business man of this city.

The beautiful floral decorations of the Bartlett home were arranged by the hostess and Mrs. C. O. Neff, their garden yielding a wealth of bloom for the event. The Rev. F. T. Porter read the impressive marriage service just at 6 o'clock.

Miss McCune was charming in a gown of grey silk crepe with harmonizing accessories, and carried an arm sheaf of brides' roses. She was attended to the improvised altar by Miss Alma Lalonde, sister of the groom, gown in broad silk in the soft sand shades. Miss Lalonde carried an army cluster of pink roses.

Mr. Lalonde was assisted by Clayton Bartlett, the bride's cousin, as best man. Following the beautiful ring ceremony, the guests who comprised relatives and a few dear friends, were directed to the dining-room where they were interested in the display of the many handsome gifts of silver, china and linen. Ice cream, cake and punch were served, the new Mrs. Lalonde cutting the bride's cake with a pretty flourish.

At 7 o'clock the happy pair left for a shower of rice and good wishes for a motor honeymoon to be spent in the north. Among those gathered for the pretty wedding and the reception were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McCune of San Diego, the sole out-of-town guests.

After the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Lalonde will be at home to their many friends at 925 North Olive street where a pretty home is all in readiness for their arrival.

Their wedding is the second for June among the ranks of the clerical workers at the Orange County Trust and Savings bank, where Miss McCune has been one of the popular employees ever since her arrival in Santa Ana a year ago. A bride of a fortnight ago, Miss Bernice Ramsey who wedded Mr. Virgil Whitman was one of her sister workers. The two were the object of many delightful pre-nuptial courtesies on the part of their friends.

Philathea Class

"Will I ask you mother if I can kum to our party in the baptist church today?" read the invitations to a happily planned "Kum party" which a group of Philathea class members gave that afternoon to the rest of the class who obligingly followed instructions to "kum to kumtum" and play with "Italy," "Sadie," "Rally," "Deany" and "Treny" and "Rally."

While the afternoon was devoted to fun, fast and furious, and all the games of childhood in which the be-ruffled little girls joined, it was with the utmost reverence that a favorite childish song, "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam" was sung in the brief devotional service, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Ryall.

Charmingly Appointed Were All Details of Afternoon Nuptials

A long series of delightful betrothal events with showers and parties galore, culminated yesterday afternoon in one of the loveliest weddings of the month when Miss Vivyan McFarren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fenner McFarren, 812 East Chestnut street and Dr. Harry G. Huffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Huffman, took their wedding vows in the presence of a little group of relatives and close friends.

Orchid and yellow were chosen as the dominant decorative theme and the lovely McFarren home was like a summer garden with the wealth of massed gladioli, Scotch broom and other lovely flowers of the season.

Arranged against a background of tall baskets of snowy gladioli was a lace-draped archway surmounted with a great bow of yellow tulle and festooned with smilax and flowers. There the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. William Everett Roberts, awaited the coming of the bride party who entered the room to the strains of Lohengrin played by Mrs. C. B. Gorman of Anaheim. The ceremony was preceded by a song recital by Mrs. Arthur Arnold May who sweetly sang Bertrand Brown's "All For You" and Carrie Jacobs Bond's "I Love You Truly."

A group of small nieces and nephews of the bride were given prominent part holding the long sash ribbons which formed a ribboned way for the bride. They were small Genevieve and Lenora McFarren in fairy-like frocks of crepe de chine, one wearing orchid, the other yellow, with cunning hats to correspond, and Masters James and Bruce Crawford in snowy white.

Mrs. Earl Abbey as matron of honor, wore a beautiful gown of yellow Canton crepe, lace trimmed and carried pink rosebuds. Two bridesmaids followed, Mrs. Virgil Gail McFarren in orchid crepe de chine with shell-pink sweet peas and Miss Esther Osborn in blue crepe de chine with deep pink sweet peas. Matron of honor and bridesmaids alike, wore silver bandeaus in their hair.

Miss McFarren's vivid brunette beauty found its perfect setting in her bridal gown of white satin with lace banding. Her long veil fell from a silver bandeau to her silver shoe feet. Her flowers were orchids with lilies of the valley in shower effect.

She entered upon the arm of her father who chose a rosebud for his boutonniere. Dr. Huffman selecting a spray of lilies of the valley and his best man, Arthur Arnold May, a spray of sweet peas. The bride and Mr. May met the bride at the altar and at the proper place in the full ceremony of the Presbyterian church, Mr. McFarren relinquished his daughter to the keeping of the young physician.

Following the ceremony, way was led to the dining-room where table and buffet were banked with orchid and pink sweet peas and Scotch broom, and where ices in the form of wedding bells and slippers were served with individual cakes frosted in orchid and yellow and bride's cake cut with much ceremony by the young Mrs. Huffman. Punch was ladled from a handsome bowl of china which Mrs. Huffman, sr. had painted a number of years ago and held in reserve for the happy occasion of her son's marriage.

Other bits of charming ceremony connected with the nuptials was the bride's choice of her mother's pearls as the "something borrowed" for adornment. Also the tossing of the bride's bouquet which was caught by her sorority sister, Miss Lucy Bowers of Los Angeles.

Mrs. McFarren as she greeted the guests, was stately and charming in soft black satin with which she wore a corsage presented by the bridegroom, and combining the flowers of the entire bridal party, roses, sweet peas and valley lilies.

While the afternoon was devoted to fun, fast and furious, and all the games of childhood in which the be-ruffled little girls joined, it was with the utmost reverence that a favorite childish song, "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam" was sung in the brief devotional service, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Ryall.

While the guests regaled themselves in the dining-room, Mrs. Huffman changed to her traveling suit, a smart little sport costume of sand-colored "Molly-O" satin with cape, hat and other accessories to correspond. The costume had a touch of her favorite red in bits of trimming Frenchly applied. Dr. Huffman's small coupe was drawn up in the driveway in suggestive manner and had been adorned with a profusion of old shoes and banners by interested friends who failed to learn that Mrs. Crawford's big car was reposing in a neighboring garage with all the luggage the newlyweds were taking on their honeymoon trip, safely stowed in the tonneau.

Pointed out of the garage, it was all ready for a flying start on the northward trip and the laughing pair were safely away before their friends realized they had been cheated out of their fun. The honeymoon will be spent in San Francisco and other northern cities and upon their return, Dr. and Mrs. Huffman will be located for the time being at the Meyers apartments.

Dr. Huffman, a graduate from Medical University of Nebraska, a member of Alpha Beta Upsilon fraternity and an honorary member of the state medical board, has practiced in Santa Ana for the past two years. His bride, originally a Michigan girl, started her college work at the Michigan State Normal school, completing it at University of California, Southern Branch, where she graduated in 1921. She is a member of Alpha Beta Psi society, did work in the Mexican schools of the city has been pronouncedly successful.

She is prominent in school, Eastern Star and social circles and has been one of the most feted of the June brides ever since the lovely rainbow announcement of her engagement, made by Dr. Huffman's cousin, Mrs. May, as a May party.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included the bride's sister, Mrs. George B. Crawford and sons, Donald, Bruce, James and Robert of Pocatello, Idaho; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wilson and son Dale of Shepherd, Mich.; Miss Lucy K. Bowers, Miss Beatrice Julia Baldridge, of Los Angeles; Miss Martha Wirtek, Mr. and Mrs. F. Maycock and son Earl Maycock with his small son Devone; Miss Jessie R. Boyd, Los Angeles; Mrs. E. P. Miller, Riverside.

Two-Piece Jantzen, $6.75

Knights of Pythias

The Knights of Pythias, Santa Ana Lodge No. 149, met last evening in regular session when after the dispatch of official business, the conferring of ranks was administered by Master of Work Fred Wright and staff.

The ranks of Page and Knight were conferred the same evening and the efficiency evinced, demonstrated high technique and a well organized staff of workers. A large attendance was noted and the guest of the evening was Fred H. Jones, grand prolate, who spoke at length on the good of the order.

With the present influx of newcomers striving for membership, the lodge bids fair to become in the very near future, one of the strongest and most popular lodges in the Southland.

Following the ceremony, way was led to the dining-room where table and buffet were banked with orchid and pink sweet peas and Scotch broom, and where ices in the form of wedding bells and slippers were served with individual cakes frosted in orchid and yellow and bride's cake cut with much ceremony by the young Mrs. Huffman. Punch was ladled from a handsome bowl of china which Mrs. Huffman, sr. had painted a number of years ago and held in reserve for the happy occasion of her son's marriage.

Other bits of charming ceremony connected with the nuptials was the bride's choice of her mother's pearls as the "something borrowed" for adornment. Also the tossing of the bride's bouquet which was caught by her sorority sister, Miss Lucy Bowers of Los Angeles.

Mrs. McFarren as she greeted the guests, was stately and charming in soft black satin with which she wore a corsage presented by the bridegroom, and combining the flowers of the entire bridal party, roses, sweet peas and valley lilies.

While the afternoon was devoted to fun, fast and furious, and all the games of childhood in which the be-ruffled little girls joined, it was with the utmost reverence that a favorite childish song, "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam" was sung in the brief devotional service, followed by a prayer by Mrs. Ryall.

In a very short business session it was announced that there would be no July meeting and then members joined in the enjoyment of a childish program opening with "Little Orphan Annie" read by Mrs. Ruddy followed by a piano exercise, "Little Brighteyes," cleverly played (with one finger) by Mrs. Lee.

"Little Dandelion" a delightful motion song, was given by the hostess group after which the supreme event of the evening came as a surprise "hospital" shower honoring Miss Jennie Lasby whose early vacation days will be spent in a hospital where she will undergo a minor operation.

The astronomical studies of the horoscope inspired a clever poem by Mrs. Earl Morris, which was accompanied by a pantomime showing how the heavens paid obeisance to Miss Lasby's mentality. The Milky Way, Orion, the Pleiades, Ursa Major and Ursa Minor were shown in turn, together with the planets and a comet or two. All were cleverly depicted and kept the onlookers in gales of merriment. Miss Lasby was then blindfolded and told to search for the pot of gold at the end of a rainbow surmounting the scene where the pantomime was given.

Her search was rewarded, for the pot of gold contained the shower gifts, all designed to brighten her hospital stay with golden thoughts of loving friends.

Plans were completed for the final festivity of the year, the club picnic at Birch park, Tuesday, June 24 with a mid-day luncheon.

"I have been operating a four passenger sport model Buick since March 15th, 1923, with a total mileage of 11,600 miles to February 22nd, 1924. During all of that time I have used exclusively ARISTO Oil with the following results: I have not had one thing done to the motor, not even the spark plugs cleaned. Removed them at one time to see if they needed cleaning. Have had no mechanical trouble in any way, which I attribute very largely to the lubricating qualities of the ARISTO Oil." (Name on Request)

No "Carbon"

For 11,000 Miles—see what users say

Though all motor oils deposit a carbonaceous residue, there is a vital difference in the kind and quantity which various oils leave in the motor.

That from many oils is hard and flinty. It accumulates rapidly and must be removed every 2000 to 4000 miles.

It becomes incandescent, pre-igniting the gas and causing "knocking."

It lodges under valves and prevents tight seating, which dissipates the power.

It attaches to spark plugs and short circuits the spark which results in "missing."

And its flint-like character makes it an abrasive which may score cylinders if left too long.

A Different "Carbon"

Aristo Motor Oil deposits a different kind of residue.

It is soft and fluffy. Most of it, therefore, blows out with the exhaust.

It accumulates about one-quarter as fast as flinty "carbon."

It isn't an abrasive so it cannot scratch.

It rarely fouls spark plugs, or impairs valve actions.

And it provides scientific lubrication to insure protection to your motor.

We print testimonials from Aristo users, such as that above, to let you know the experiences that others have with this oil.

Note the mileage without "carbon" interference. Don't you want to try an oil like this?

ALLEGED MOVIE DEATH VICTIM FOUND ALIVE

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Disproving the story of a convicted prisoner in the county jail that Count Miguel Escoto, Spanish nobleman, had been slain because of his friendship for a well known motion picture actress, the asserted victim, known also as Mario Escobar, was located by detectives in a rooming house here yesterday.

Brought face to face with Morris Nodder, the prisoner who claimed to have witnessed the killing, Escoto's identity was assured and relatives of the actress's husband, accused of plotting the Spaniard's death, were released from custody.

Barbara La Marr, the "too beautiful girl," is the actress for whom, Nodder claimed, Escoto was scheduled to die.

Jack Daugherty, latest husband of the actress, was alleged to be jealous of the Spaniard's attentions to Miss La Marr, while a relative of Daugherty's was named as implicated in the plot to do away with the Latin suitor.

Victim of Attacks. Located early today, after a search which engaged scores of detectives and newspaper men, Escoto proved to be very much alive. He declared, however, that during recent weeks he had been the victim of two mysterious attacks in which he was almost killed.

"I was nearly beaten to death twice," the count said, "and each time I am sure it was over a love motive. The last time made me so sick I was confined to my bed for six weeks. Perhaps this is what caused the man to think I had been killed."

Woven from Escoto's reported story is the allegation that he first met the other principals in the story on a boat southbound from San Francisco. "We met socially as persons traveling upon boats will do," he said. "The woman was charming, and I danced and conversed with her. I gave her my card. Her husband found my card in her purse, and I understand a scene followed, for no reason whatever."

"Several days after our arrival in Los Angeles, I met them again. Once I met the wife while strolling in Westlake park. We talked and walked together. I thought nothing of it. Shortly after my troubles began, I was warned to leave the country, and when I did not do so, was attacked."

Escoto, admitting more wealth of blood than money, has been in Hollywood for some months, attempting to forge ahead in motion pictures. Thus far, he admitted, he has had but little success, but perhaps with this romantic incident to publicize him, his future is assured.

BARBARA DENIES KNOWING "MURDER" VICTIM. NEW YORK, June 19.—Miss Barbara La Marr, screen star, told the United Press she never heard of Count Miguel Escoto, who was declared by a prisoner at Los Angeles to have been murdered for love of her.

Oil Workers Have Grunion Hunt But No Fish Secured

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—Members of the local Oil Workers' Union and Women's auxiliary last night held their grunion bake and grunion hunt on the sand near the foot of Twenty-third street. Between seventy-five and one hundred people were present. Despite the fact that no fish were caught by the party a fine time was enjoyed in playing games on the beach.

NAMES OF FILM FOLK IN L. A. POISON CASE

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Receiving hospital records yesterday held the name of "John Smith" as having been treated for an overdose of veronal. "Smith" was brought there in a police ambulance late yesterday, and was followed later by "Mrs. Lulu Smith," who drove up in an expensive limousine.

The car bore a license number registered in the name of Ora Carey, film actress, and witnesses said "Mrs. Lulu Smith" bore a strong resemblance to the face which has often appeared on the screen. "Smith" it was rumored, looked for all the world like John C. Howard, her wealthy young husband.

The striking similarity recalled a recent incident in which a speeding machine was driven down a Hollywood street with a woman and man as passengers, while the woman screamed lustily for help. Police reported the pair was Howard and his wife, and said they explained the disturbance as a little private misunderstanding of their own.

Huntington Beach

GRUNION EXPECTED TO RUN AT BEACHES AGAIN TONIGHT FEW CATCHES ARE REPORTED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—Despite the fact that thousands of people have thronged the beach in search of the tiny, succulent grunion during the past two nights comparatively small catches have been made. Rough water was blamed for the lack of fish last night. Even a larger crowd is expected to throng the beach tonight on the last of the three night runs, and general predictions are that large catches will be made. Few fish have been caught during the past two nights.

To those who have never enjoyed the thrills of catching the fish the sight of hundreds of camp fires on the beach are said to full compensation. The camp fires here during the past two nights and whenever grunion run have resembled a huge military camp of the old days, according to reports.

Business people along the ocean front and pike claim that business during the nights that the grunion are supposed to run, excels that of the daytimes. One firm reported that more sales were made from 7 p. m. to 11 p. m. than they had made during the entire day from early morning to evening.

BATHING SUIT PARADE IS PLANNED

Entire County May Be Asked to Send Fairest Daughters to Vie

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—Plans are under way here for the staging of a bathing suit parade in the near future. That city officials will help in the staging of the parade became known here when considerable rivalry was noticed early this morning between Charles G. Boster and James Macklin of the city council for the office of bathing suit inspector.

Details for the parade are as yet to be worked out. Whether the parade will be limited to home town girls or whether it will be thrown open to outside girls will be a question to be decided at a later date.

During the past few years the local Oil Workers' Union has staged a successful bathing parade on the local beach. Last year the parade was thrown open to members of the union who resided in Orange county.

A committee from the city council as well as numerous business men are understood to be working on the matter of holding the parade here. The parade will in itself be one of the biggest drawing cards of the season, it is pointed out. Many local girls have declared their intention of entering the contest.

In connection with the bathing parade, it is understood that the local life guard corps, including Harry Lee, life guard, and a number of his proteges, Delbert "Bud" Higgins, Cecil Jenks, and others will stage a life saving demonstration in the surf. They will give the public a thrill as they row the local life boat over the huge swells in going out through the breakers. Jenks and Higgins, both of whom passed the life guard examination given at Long Beach last year, were today being hailed as heroes after hauling two men from certain death under the pier here recently. The boys did not secure the names of the men and the entire affair was kept quiet. The men were said to have been drawn under the pier and were hanging to the pilings when rescued by the young swimmers.

TWO MEETINGS OF BRIDGE CLUB HELD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—Entertaining in her usual delightful manner, Mrs. L. F. Gates of this city was the hostess Monday evening to the members of the Original Bridge Club at her home on Ocean avenue. The occasion was made doubly attractive by the fact that it assumed the role of a surprise birthday party in honor of Mrs. Gates' mother, Mrs. S. C. Adair of Los Angeles.

Early in the evening the guests gathered about the large table graced with pretty decorations of roses and ferns. Occupying the center of the table was a huge birthday cake lighted by fifty-nine candles, one candle for each anniversary. After the dinner cards were the center of attraction. The first honors for the evening were carried off by Mrs. Al O'Brien.

The regular meeting of the club was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Miller of Orange avenue. The Miller home was beautifully decorated, the color scheme being carried out in yellow roses and pansies. Mrs. L. F. Gates won the first prize at bridge. Those present on both occasions were Mrs. S. C. Adair, honoree of the party given by Mrs. Gates, Mrs. A. M. Anderson, Mrs. J. W. Bennie, Mrs. John I. Hinkle, Mrs. H. T. Dunning, Mrs. J. H. Macklin, Mrs. George Miles, Mrs. Al O'Brien, Mrs. Joseph Vavra, Miss Alva Hinkle, Mrs. L. F. Gates, and Mrs. George Miller. Mrs. Horace Evans attended the party yesterday and Mrs. Frances Merrick of San Antonio, Texas, was a special guest at the Gates home Monday evening.

Popular Baker to Wed Ontario Girl At Ceremony Today

MR. AND MRS. TRAVIS LACKEY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—The marriage of Miss Dorothy Shultz and Travis Lackey of this city at the home of the bride's foster parents in Ontario is scheduled to take place this afternoon. It became known here today. Young Travis is a popular young baker who is employed at the John Easter bakery on Main street. He has made his home here for the past eight months. Miss Shultz is at present living with her foster parents at Ontario.

Directly after the wedding ceremony the happy young couple will leave on a honeymoon for parts unknown. They will be gone about one week. Mr. and Mrs. Lackey will make their home in this city.

SOLOS TO FEATURE CONCERT BY BAND

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—Remodeled seats with backs, a bulletin of the band program, new bunting on the band stand, and several solo numbers, both vocal and instrumental, will greet the public at the band concert given by the local Municipal band here Sunday afternoon at 2:30 p. m.

Saxophone solos by William Parmer, and vocal solos by Will H. Gallienne will feature the afternoon performance. One of the largest crowds in the history of the beach has been in the band play here last Sunday afternoon, and it is expected that another record breaking crowd will throng the beach here Sunday.

The program: March—"Colossus of Columbia"—Russell Alexander. Overture—"Norma"—V. Bellini. Waltz—"Gold and Silver"—Fraz Lehar.

Serenade—"The Chapel in the Mountains"—G. D. Wilson. Intermission. Selection—"The Blue and Gray"—C. W. Dalbey.

MORE SEALS PICK PIER FOR FROLIC

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—"Vengeance is mine." If seals could talk this is what they would probably be saying today.

Following reports of dead seals floating in upon the beach near here, the sea animals have been playing about the local pier, spoiling the fishing to a large extent. E. L. Curtis, proprietor of the fishing tackle stand at the end of the pier, has equipped himself with a shotgun and seals are instantly peppered with shot the moment they appear. Despite this fact, they persist in spoiling the sport of the local fishermen as if they were indeed securing vengeance for their dead companions.

However, it is stated by Curtis that the seals seldom stay long about one pier. The choppy sea during the past two days has not increased catches of fish. Fishing has not been entirely spoiled, however, for what fish have been landed have been of the record breaking variety. Sam Isom, city employee, landed the largest edible fish of the year off the pier here yesterday when he pulled in a 14-pound halibut. Several four and five-pound bass, and numerous sea trout, spot fin, and mackerel, as well as herring and smelt, have been caught during the past few days.

Mrs. Carolyn Clark of Omaha, Neb., who is spending some time here visiting with friends, proved the old adage of "beginner's luck" here yesterday when she landed a five-pound calico bass, the largest of its kind to be caught this year. It was the first time Mrs. Clark had ever fished in the ocean.

Harvey Walker of this city is leading in the race for the $10 reel offered for the largest surf fish, his spot fin weighing six pounds ten ounces. O. E. Sievers leads the shark race with a sting-ray weighing 25 pounds.

PERSONAL NOTES OF BEACH PEOPLE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Young and family of Long Beach are recent arrivals in this city. Mr. Young is engaged in the automobile business here. They will make their home at 220 Fifteenth street during the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Dixon of Costa Mesa are recent arrivals in this city. They intend to make their permanent home here.

Mrs. Horace Evans and family are spending some time visiting at the homes of friends and relatives here. Mrs. Evans is from the east.

D. W. Huston of this city left yesterday for a week's vacation at Elinore Hot Springs.

Initiation of new members will feature the meeting of the Oil Workers' Auxiliary here Thursday night. The meeting will be held at the Odd Fellows hall.

Nearly 150 people were present at the big Moose dance held at the pavilion here Tuesday night. "Shorty" Speers' orchestra, a new one at the dance hall, provided the music for the evening.

NOTICE Smart & Final Co. will close their place of business all day next Saturday, June 21st, account annual picnic at Laguna Beach. Saturday's deliveries will be made on Friday afternoon.

Says Ordinary Buttermilk Best For Freckles, Sunburn and Tan

Advises Old Time Recipe of Buttermilk Cream in a New Way—A Gentle Massage with Fingers Before Retiring Is All That Is Necessary.

Buttermilk and Cream—Simple Remedies Best—Keeps Face, Hands and Arms in Excellent Condition—Soft, Smooth and Beautiful

The old-time application of Buttermilk and Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove harsh little wrinkles and ugly sallowness is grandmother's recipe and women throughout the country are again using it to ensure a beautiful complexion and snow-white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtainable, but a specialist has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it with a perfect cream, which you can buy in small quantities ready to use at any first class drug store by simply asking for "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream.

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just a common ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream. That's all. Howard's Buttermilk Cream gently massaged with the finger tips around the corners of the eyes and mouth.

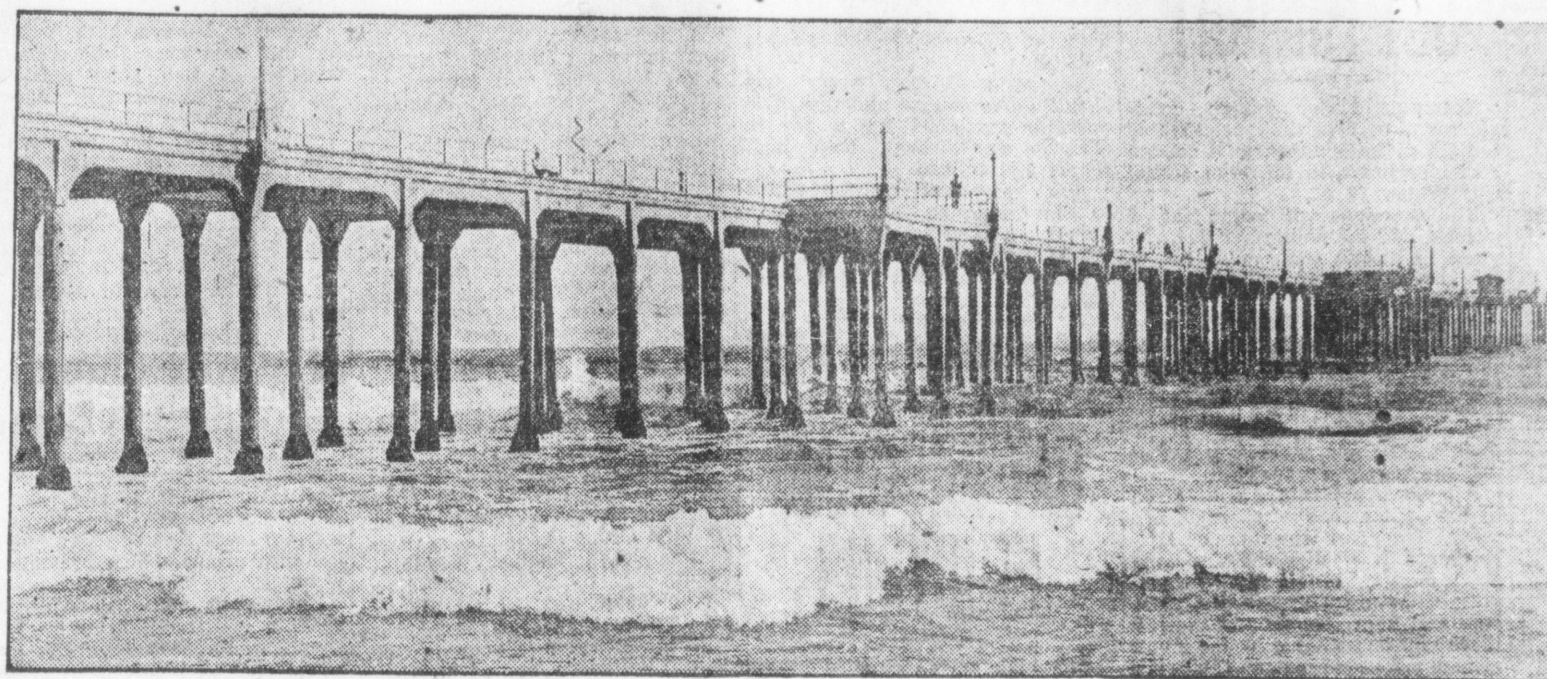

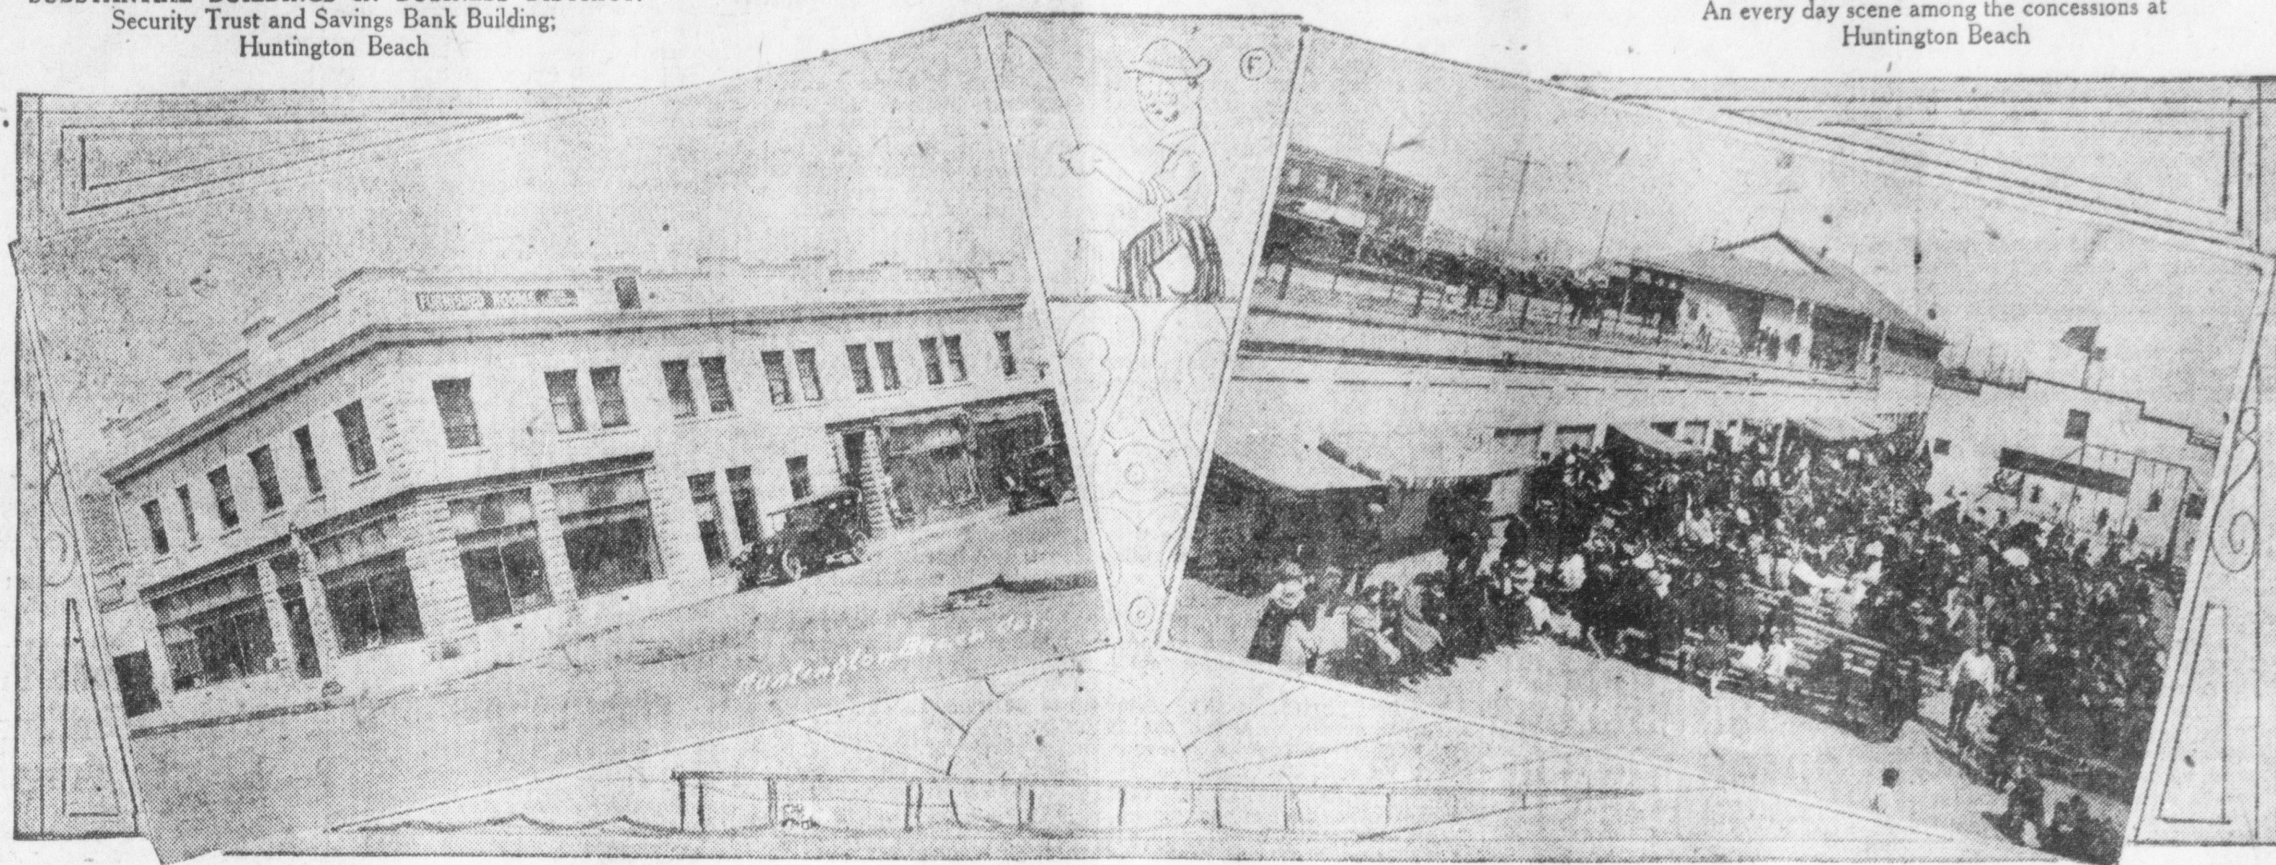

To get the best effect, be sure to follow the simple directions. Druggists guarantee a noticeable improvement after the first application or they will refund the money.

244 JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES ARE AWARDED DIPLOMAS; DUTIES TOLD

"Because our civilization is growing more complex every day, there is a greater demand upon the powers of the individual and a more exacting training is required."

This, the Rev. George A. Francis, pastor of the Baptist church of Orange, told the graduating classes from the two junior high schools here, in his commencement address made here last night at the high school auditorium.

Two hundred forty-four graduates, seated on the stage, heard a stirring discourse on the lightning changes in the customs, business, thought and social life of the world of today and the increasing responsibilities of young persons.

"The farmer must be a chemist," the speaker stated, "and the horsebreeder must now be able to tread a tire. The teacher of simple arithmetic must be able to compute calculus."

"It is the duty of society to train boys and girls today so that they will be equal to the strenuous and intricate life they must meet. It is increasingly incumbent upon students to realize the necessity of their concentration upon obtaining this training."

Musical Numbers.
"You live in an age of ceaseless change, and you must be able to follow the change in order to meet life's problems squarely and successfully."

His address was preceded by a number given by the Julia C. Lathrop orchestra and an invocation, read by the Rev. H. G. Burgess of the Richmond avenue, Methodist church. Two selections were given by the Frances E. Willard glee club. They were "Tally-Ho," by F. Leoni and "June Rhapsody," by W. Daniels. A flute solo, "Last Rose of Summer," was played by Harvey French, who was accompanied by Miss Mary Bruner.

Following the address, there was a vocal solo "One Spring Morning," Ethelbert Nevin, sung by Miss Virginia Bailey of the Frances E. Willard school.

Presentation of the graduating classes by the two principals was of interest, as figures showing the unprecedented size of the classes were given.

W. S. Kellogg, principal of the Frances E. Willard school, presented his class of an even one hundred, and announced that ninety-eight of those would enter the senior high school next semester.

Award Honor Pins.
After reading the names of the graduates from "the Frances E. Willard school, Kellogg announced that Miss Eleanor Crookshank and Miss Elizabeth Mater were entitled to wear gold honor pins, their having been members of the school honor society for four years.

H. G. Nelson, principal of the Julia C. Lathrop school, read the names of 144 graduates from his school and announced that gold honor pins were worn by Gail Jordan, David Roberts, Miss Eleanor Turner, Miss Justina Palmer, Miss Helen O'Brien, Miss Janet Wilson and Miss Beryl Sabin.

As the girls graduated, in their fluffy dresses of organdie in pastel shades, and the boys, in their contrasting dark suits crossed the stage, they made an inspiring picture for the large audience of proud parents and friends, who watched with interest and pleasure the presentation of diplomas by J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools.

ton cited that there were 467 students to be graduated from the three city institutions this week.

Present Kiwanis Cups.
"This is the largest number on record in the city," Cranston said, in commenting on the fact that the high school stage, which had been "built for the future," was filled to its utmost capacity by members of the graduating class.

Following the awarding of diplomas, Cranston presented two silver cups, one to Harvey Baer of the Julia C. Lathrop school, and one to Lloyd Velarde of the Frances E. Willard school.

These cups were awarded by the Kiwanis club of this city to the boy in each school who should be pronounced the best all-around athlete and show also a fine attitude toward his school work and loyalty to his school.

Students and friends applauded heartily as these two athletes and good students were given the tokens of their achievement and fitness.

The singing of "America" and the giving of the flag salute by the graduating classes completed the program.

WILLARD CLASS PLAY PROVES GREAT SUCCESS

Congratulations have been pouring in upon Miss Florence Pixley, English teacher in Frances E. Willard junior high school, and the members of the cast that Tuesday afternoon presented "Tatty, Saved the Day" as a part of the class day exercises of the graduating class. Those who witnessed the play were unanimous in their praise of the results gained by Miss Pixley with the student cast. Miss Loreta Spangler proved a very winsome and natural "leading lady." However, with every member of the cast letter perfect in lines and at ease and successful in presentation, praise was given all equally.

Those who took part were: Ellen Ralston, Loreta Spangler, Clarine Palmer, Barbara Goodrich, Mabel Robertson, Virginia Rice, Clarence Sprague, Terry Stephenson and LeRoy Gray.

Mourn Villa Park Former Conductor

The community in the vicinity of Villa Park today still was in mourning for D. B. Waite, aged 42, a rancher of that section, who died of a heart disease at the Anaheim hospital, early Sunday. Funeral services were held Monday from the Backs, Terry and Campbell parlors, Anaheim, and the body was taken to Los Angeles for cremation.

Having served as a Pacific Electric conductor, until four years ago, on the trains operated between Santa Ana and Los Angeles, and Santa Ana and Orange, Mr. Waite had made scores of friends. His parents, who lived at Ackley, Ia., arrived at the bedside in response to a message, a few hours after death had occurred.

A widow and three children survive. The former is a sister of Dr. Roy Horton of Santa Ana.

JUNIOR COLLEGE GRADUATION IS SET TONIGHT

Thirty-six junior college graduates will receive their certificates tonight at the eighth annual college commencement, in the high school auditorium.

The exercises will begin at 8 o'clock, and the public has been invited to attend the graduation of the largest class from the local institution.

The Rev. Walter Thornton, pastor of the First Christian church of Fullerton, will deliver the commencement address. Students and friends who have heard him before are congratulating college executives upon their success in securing the pastor as speaker.

A musical program will be given by the junior college music department, under the direction of Miss Margaret E. Wickes and Mrs. Lena M. Morgan. In addition to a program to be given by the junior college and high school orchestras, there will be numbers by the junior college mixed chorus and the men's glee club, a euphonium solo by Richard Taylor, and a piano solo by Russell Rowland.

The Rev. P. W. Clarkson of Orange will deliver the invocation and also the benediction.

Diplomas will be awarded by F. L. Andrews, secretary of the city board of education, and will be accepted by Richard Taylor, president of the graduating class.

In presenting the class for graduation, D. K. Hammond, dean, will tell of the growth of the college and its increasing popularity with students and citizens of Santa Ana.

Officers of the graduating class have been:

First semester president, Carroll Andrews; vice-president, Richard Taylor; secretary, Miss Frances Barter; Second semester—president, Richard Taylor; vice-president, Russell Myers; secretary, Miss Leah Crane.

Jail Motorist As Car 'Cuts Capers'
When persons residing near West Sixth and King streets telephoned the police late yesterday that an automobile was "making snakes tracks and cutting all kinds of capers" in the neighborhood, officers hurried to the scene in time to pull S. Ortiz out of the car which by that time had been wrecked, according to a report of the accident on file at the police station here today. He was arrested and charged with being drunk.

At 9:30 o'clock last night traffic was congested at the corner of Seventeenth and Main streets where the automobile of Leo Roelands, 24, of 610 East Third street, had collided with the car of an unidentified man. Both automobiles were said to have been badly damaged.

BEST STUDENT WORKS AFTER CLASS DUTY

"It is a privilege to go to school."

This statement was made here today by Alfred Ault, who has been chosen valedictorian of the graduating class at the high school.

He says he loves school, likes to study, and believes students should be busy.

"It doesn't hurt a fellow to work outside school hours," said Ault, who has worked every day since he has been old enough to ride a bicycle and deliver papers. Ault leaves behind him an almost perfect record in four years of classical studies—English, history, Latin, science, mathematics and only one grade of 2 on his entire record.

The only 2 Ault received in his high school course was in a senior English class. He was taking five subjects, was assistant editor of the school weekly, the Generator, and was assistant circulation manager outside school hours for a Los Angeles newspaper here.

Ault's citizenship rating is 100 per cent, which means that he has never been late to class, absent without an excuse, late with his class requirements or guilty of disorderly conduct.

Teachers and students, alike, are praising the record of this student, who is modest, serious minded, hardworking and ambitious.

The best student in the senior class has chosen to attend the local junior college next year, where he will take a course preparatory to receiving an advanced college course in engineering. Ault claims that a boy gets out of school what he will, that he gets fair play, and that honest, conscientious work is rewarded with the approval of the powers that be.

He believes that every boy should go to college and that it is possible and good for a boy to earn his way through both high school and college.

Ault has been assistant editor of the Generator this year, is a permanent member of the high school honor society and has been a prominent member of the Latin club.

SENIOR CLASS DAY PROGRAM IS JOYOUS

The high school campus was a blaze of color and a flutter of excitement at 2 p. m. today as the senior girls attired in brilliant-tinted sport dresses and hats, and the senior boys in white flannels and dark coats were arriving for the senior class day program, to begin at that hour.

All the buzz and thrill of the last days of school was felt in halls and about the campus as last-minute signatures were made in Ariels, farewells were said and plans for the summer were discussed.

Junior girls dressed in white, sport clothes were to usher the seniors to their seats of honor in the front of the auditorium after which the rest of the school was to gather to hear the parting message of the dignified seniors.

Much fun and clever comment was anticipated from the senior program, which was to include the class poem, class prophecy, a one-act play, and other features.

A class will, which was predicted to be the hit of the afternoon was to be read.

GUARD HELD TO ANSWER SHOOT CASE CHARGE

M. J. Ward of Orange, formerly employed as quarantine guard during the foot-and-mouth epidemic, must face trial in the superior court here on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, it was learned today, following his preliminary examination before Justice Jack Landell, late yesterday.

Details of the asserted shooting by Ward of Jack Meek, special deputy sheriff employed as mounted patrol during the quarantine period, were confined in court yesterday to the actual wounding of Meek. Attempts to introduce evidence that Ward had been drinking were overruled by the court, and testimony in the case made no reference to previous statements made by Meek that he had watched Ward being lured away from his post by two women, to allow two trucks to pass the quarantine station without inspection.

That Ward shot at Meek in the darkness because he was alarmed by a noise made by Meek in the brush nearby, was indicated by the testimony of Albert Grace, Riverside county guard, who was stationed with Ward at the county line in the Santa Ana canyon. Grace was called to testify for the prosecution. He said he and Ward had been frightened by the noise in the brush and that Ward shot without warning when their flashlights revealed two men watching them. The two men, it was said, were Meek and A. L. Croner, a horticultural inspector. Meek and Croner both testified regarding the shooting.

Alumni Banquet Reservations to Be Closed Today

Final opportunity was afforded today for Santa Ana high school alumni to make reservations for the annual banquet to be held at St. Ann's Inn at 6:30 p. m., Saturday.

Approximately 300 alumni, according to Miss Blanche McDowell, secretary, together with members of this year's senior class are expected to attend the banquet, which has been held annually for the past thirty years.

Prominent professional men here and in Los Angeles are scheduled on the speaking program. They include George W. Dyer and Perry Thomas of Los Angeles, and Clara R. Cushman, Z. B. West Jr., Fred Forgy and Otto Jacobs of Santa Ana.

Several musical numbers are scheduled on the program to be followed by dancing at the Inn. Chapman's orchestra will furnish the music.

H. S. GRADUATION PROGRAM IS TOLD

The climax of a busy commencement week at the high school will be the formal commencement exercises to be held in the auditorium tomorrow at 8 p. m.

Admission will be by ticket only and it is reported that every seat likely will be filled before the class marches in.

The program will be opened with numbers by the high school band, under the direction of S. J. Mustel.

J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, will preside and will introduce the Rev. W. E. Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, who will give the invocation.

The high school girls' glee club, under the direction of Miss Margaret E. Wickes, will give a group of numbers.

Dr. Walter Dexter, president of the Whittier college, will deliver the commencement address. Principal D. K. Hammond will present the graduating class their diplomas, which will be awarded by Alex Brownridge, president of the city board of education. Acceptance will be made for the class by its president, Lauraine Bove.

The program will be concluded with the singing of "America" and the benediction, by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the Congregational church of this city.

Cruelty Charged In Woman's Suit

Cruelty was charged as grounds for a divorce, asked today in a suit filed in the superior court here by Mrs. Grace E. Beldin, of Huntington Beach, against Wendel G. Beldin.

The couple, married in Los Angeles January 25, 1923, lived together a little more than a year, in Glendale, Whittier and Huntington Beach. They separated May 13, last.

Mrs. Beldin asks a restraining order to prevent her husband from disposing of $1700 worth of community property.

SALUTATORIAN HITS LAZINESS OF STUDENTS

"It is possible to combine school activities with a good time and yet attain a good scholarship."

So said Miss Wilma Silver today. She has been chosen class salutatorian of the school seniors.

Miss Silver will be graduated from the high school tomorrow night with second highest scholastic honors in her class.

On her entire high school record there is only one grade of 2; all others are perfect grades.

Her citizenship rating is 98 per cent and she leaves an enviable record of school activities to top off her almost perfect record in scholarship and citizenship.

She has been vice president of the Girls' league, a member of the Hammond Belles Lettres club, a permanent member of the high school Honor society, senior representative for the Athena society, treasurer of the Athena, and a member of the Spanish club.

Miss Silver is a booster for the high school and says that a student who will study can find a certain degree of success. She believes that most students who have trouble in high school are lazy or enrolled in the wrong courses.

She will attend Stanford university next year.

MERRYMAYERS PLAY FOR KFAW TONIGHT

Popular dance music will be featured on KFAW's program to be broadcast from The Register studio tonight from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock.

Arnold's Merrymakers will offer the program. This orchestra consists of five good musicians who have been heard at many of the Southland's resorts. Cliff Arnold, leader, has prepared a fine musical entertainment for the orchestra's air debut this evening.

As an added feature, Mrs. Arnold Peck will present one of her pupils, Sherill Spurgeon, who will be heard in several piano solos.

Highway Shoulder Building Is Begun

Work on the contract for widening the state highway between San Juan Capistrano and the San Diego county line is well under way, it was stated here today, the first ground being broken last week.

Resurfaced and widened last year by the addition of two-foot shoulders on each side, the highway is now being further widened with the addition of five-foot dirt shoulders that will give the highway a width, it was explained, of thirty-two feet. All culverts are being lengthened five feet at each side of the highway.

Ad Club Here To Honor Members Lost In Tragedy

A memorial address by the Rev. Perry F. Schrock, pastor of the First Congregational church here, for the four members who lost their lives in the tragedy of June 8, at Newport Beach, will feature the program which the Santa Ana Ad club will give at St. Ann's Inn at noon tomorrow. William Rudd and S. B. Kaufman, the program committee, announced today. The members were F. L. McCune, Chris J. Ema, Dr. J. G. Kelly and E. H. Granger.

Women are to be present. An extraordinary program is said to have been prepared. The recent tragedy caused a change in the program.

Installation of officers will be made as originally programmed, with Past President W. J. Cole of the Long Beach club, assisting.

Sues In Court To Collect $690 Bill

Seeking to collect a plumbing bill of $690, J. F. Ferrett of Buena Park instituted a superior court action that was on file here today, against Ralph P. Maskey, owner of a dwelling at Buena Park, and Bicy Brothers, contractors who built the house. Ferrett, he alleged, furnished the labor and material for the plumbing of the house.

Seek 2 as Cars Declared Sold

Charged with "removing and disposing of leased" automobiles that they were said to be buying on the installment plan, C. G. Houghton and R. De La Rosa were wanted here today by the authorities.

J. E. Headley, local used car dealer, swore to the complaints against Houghton and De La Rosa. The car involved in the Houghton complaint was valued at $205.20, and that in the De La Rosa complaint at $144.80. Both charges were rated as misdemeanor or offenses.

Take Dash Lights From Parked Auto

Two ornamental dash lights were stolen last night from the automobile of George Prevost Jr., 528 East Walnut street, when the car was parked on Pine street next to the commercial building of the high school unit, it was reported to the police here today.

USE HARBOR IN BIG LUMBER SHIPMENTS TO S. A.

Transportation of 150,000

Company Telegraphs Swing Urging Government to Open Way Into Bay

Proving that it is most practical to business firms and individuals of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties to have ship cargoes transported to the tri-counties harbor at Newport Beach, the Santa Ana Lumber company today reported prompt delivery here at a low transportation cost of a shipment of 150,000 feet of lumber last week from Portland. An additional 200,000 feet of lumber was expected to be delivered over the same route to the Santa Ana firm this week and the early part of next week, according to Stanley Clem, vice-president.

The lumber is carried on a ship from the Portland harbor to San Pedro, where it is reloaded onto barges and transported to the harbor at Newport Beach. Automobile trucks convey the lumber to the yards of the Santa Ana concern.

Barges Decrease Saving.

Owing to the extra expense of handling the lumber on the barges and on the trucks under the present system, the saving in transportation costs is not great, it was explained by Clem, though a large saving would be possible if the Portland-San Pedro boat could dock in the local harbor.

"We're not employing barges to haul our material to Newport Beach merely for the difference in the cost," Clem stated. "The Santa Ana Lumber company is anxious to do its part in establishing a real commercial port at Newport Beach."

Urging prompt congressional action for aiding in the development of the local harbor project, the Santa Ana Lumber company sent the following telegram to Phil D. Swing at the congressional chamber.

South Main St. Body to Talk of New Plants

Discussion of factories that are being established in the southern part of the city will feature a meeting of the South Main Street Improvement association to be held at 7:30 p. m., Friday, at 2068 South Main street, Herbert Timmons, secretary, announced today.

Declaring that the eyes of all Orange county now are centered on the industrial activity in the southern part of the city, Timmons said it was important that all members be present and that property owners in the district would be welcome.

INSTALL FIXTURES AS STORE IMPROVED

Because of the steadily-increasing business at the New York store, 310 North Sycamore street, it has been necessary to install many new fixtures and rearrange the entire store, E. H. Eyster, manager, announced today.

A. W. Caviness, who owns the business, is planning to install a "hat factory" in the rear future in the balcony of the store, Eyster disclosed. Six girls will be employed exclusively for making and trimming hats, he said.

The firm has just completed a remodeling and rearrangement of the interior of the store. The display space has been doubled and departments have been created for all groups of merchandise. These changes not only have increased the efficiency of the sales force and improved the appearance of the place, but have made it possible for customers to move quickly and conveniently choose their purchases, according to Eyster.

REALTORS LEND INDUSTRIAL SITES AID

Land Company Project Is Given Impetus As S. A.
Merchants Petitioned

Organization here of the Santa Ana Industrial Lands company today had the full endorsement of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors and along with it the promised support of the dealers in putting over the project.

At a recent meeting of the board, two individual members subscribed for a unit each and a committee was appointed to develop within the organization groups of men for the purpose of subscribing for two or three units. Units are $500, being composed of five shares of $100 par value each.

A. N. Zerman, chairman of the committee directing preliminary activities in connection with the promotion of the company, said that he contemplated assembling in the immediate future another group of Santa Ana business men for the purpose of laying before them plans under which it is proposed to organize and operate the company.

"We have presented the plans to two groups already," Zerman stated, "and we hope at the next meeting to have present those business men who have not attended former meetings."

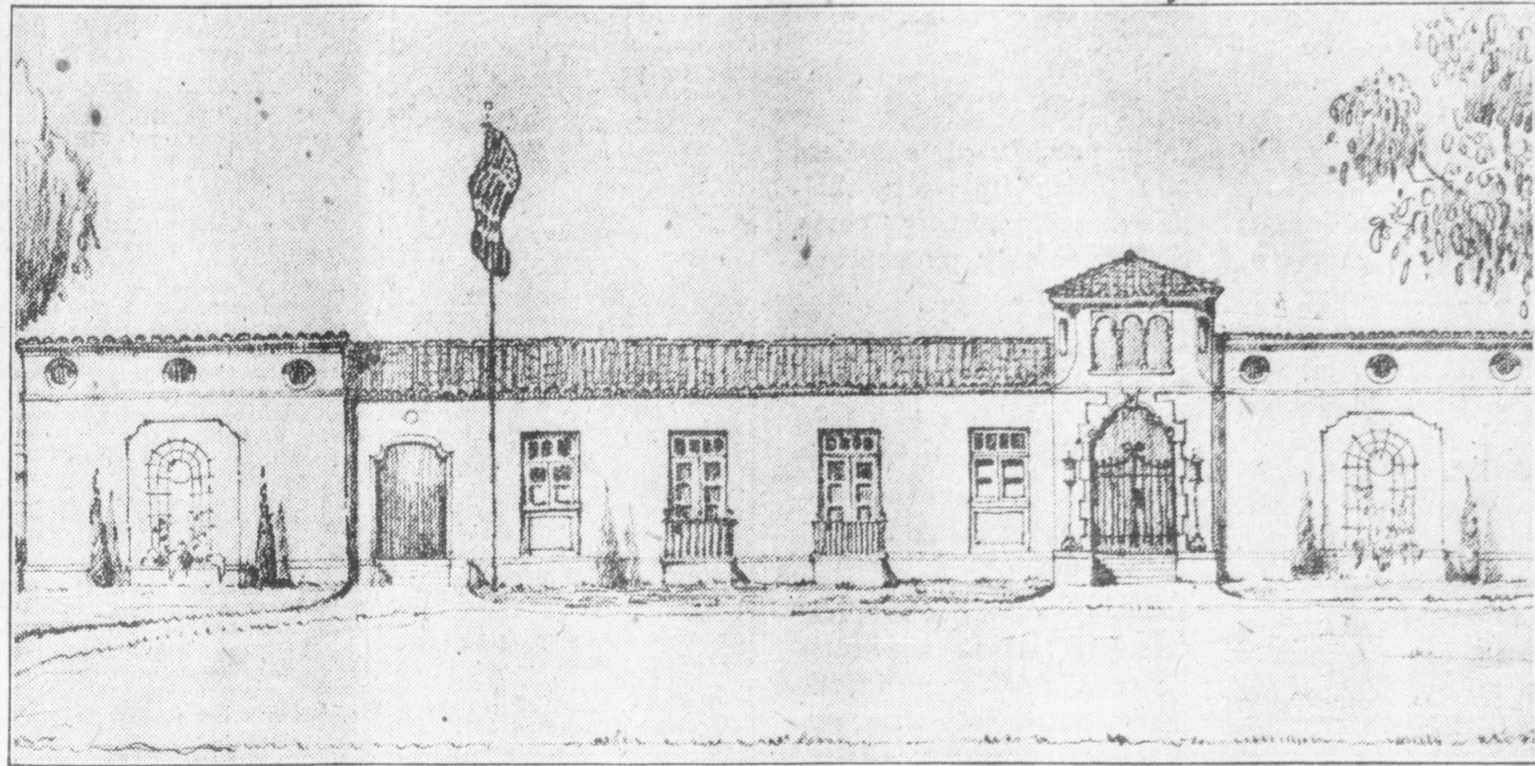

"When we have presented our program to all the business men of the city we will take up an active campaign to procure subscriptions for the enterprise."

Asserting the purchase of industrial sites for delivery later at cost to manufacturing concerns will be a big factor in locating factories here, Zerman said that every business man in the city should offer assistance by subscribing for stock.

"Buy purchasing acreage at prices quoted today, the company cannot lose money," confided Zerman. "Even without industrial advancement the property would increase in value. It is the purpose of the company to buy whatever acreage can be purchased with money that will be available—and the greater the original fund the larger the tract."

HERE'S NEW SCHOOL BUILDING FOR DELHI DISTRICT

Architect Fay R. Spangler has pictured here the $40,000 grammar school building to be erected at the corner of Orange avenue and St. Gertrude's place before the opening of the fall semester. This building to be located in the Delhi school district, is to be occupied only by white pupils. It is understood. All skilled labor available in the district will be employed in the construction. The board of trustees of the district contemplates the addition of two classrooms each year. The school is to have a kitchen and a cafeteria.

BULB GROWING IS INDUSTRY NEW HERE

Orange county has a new industry—an industry that requires a minimum effort to produce substantial returns, and one that is said to thrive better here than in any other part of the United States, according to W. J. Vander Brugge of 211 East Twentieth street.

It is the growing of certain species of bulbs.

Vander Brugge would encourage Orange county residents to indulge in this profitable industry as a sideline or a hobby. He says there is a demand in every state in the union for the kind of bulbs that can be grown in back yards here. These rare plants thrive best in walnut groves, however, the bulb expert declares, as they are benefited by a small amount of shade from the noon-day sun.

At present there are approximately fifty acres of land in Orange county planted in bulbs representing an investment in the plants alone of more than $150,000. There are fifteen acres planted to this valuable crop at the Cozad bulb

A $40,000 grammar school building will be constructed this summer at the northeast corner of Orange avenue and St. Gertrude's place in the tract known as McPadden No. 5, and the building is to be completed before the opening of the fall semester, it was announced today.

The school site has a frontage of 230 feet (one block) on St. Gertrude's place and 460 feet on Orange avenue.

The building will contain five classrooms, rest rooms, principal's office, kitchen and cafeteria. The walls and foundations of the rear patio are to be constructed to permit the addition of an auditorium, and the cloisters about the patio will form corridors connecting with classrooms, the auditorium and playgrounds.

The school is to be constructed of brick and stucco and will have tile and composition roofs. The exterior walls will be trimmed with ornamental cast stone.

The school trustees and Fay R. Spangler, local architect who planned the building, recently visited public schools in Los Angeles, Santa Monica, Venice and adjoining localities to obtain ideas of important features to be incorporated in the new structure here.

The board has instructed Spangler to specify that all skilled labor available within the boundaries of the school district will be employed in the construction of the new building.

GLASS FACTORY PLANT CEMENT NEARLY USED

Very little is left of the 2200 sacks of cement and thirty carloads of rock and gravel recently delivered to the site of the Standard American Glass company, southeast of the city, as a crew of fifty workmen has been busily engaged in using this material for the first part of the foundation work. E. J. Williams, manager of the glass factory, stated today.

This material, Williams said, is only one-third of the cement and rock and gravel required for the foundation work of the first unit of buildings to cover ten acres of the twenty-five acre site.

Five of the twenty-nine carloads of lumber ordered have been delivered to the local glass factory, Williams asserted.

Today a crew of carpenters was put to work at constructing the small box factory, where crates will be made for packing the company's products for shipment.

The first meeting of the newly elected board of directors of the Standard American Glass company was to be held today in the suite of Robert Brown, industrial realtor, in the new First National Bank building. On May 29 the board of directors was organized and W. L. Dixon was named president; F. A. Dixon, vice-president; H. P. Dixon, secretary; E. J. Williams, treasurer and Glen Behlmer, attorney.

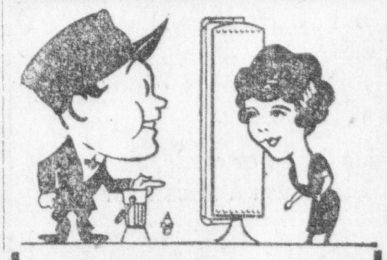

At this meeting, it was understood, the First National bank of Santa Ana will be named depository for the new glass corporation, according to Manager Williams.

"Our construction work has not been progressing rapidly enough to suit us," Williams declared, "because of a delay in getting lumber on the ground, but we intend to rush the completion of the first unit of our plant."

STATES HARBOR ESSENTIAL TO COMMERCE

A good connecting link between the factory and the consumer will prevent depressed marketing conditions, according to D. Eymann Huff, chairman of the shipping subcommittee of the committee of fifty, which is investigating the harbor project and considering the advisability of voting a bond issue for the improvement of the harbor at Newport Beach.

He declared:

"Foreign trade, which the nation generally is looking to as a solution of the problem of depressed marketing conditions at home, can only be developed by the building of harbors adequate to accommodate the ocean sailing freighters. In turn the railroads will feed the harbors, bringing in from interior points the products, raw materials and finished goods, highways again in turn, serving in some instances the harbors direct and at more distant points being the link between the factory and the freight car."

"With only one great harbor at present in Southern California there is room for the initiation of other important enterprises to serve as feeders to the greater harbors until such time as they can handle in smaller degrees the business of their adjacent territory."

"Such a one is Orange county harbor at Newport bay, in due time to be a feeder to the great port of Los Angeles nearby and supplying the demands of the great tributary area in Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties.

"That harbor development is an economic necessity, is demonstrated every day in some section of the country. Today, co-operation between land and water transportation is more than ever necessary. Among the most ardent advocates of coastwise and ocean commerce, the development and opening up of harbor areas and the encouragement of foreign trade are the far-sighted men connected with great rail enterprises who appreciate that through the development and increase of water-borne commerce and foreign trade can the prosperity of the country be maintained."

TWO STATES' BEST MARK SURPASSED IN MAY

Conservatism Now Policy
As West Shows Slight Construction Drop

Santa Ana last month reported nearly twice as much building activity as the best record shown in the entire state of Idaho, nearly three times as much building as the highest figures in Nevada, and the Santa Ana permits were exceeded in Arizona by only two cities, two in Washington, according to information shown in the Pacific coast section of the national monthly building survey of S. W. Straus and company.

The policy of conservatism in building now generally prevalent throughout the country, and the desire on the part of builders to restrict new construction to operations of very evident and immediate need, is reflected in the May record of building permits issued in leading cities of the West.

Although, of the seventy-eight cities included in this survey, thirty-one show gains over April, among them being San Francisco, Seattle and Long Beach, the Pacific Coast, as a whole, shows a reduction of 8 per cent from the April total, a reduction of 17 per cent from the total of last May, but a gain of 19 per cent over the figures of May of 1922. The total for the seventy-eight cities for May is $39,706,448.

Los Angeles issued $8,739,932 in building permits during May, 53 per cent less than the May total of last year, 6 per cent less than for the previous May and 33 per cent less than for April of this year. In the Los Angeles metropolitan area, 13 municipalities report a total of $12,404,312 for May, 46 per cent under the figures of last May, 30 per cent under April of this year, but 5 per cent over May of 1922.

California, as a whole, 56 cities reporting, shows a May total of $29,314,064, which is 27 per cent under the record of these cities for May, 1923, 12 per cent under that of April, but 10 per cent over May, 1922. Gains of May over April are reported from 21 of these 56 cities, 24 show gains over last May and 38 show gains over the previous May.

RAID SUGAR MAN'S $7500 BOOZE STOCK

Raiding the palatial home at Los Angeles of Harry C. Lee, president of the Los Alamitos Sugar Refining company, federal officers yesterday discovered a liquor stock valued at $7500, according to reports received here today.

Armed with a warrant to search also the home of J. Ross Clark, formerly Lee's father-in-law, the officers deformed a raid on the premises pending a raid on the home of the validity of the search warrant.

The raid was made by the so-called "millionaire" liquor squad operating with the federal enforcement officers. They asserted that for stock of rare wines and liquors found at the Lee home was contained in a steel and concrete vault of a massiveness sufficient to withstand a safe-blowing assault. Approximately 508 bottles were claimed to have been found in the vault.

farm near Costa Mesa. Smaller bulb gardens in the county are owned by the Santa Ana Plant company, where Vander Bruggen's imported bulbs are grown in the Main Nursery company in Santa Ana. Highway Bulb gardens, Howard Gates, and Miss Othillie Stechert, all of Anaheim; the Alcom Nursery, Robertson Nursery, Richman Avenue Florists, Cookson Nursery and H. H. Tracy, all of Fullerton.

Decorate Victims' Caskets
These growers sent 120 dozen gladiolus to San Pedro Tuesday to be used in decorating the caskets of the four victims of the disaster of the U. S. S. Mississippi.

The bulk of the flowers and bulbs grown in Orange county are sold to wholesale florists in Los Angeles, from where they are sent to all parts of the nation.

Vander Bruggen disclosed that he recently paid $14 express charges to Santa Ana for a single crate of bulbs shipped from Washington, D. C. The huge box contained 50,000 bulbs.

According to government restrictions on certain imported bulbs, those received now are not to be sold before January 1, 1927. The purchaser must pay a 30 per cent duty on bulbs. Those which may be shipped without special permits come directly to San Pedro from Holland, while others must go first to Washington, D. C., where they must pass a rigid inspection for the purpose of preventing entry of plant diseases or insect pests. They are then shipped by express to Orange county.

Climate Here Ideal
The cool, moist climate here is especially adapted to bulb growing, and the plants bloom here when they are not in season at any other place in the world, Vander Bruggen stated. He continued:

"In Orange county we can grow successfully nearly all kinds of Liliaceae (sometimes called daffodils or jonquils), Roman hyacinths, hyacinthus candicans, Dutch and Spanish iris and some of their relatives, gladiolus and its offsprings, montbretia, fuchsia, spartan, ranunculus, anemone, tri-gladiola, galanthus, lilies and members of other less known.

"Probably 500,000 good large bulbs from Holland will arrive this fall in Orange county. Nearly half of this amount already has been ordered through my firm and I am certain another 100,000 will be added to this list before July. One grower here has ordered 170 varieties ranging in prices from $14 to $700 a thousand bulbs."

USE HARBOR IN BIG LUMBER SHIPMENTS

bers at Washington, D. C.:

Telegraph Congressman.

"Orange county business alone is sufficient to guarantee extensive commerce. We are already handling lumber through Newport bay and will increase shipments greatly when safe passage is assured.

Army agreeable to enormous expenditures for Southern California's big port, yet small amount will make another harbor quickly available, with local co-operation equalling three times amount of probable government expenditure on entrance. Let army only open the way into Newport bay and Orange county will follow up thoroughly and without hesitation, taking care of all necessary channel expenditures. Present conditions constitute menace as evidenced by recent Sunday disaster. Santa Ana and all Orange county citizens aroused over present situation."

El Modena

EL MODENA, June 18. — Miss Grace Moody was delightfully surprised Saturday evening when a number of her friends came in to help her celebrate her birthday. It was a reunion of old friends who had worked together at the Pacific Palisades two summers ago.

The evening was spent in talking over old times, music and guessing games. At the close of the evening a big birthday cake was brought in lighted with candles for Miss Grace to cut. During the evening it was discovered that Saturday was also Miss Ethel Williams birthday, making the party a double celebration. Cake and ice cream were served to Misses Ethel and Mary Williams of Pasadena; Francis Allen of Los Angeles; Elizabeth, Helen; and Richard Engle of El Monte; Mary Hill and Lois Kent of Upland; John Mitchell of Santa Ana; Verne Harrison and Mrs. Fred Harrison of Olive; Carol Frost and Winifred Riddle of Orange; Grace, Irma, Glen, and Kenyon Moody, and Mrs. Mary Moody.

On Sunday, Miss Grace Moody, Glen Moody, Winifred Riddle, Carol and Ralph Frost of Orange spent the day in Huntington Park visiting at the Rev. Sampson Home. A number of the young people who had not been able to be present at the birthday party the evening before and were members of the group that worked at the Pacific Palisades gathered there for a pleasant day together. Mrs. Sampson was at the Palisades that summer acting as secretary. They attended the Baccalaureate services of the Huntington Park high school in the evening.

Miss Dena Taylor is home from San Miguel for her summer vacation. She reports a very pleasant year and expects to return there next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Theron Willis and Grace Short left after the high school commencement exercises Thursday evening for Yosemite and were expected to arrive there yesterday. Miss Short expects to remain for the summer working there with her mother in one of the camps.

Miss Josie Bolton and Miss Marjorie Granger arrived home Friday from Santa Barbara Teacher's college for their summer vacation.

Miss Marguerite Rouse is expected home from Los Angeles this week for her summer vacation. She has been attending the Bible Institute there this year.

Miss Carolyn and Winifred Riddle of Orange and Miss Mary Hill and Miss Lois Kent of Upland were overnight guests at the Moody home Saturday evening.

Miss Edith Culter left Monday to spend nearly a week in Hemet visiting Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Perry.

Miss Ruth Read is home for her summer vacation from the University of Southern California.

Webster and His Cow Walked 50 Miles to College!

Boys like Webster are few. Most of them don't want an education as badly as he did. He traveled on foot through the wilderness, a fifty-mile stretch, in order to enter college.

Such ambitious examples are inspiring. And we all have it in us. If we give "that something" a chance, it carries us on to success.

There are hundreds who have placed modest savings in our institution who may have struggled as hard as Webster, in the beginning. But they won out. They acquired homes. They succeeded in business. They sent children to college. They provided for that "rainy day" which can now touch them.

All the funds placed with this institution are protected by first trust deeds, principally on homes in Santa Ana—the safest security in the world.

TAX EXEMPTION ACTS OPPOSED BY REALTORS

A plan of action in which all citizens could join, tending to reduce business expenses, the cost of living and to promote conditions precedent to a genuine return to sound prosperity, is being discussed by realty boards in all parts of the United States, according to J. Wiley Harris, president of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors. This plan, he said, was disclosed in resolutions adopted by the National Association of Real Estate Boards at its seventeenth annual convention in Washington, D. C. this month. The resolutions stated in part:

"Resolved, that inasmuch as this association expressed adherence to national tax reduction along the lines of the Mellon plan, endorsed and supported by President Coolidge, it now reiterates its position that it is the sense of this association that the nation should lead off with a real tax reduction program as an example to all the states and municipalities.

Assure Prosperity.
"Further be it resolved That this reform is the most important single post war project in which all the citizens could join, assuring a return to sound prosperity.

"Further be it resolved, That this association expresses hereby to the president of the United States its high admiration of the courageous stand taken by him, and that we trust in the early success of his efforts.

"(2) Resolved, That we express our disappointment at the failure of congress to pass the resolution necessary to submit to the states the question of ending the unsound and discriminatory practice of issuing tax exempt securities, the continuance of which will undermine our prosperity and which strikes at the very foundations of our institutions by creating a class of privileged wealth that can enjoy all the benefits of government without bearing any of its burdens.

Oppose Exemption.
"This association stands firmly on the principle that no classes of persons or property should be exempted from their just contribution to the cost of the government that protects them.

"We, therefore, urge every member board to press this question insistently and unceasingly on its members of congress and the senate until this evil is remedied.

"(3) Resolved, That the improvement of railroad property through cities and of adjacent industries is desirable, and

"Further, That the properties of such companies may be, with reasonable effort, changed from their present unsightly appearance to that of modern attractiveness."

LOW RENT HELD WAY TO BRING FACTORIES

Low rentals in Santa Ana are proving a great asset to the city, according to local real estate men who explain that tourists are showing a desire to take up their residence here because of the unexcelled living conditions at low costs.

Eastern manufacturers who are seeking industrial sites in Southern California also are looking on Santa Ana favorably because of low rentals for factory workers, it is declared. Because it is also possible for most of the working people to own their own homes, this city is receiving favorable consideration, realtors claim.

W. S. Decker, city building inspector, contends that with rents low it is not likely that speculative "overbuild" of the city with a view of making huge profits from new homes which might stand idle when completed. Therefore, there can be no improper inflation in building activity which would necessarily be followed by hard times. Under present conditions, he explained, homes are built, as they are needed, with the result that Santa Ana is constantly building new homes which are occupied by perhaps new but permanent residents as soon as completed.

Visitors here who have been paying high rents in the Middle West and East where business conditions were dull, are constantly expressing their desire to live in Santa Ana where trade is lively and living costs are low.

AIR TREATMENT FOR ROOTS IS TUSTIN TEST

Claiming that nitrogen from the air is beneficial to the root growth of trees and that food results have been obtained in Fresno county and other sections of the state, fourteen acres of citrus trees are being given the "air" treatment on the ranch of W. F. Lutz at Tustin, it was stated here today.

By using high pressure pneumatic air machines, artificial air is being forced into the ground for a distance of about four feet, to the roots of the trees, the air passing through pipes that have been placed in the ground under the trees. The air then is released into the soil underneath the trees.

According to experts who have charge of the Tustin job, 500 cubic feet of air is needed for each tree. According to members of the Orange county farm bureau who have seen the machines in action, they resemble the air pressure machines that are used to tear up hard surfaced streets in Santa Ana.

LANGUAGE USED BY PRISONERS DECIPHERED

You can't believe what you hear. Joe Irvine, one of the jailers at the county jail here, insisted today that the average person cannot get the correct meaning of statements made by professional crooks.

What appears on the surface as an innocent conversation, he said, might be a plan to dynamite a bank or to commit some other crime. And the plot could be formulated and discussed freely by the criminals in the presence of outsiders who would not be able to understand or interpret the conversation.

"And I'm speaking of conversations in the English language, too," Irvine added.

For instance, he declared, few persons would guess what was meant in the following statement: Gives Illustration.

"The town is on fire and there is wild game, but with a rod we can put soup in the nest, open the box and get the lead and whatever there is in Jack and Jill."

If the average individual overheard such an assertion on a street corner, Irvine continued, he would not realize that the criminal's interpretation of the statement would be something like this:

"The police suspect something and are on our trail, and right now an officer is in sight, but with the aid of a gun we can force our way to the place we wish to rob, touch off the nitroglycerine to open the safe, and get the diamonds and whatever is in the cash register."

According to Irvine, who picked up parts of the criminal vocabulary from prisoners in the county jail, an attentive jailer can easily determine if an arrested man is a professional crook by listening to his conversation with other prisoners.

It is not unusual for the jailer to hear murmurs of "bull on the line," meaning the guard is coming; when the rounds are made each night at the jail. When a new guard is placed in charge, either with a chain gang or at the jail, the word "fish-bull" is whispered down the line.

Women Use "Hog Latin."

A professional crook, when referring to crossing the street, always says "going through the rye," Irvine says. When one crook double-crosses or "sneals" on another, he is said to have "crawled."

The most common words or phrases used, however, are "Jack and Jill" for cash register, "box" for safe, "ice" for diamonds, "rod" for gun, "soup" for nitroglycerine, "nest" for the place which is to be robbed, "town is on fire" for a

Sanitary Board At Laguna Beach Accept Bond Bid

LAGUNA BEACH, June 19.—The sanitary board convened at the Chamber of Commerce office for their regular meeting on Tuesday evening. Mr. Stetson of Hemet and Mrs. Smith of the Black & Vitch Engineering company of Los Angeles were appointed official engineers of the Laguna Beach sanitary district.

The attorney for the board, Clyde Bishop, was present. He gave a brief and concise summary of the procedure taken in bonding a portion of the sanitary district and forming the new sewer district, proving with a doubt the legality of these bonds.

Bids were then presented and passed upon. The bid presented by James B. Neel, cashier of the Citizens bank of Laguna Beach, was accepted. This bid called for par and accrued interest. Accompanying the bid was a cashier's check for five per cent, or $4,750.00.

Several plans were presented to the board at this meeting for the disposal plant, but the board refused to accept any of the proposed plans until further investigations have been made.

Several tentative plans have been submitted for the location of the disposal plant. It is the opinion of some that this plant should be located in Laguna canyon, while the opinion of others is that it should be placed at a high spot, on the cliffs, and that the effluent should be run into the ocean.

In the opinion of the engineers of the sanitary district it will cost about $20,000 more if the plant is put up in Laguna canyon. If placed there, there are two propositions, open for the disposal of sewage as it runs from the plant. One is to bring the water back down through Laguna Beach through a pipe line and pump it into the ocean. The other is to run the water through a ditch which is filled with crushed rock and gravel in which case it is to seep into the ground. The California state health authorities will not allow any such means of disposal to be installed so the abandonment of this plan is practically certain.

The plant that the engineers are now investigating is the Emhoff system which will be installed with sealed walls and covers of cement, thereby eliminating unpleasant odors and giving the plant an attractive appearance.

Several other propositions were put before the board, but these have been taken under advisement and will be acted upon at a later meeting.

4 PARKS DREAM OF NORTHWEST IMPROVERS.

Efforts to establish recreation parks of one block each in the four quarters of the city are being made by the West-Northwest Improvement association. W. Floyd Croddy, secretary, announced today. Freeman Bloodgood and Nat. Jeff are in charge of the park problem of the association.

Since the board of education procured a school site in the northwest part of Santa Ana, the West-Northwesters are planning to take a census of the district to ascertain if there are sufficient school children to justify the early construction of a six-room grammar school. W. V. Whitson is chairman of a committee which is soliciting the aid of women in the district to secure the school census for the board of education.

The feasibility of a plan to extend Chapman road to Ocean avenue is being considered by Charles Aubrey, while J. A. Smiley has been requested by the association to investigate the advisability of paying Fairhaven avenue, from Flower street to the river.

The association meets at the city hall council chambers on the second Tuesday of every month, and the executive committee of the organization holds luncheon meetings every Tuesday at Ketter's cafe.

Schools Morality Session Attracts

Several Santa Ana church workers today were making plans to attend a state-wide week day church school conference to be held at Fresno June 22 and 23, at which time ways and means for securing favorable legislation for the provision of "adequate moral and spiritual training" in the city and county schools of California will be discussed. H. G. Burgess, pastor of the Richland avenue Methodist church, announced the meeting.

All denominations, Catholic, Jewish and Protestant people are being urged to attend the meeting.

Warning that officers are on the trail, and "wild game," meaning an officer is in sight.

Women prisoners, according to Irvine, often speak in "hog latin." At present there are two colored women in custody here for violating the federal narcotics laws, and these prisoners speak only "hog latin" except when jail officials address them.

America Is Topic Of Fullerton Talk

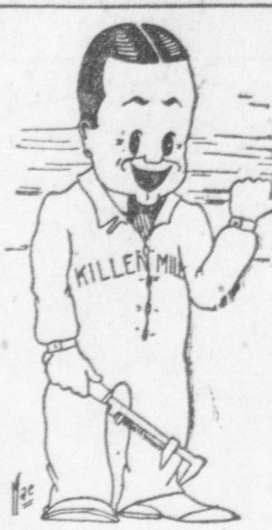

FULLERTON, June 19.—Taking as his subject, "Post War Patriotism," Major J. Carl Shindler of Los Angeles, delivered a splendid talk on Americanism and what it means to every citizen, at the Rotary club luncheon here yesterday afternoon. Brief addresses were also given by Hugh Miller and E. B. Reynolds. C. E. Rykert contributed two vocal numbers. Miss Ella Bollen acting as accompanist.

NAB ELECTRICIAN FOR INTOXICATION

FULLERTON, June 19.—Following a collision with an auto owned by Ray Killen of 323 Trustow ave.

nue, Fullerton, J. R. Allen, 41, electrical contractor of Los Angeles, was arrested late yesterday afternoon on a charge of transporting liquor. He was declared to have been "under the influence" when taken into custody. He was allowed his liberty on putting up $300 in bail, his hearing being set for 10 a. m., June 26.

A Man Said To Me

"Say, Brown, tell me on the square. Is this glass factory going to amount to anything?"

"I can't figure out how it can amount to much, or how would it have come to Santa Ana?"

Great faith he has in our city. Too bad. Swat the knocker! Bet he doesn't refuse to accept any nickles of their's which come his way.

Wonder if he supposes that the men behind the Standard American Glass company are spending nearly a half million dollars of their own money just for the sake of seeing how far it will go.

Better go out and look it over, and place a little money on the line and acquire some property in Lloyd Park, immediately across street. This is one place where your investment is a sure profit maker.

Maybe you do not know it but we have advantages in Santa Ana no city in Southern California has—sign coupon and receive information.

LEAD PENCILS ARE NOT LEAD

The word pencil means "a little tail". In short, a paint brush. Today, Chinese boy writes laundry tickets with brush-pencil. And why lead-pencil?
Because the graphite makes a black mark like lead does. At the great English graphite mine at Barrowdale, the English took the graphite out in sheets and sawed them into squares for the "leads" for pencils.
Now, as you know, graphite is ground, mixed with clay and water, put in to cylinder with small holes in the bottom. A plunger does the rest. Your "leads" come out of the bottom as per a process by Conte a Frenchman.
American manufacturers turn out over 750,000 from sun to sun. The wood for the handle, that's cedar.

ORANGE COUNTY PUBLICITY IS SENT EAST

By J. FREDERICK AHLBORN
(Orange County Industrial and Publicity Representative.)

It is the desire of the board of supervisors, that Orange county should participate to the fullest in the great industrial unfolding now taking place in Southern California. The conditions for industrial expansion are ideal in Orange county. Its close proximity to Los Angeles, the center of population of Southern California; its advantageous geographical location to the Los Angeles, Long Beach and Orange county harbors; its wonderful system of paved highways and transportation facilities, both steam and electric; then too, its unequalled climate, magnificent resources and rich back country, give to this county at once a commanding position in the field of industrial possibilities.

A map, indicating at a glance our county's favorable geographic location in the Greater Los Angeles industrial area is now being prepared. A circle drawn around the Los Angeles harbor, places every prospective industrial center and city in Orange county on the same line with the city of Los Angeles. The variations in distances not exceeding more than two miles.

Booklet Prepared In addition to the map, a booklet, showing virtually all of the industries now in existence in the county is being prepared. The booklet is intended for distribution among manufacturers throughout the East, setting forth our natural advantages in the industrial field and inviting all those, who are intending to branch out or move to the Pacific Coast, to come to Orange county.

The advantages and opportunities Orange county has to offer to the homeseeker, investor and tourist will be set forth in another booklet. An exhibit, truly representative of the county's prolific production, will be prepared, to be placed in the new Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce building. Space has been reserved in the building by several countries for their respective exhibits, as well as by adjoining states on the Pacific Coast and inland.

Begin Industry Survey

An industrial survey is now being made by all the larger cities in Orange county, with a view of ascertaining the industrial possibilities of each community. Santa Ana and Fullerton have completed their respective surveys, with the other cities not far behind in the work of industrial preparedness.

The full-time paid secretaries of the various Chambers of Commerce in the county have just organized the Association of Orange county for the purpose of holding meetings on the second Wednesday of every month at St. Ann's Inn at noon, during which plans for the upbuilding of the communities will be discussed and views will be exchanged for harmonizing thought and action throughout the county. It is also the purpose of this organization to push the campaign for locating industries in Orange county and give it nationwide publicity.

SILVERADO CANYON RETREAT ATTRACTS

Shadybrook, a beautiful mountain retreat in Silverado canyon, is attracting much attention as one of the attractive recreation centers in Orange county, according to Bert Wilkinson, who lives at the resort. "Approximately $150,000 will be spent for improvements at Shadybrook," Wilkinson declares.

"There will be trails, walks, splendid roads, ornamental trees, swimming pools, a recreation center and numerous other features that will make Shadybrook the finest mountain resort in Southern California. "Shadybrook is reached by motoring through Orange, the Orange county park and through the Silverado canyon to the picturesque mountain retreat which gained its name from the stream that flows the entire length of the property throughout the entire year."

Many attractive homesites are being offered at Shadybrook by the W. E. Moyer company of Los Angeles, which is represented at the property by Wilkinson. Cabins are being erected for businessmen who spend their week-ends and vacations, with their families, "next to Nature."

AUSTRALIAN TENNIS STARS WIN IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, June 19.—Winning all of the exhibition matches in which they performed, Gerald Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood, Australian tennis stars, yesterday decisively defeated two of Southern California's best players.

Harvey Snodgrass lost to Patterson in the afternoon's best tennis match, 6-2, 6-4. Patterson took two straight sets, 6-2, 6-4. Paired with Wood, Patterson defeated the team of Snodgrass and Westbrook, 6-4, 6-4. Wood, in a singles match, defeated Godshall, 6-1, 6-2.

The Anzac reserve doubles team lost to Godshall and Ferrandi in the final match, 6-2, 6-1.

The showing of the visiting Australians was the best since their arrival in this country for Davis cup competition.

Industries Show To Open Oct. 18

Plans are under way for the Fourth Annual California Industries exposition, to portray the industrial development of the state, according to information received here today. The event will be held at the civic auditorium in San Francisco October 18 to November 1, inclusive.

The exposition is given under the direction of the central bureau and program committee of San Francisco organizations, consisting of more than forty civic and commercial bodies of the bay city, among them being the Advertising club, Down Town association, Electrical Development league and the program committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

Whether Orange county will have an exhibit at the exposition has not yet been announced.

HOW TO OBTAIN TENANTS TOLD BY SPEAKER

Santa Anans might benefit from the advice of Carlton Schultz, prominent Cleveland business man, who recently delivered an address on "How to Procure Commercial Tenants." Some of the "highlights" of the address follow:

"Getting commercial tenants is merely presenting merchandise that will meet the needs of prospective takers. I would emphasize the proper preparation of stores rather than the mere closing of leases.

"In planning new stores I would advise cantilever construction of fronts. This will permit for an unbroken glass display of goods. In the case of old buildings they can be made to pay much larger returns if ornamental columns are cut out. I would plan a building in two units—the stores by themselves and the offices by themselves.

"Analysis of traffic must bear in mind that automobile passengers mean nothing to the merchant until they have become pedestrians and any traffic count means little until analyzed as to buying power.

"Too many merchants in a neighborhood have caused failure of many markethouse projects.

"Don't buy or erect a building and fix rents to make it pay. Whether you make a flat rental or a percentage lease, you are in partnership with your tenant. Your vacant store should be kept as clean and attractive as though occupied. If it's unclear your tenant perhaps will not be able to vision success there.

"Stores that advertise always are the best tenants."

FORM LODGE AUXILIARY.

About thirty women are expected to be present tonight at the home of Mrs. Earl Crawford of 231 First street, when an auxiliary to the local Moose lodge will be formed. Among those who have signed up to become members of the auxiliary are Mrs. Emeline Lewis, Mrs. Anna Sullivan, Mrs. S. L. Lewis, Mrs. Josephine Woolley, Mrs. Mary Gailbreath, Mrs. Effie L. Frost, Mrs. Ruth Sowers, Mrs. Elva Todd, Mrs. Emma Grace, Mrs. Mamie Walker, Mrs. Lola Arent.

BOOKLET GIVES COUNTY ROADS ADVERTISING

Containing attractive highway scenes in Orange county, and printed on book paper, the Portland Cement association today had completed printing of thousands of copies of a pamphlet bearing on county roads of Orange county for distribution throughout the United States.

According to Lee Boyle, Orange county representative of the association, district officers of the association, located at many points in the United States, will distribute the pamphlets.

Copies of the pamphlet may be procured at the local chamber of commerce, it was announced today by J. C. Metzgar, secretary.

"The association deserves credit for advertising its business," Metzgar said. "The example could be followed by others, with mutual advantage."

Declaring that Orange county has one of the most complete systems of paved roads in the state, the author of the literature says:

"City streets, county roads, and state roads are linked together in a chain of enduring concrete over which flows the traffic—both business and pleasure—of the county."

"Eleven years ago this system was started with a fund of $1,275,000, voted for the purpose of building the much-needed highways."

Taxpayers wanted the roads at once, knowing that the money saved through their use would pay for the bonds. Today the county has approximately 167 miles of dividend-paying, concrete-surfaced highways. As traffic increased the newer pavements were built thicker and heavier and the old concrete was "double-decked" and widened to care for the denser and heavier traffic of today.

"Orange county has roads traversing nearly every type of country and carrying nearly every type of traffic. There are miles of highway across tide flats where the ground water stands just below the pavement. There are other roads that 5,000 feet over mountain passes. Over these roads operate all classes of wagons, local and tourist cars, big buses and monster trucks with heavy trailers. Under all these conditions concrete has been the preferred paving material. It has demonstrated its superiority by the manner in which it has met the varied and exacting traffic requirements."

GIRLS PLANNING CAMP.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—Plans are under way here for the Manaraha group of the local Camp Fire girls to spend a several days vacation in the Arroyo Seco canyon, near Pasadena, it was announced here today. Miss Dorothy Moore will be in charge of the group which will be composed of about ten young girls from over the city. The trip will be made in the near future.

PLACE CONDUITS UNDER GROUND DOWNTOWN

Tall wooden poles which for years have been supporting many miles of power wires in the downtown district of Santa Ana have been removed on some of the busiest streets, and underground conduits are being laid rapidly. When the work is completed and the "dig-up" streets are re-paved, it is expected the business section will present a more pleasing appearance.

City Engineer W. G. Knox complimented the contracting firm of Steele Finley for the quick manner in which the street trenches have been resurfaced.

"While the work of placing underground the wires of the Southern California Edison company has during the past few days inconvenienced motorists and pedestrians on certain downtown streets," Knox asserted, "the appearance of the city has been improved to a great extent, so that it was well worth the trouble and cost of making the improvements."

Incidentally, Knox announced that the Finley company has begun paving operations on Fairview avenue, from Bristol street to Flower street. Asphalt is to be poured to a depth of six inches on this thoroughfare.

the Romance of 4% and a $2,000 salary

THE most fascinating unwritten story is that of a young Santa Ana man working on a $2000 salary who has accumulated a small fortune and independence with absolutely no other help than his knowledge of how to use his Savings Account in the Farmers & Merchants. His system is simple, and we know of thousands of others doing identically the same thing, and that is TO PUT ASIDE A CERTAIN PERCENTAGE OF HIS INCOME REGULARLY. We are paying 4% interest on such accounts—the accumulations give these people their opportunities in Santa Ana—they have the money when the chance comes. Romances of 4% and $1000, $1500, $2000 salaries are constantly unfolding themselves in the history of Farmers & Merchants Savings Accounts.

"THE SCARLET LILY" AT TEMPLE TOMORROW

The methods pursued by men who possess unlimited wealth but no morals to lure young and unsophisticated maidens into their golden webs are myriad and varied.

An insight into the way this class of men lay traps for unwary girls is graphically portrayed in "The Scarlet Lily," which opens tomorrow at the Temple theater.

Katherine McDonald, hailed as "The American Beauty of Screenland," is the star of the photoplay.

"THE MASKED DANCER" AT WEST END TONIGHT

If a satisfied audience means anything, "The Masked Dancer," which opens at the West End theater tonight, is destined to draw a steady stream of photoplay patrons into that playhouse.

"The Masked Dancer" is an exceptionally interesting story with several novel and unexpected twists. It is capably directed and brilliantly acted. There are no flaws in its detail and it moves swiftly and surely to a logical conclusion.

The story deals with the strange adventures of a young writer by the name of Powell. He apparently tires of his wife and seeks diversion at a midnight restaurant where he is a constant visitor.

In this restaurant a dancer, her face concealed by a mask, springs into prominence. The writer and an East Indian Prince both fall madly in love with her. The former finally arranges a rendezvous. The girl removes her mask and reveals herself as the writer's wife.

Helene Chadwick is particularly appealing as the young wife and the masked dancer, and Lowell Sherman does splendid work in the role of the East Indian Prince. Leslie Austen is well cast as the erring husband.

Clean dancing at Huntington Beach every night except Monday. Great music.

Pep, thrills, beauty and a fund of good, wholesome amusement.

Since pictures made their first flicker on the screen, fighting and drinking scenes have been used over and over again to lend "action" to the plot. But Bruce Mitchell, who directed "Love's Whirlpool," decided an enthralling drama could be made without either fistfights or whiskey. So, in adapting Martha Lord's novel, Mitchell eliminated the fighting and drinking. Instead, he offered a holdup, a safe robbery, a shipwreck by fire, a clever escape from prison, a clairvoyant's parlor, a raid by the police, a thrilling dash to freedom, a weird mystery of occult forces and a transport of human regeneration to make his drama a potent vehicle of gripping action.

OPTIMISTIC VIEW AT ANAHEIM IS REVEALED

Real Estate and Building Men Report Business Increasing

ANAHEIM, June 19.—With orange packers and pickers busy and the grower getting good prices for citrus fruit, conditions in Anaheim are picking up and a general optimistic feeling is evident not only here but in the surrounding towns.

Prosperity seems to emanate from everyone and indications this year are that the Anaheim district will have a $3,000,000 orange crop as compared with a crop value at $2,750,000 last year.

Anticipate Busy Summer
Merchants of this city are anticipating the busiest summer and fall in recent years and as a result are laying in good stocks.

Real estate, according to a survey, is moving fast and building activities are increasing daily.

George W. Reid, secretary of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, recently made an investigation into business conditions. He called a meeting of all the merchants at which time it was generally agreed to cast aside the pessimistic attitude that had been prevalent.

Since then things have taken on a different air and merchants over the city today are wearing broad smiles and creating a cash balance in the banks.

The building permits for the month of May were $56,650, and for the previous month $52,750. On June 1 there was $52,000 in savings accounts in the various banks over the corresponding day in 1923.

Plan Industrial Site
Recently the Industrial Land Co., Inc., was organized at $200,000 capital and land purchased. This land now is being held by the corporation and will be sold to new industries at the actual cost price.

Oscar Renner, owner and proprietor of the S. Q. R. store, declares that the business men of the city are feeling the circulation of orange money by packers and pickers.

"Soon the owners will be getting their money and it will be put into circulation," declared Mr. Renner. "The statement of the month and month epidemic has improved conditions. People are coming here from the East and they also are bringing money. We had a good walnut crop last year and some of that money still is available."

William Falkenstein of the Falkenstein Dry goods store said: "During the last five or six weeks business has taken a turn for the better, especially since the packing houses opened. I am looking for an exceptionally good business summer and fall."

C. C. Case, an insurance man declared: "I have nothing to complain about. Last week I received a little pink slip from my home office on which was written 'Your district shows an increase in business of 800 per cent over a year ago.' People seem to have money and they are spending it."

Realty Values Attract Cash
Harry Sidman, a real estate broker, reported that he turned three deals in one day last week. "I received cash for every one of those deals," he said. "People are buying property now and if it is a desirable piece they dig down into their pockets and come forth with the cash. Many houses also are being sold and business property also is active."

Reid of the chamber of commerce estimates that there are more than seventy homes and buildings under construction in Anaheim at the present time while architects declare they are being called upon to work over time in order to take care of their business.

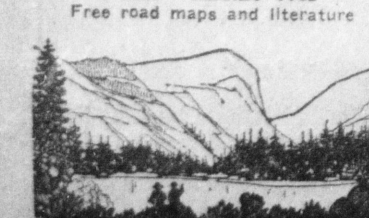

TO END WHITE PLAGUE.
ATLANTA, Ga., June 19.—Tuberculosis will be a negligible factor in America within two decades, according to Dr. Livingston Ferrand, president of the National Tuberculosis association. Remarkable progress has been made in fighting the disease, he told an audience at the 20th annual convention of the association here.

FULLERTON GRIPPED BY NEW ACTIVITY IN BUILDING LINE; PRICES SHOW GRADUAL BOOST

FULLERTON, June 19.—Activity in building and the general feeling of prosperity has gripped this city.

Plans were announced today by Stanley Chapman, son of C. C. Chapman that he will commence immediate construction here of one of the most beautiful theaters in Southern California. The new theater, when completed, will represent an expenditure of approximately a quarter of a million dollars. The site on which the edifice will be erected cost Mr. Chapman $110,000. The theater will be erected at Spadra street and Chapman avenue. Pictures and vaudeville will be shown at the theater.

That building activity is going ahead is shown by the fact that more than fifty buildings, mostly homes, are under construction in Fullerton at the present time.

George Raymer, secretary of the Fullerton Chamber of Commerce is full of optimism over one of the best business summer and fall of recent years.

"Conditions here, like other places in Southern California, were quiet until two or three weeks ago," said Mr. Raymer, "but I can see that business in every line is picking up. Prices are better than they have been for some time and while money is still somewhat tight nevertheless much is in circulation."

Waldo O'Kelly, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants bank, said that while money was not overly free at this time, indications pointed to a healthy business summer.

"The banks are not greatly benefitted," he said, "by the orange packers' and pickers' money, but the merchants declare they are getting their share and this is reflected in bank deposits. As soon as the orange growers get returns from their crops conditions will be even more materially improved."

A realty dealer says there is not a great deal of activity in their line, however, they predict that within thirty days a decided change for the better will have taken place.

Mr. Raymer says he has received seven requests from outside industries for either sites or information as to possibilities in Fullerton. Three of these requests have been turned down but it is believed that the other four industries will locate in Fullerton.

Industrial building is going along fine, it is said. The new glass factory and the Elephant Orchards association, new Orange packing plant are well under way.

Felix Stein, a hardware man and dealer in building materials, says his business has increased considerably over two months ago. Activity in the building line is especially felt by him.

Dale King, manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus Exchange, while not quoting any figures, says a large amount of money has come into Fullerton as a result of the opening of the packing and picking business.

Frank Benchley, architect, declares that the city has seen a decided change for the better already. This is reflected in his business, he declares and many new building plans are being drawn up.

MORE PAVING IS ORDERED AT FULLERTON

FULLERTON, June 19.—Plans for paving of streets on the south side have been ordered by the city council. This marks the first step for the improvement of a third district. Streets on the west side district were paved last year and pavement now is being laid on practically all the roads on the east side.

The proposed new pavements cover: Truslow avenue from Lawrence to Highland; Pomona avenue, from Santa Fe terrace to Elm; Maple avenue, and Ash and Elm avenues from Spadra creek to the city limits.

The board of trustees has decided to put its zoning ordinance into effect. The measure was drafted, approved and passed more than a year ago, but was never published and thus legally adopted. Trustee W. J. Carmichael and City Attorney F. H. Lyon have been appointed as a special committee to take up the question.

Owners of dogs in Fullerton will have to pay a tax for their pets, $2 for males and $4 for females. A city ordinance has been passed, regulating canines here.

BUSINESS MEN TO AID CITY COUNCIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—Pledging their co-operation to the Southern California Edison company in the conserving of electric power, and also pledging themselves to help the city in any way that they could a group of about twenty men met Tuesday night at the Obar banquet hall where a general get-together meeting was held and plans for the coming months were discussed.

The twenty men represented practically every civic organization in the city. They will hold their next meeting at the same place next Tuesday night at which time it is believed that a great many more public spirited individuals will be present.

Among the men at the meeting here Tuesday night were C. P. Patton, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who was nominated and elected as chairman of the meeting. H. S. Hancock was selected as the secretary. Others who attended the meeting were H. T. Dunning, Richard Drew, Joseph Vavra, Dan Goode, William Applefield, F. M. McElfresh, E. A. Suter, William Wright, R. L. Obar, E. P. Burney, T. B. Talbert, James Morris, J. A. Armistead, James Macklin, William Wharton, R. J. Prescott.

Aviator Denies His Plane Did Damage to Field

ORANGE, June 19.—That T. C. Ryan, Villa Park, aviator, was not the flyer that recently descended in the alfalfa patch belonging to Robert Wardlow, Westminister rancher, causing damage to the crop, was the declaration of the aviator's mother here today.

Mrs. Ryan declared that another aviator, whose name she couldn't supply, was the flyer who descended in the field when he was obliged to make a forced landing.

Ryan, she said, purchased the plane, however, and when he went to get it at the ranch, Wardlow would not give possession of the machine until the arrested damage to his alfalfa patch was paid. As a result Ryan filed suit in superior court for possession of the plane.

NEW PAPER FOR LAGUNA BEACH ANNOUNCED

LAGUNA BEACH, June 19.—The local paper has again changed owners. E. H. DeAhna on Tuesday sold his interest in "Laguna Life," the circulation, name, goodwill and advertising to S. S. Conklin and Belle McChord Roberts of Long Beach. Mr. DeAhna will continue with the job printing end of the business, retaining all his equipment and the present location.

Mr. Conklin and Mrs. Roberts are the owners of the Long Beach Telegram. They will print the local paper at Long Beach, have an office at Laguna in the Yoch building where the Laguna Electric company is now located. As before, the paper will be issued weekly, but when the circulation warrants, they will make a semi-weekly.

Mr. Hicks and Mr. Sheffield will take charge of the active management of the paper in Laguna Beach.

Here's News Notes For Irvine People

IRVINE, June 19.—Relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lyle Forney of Santa Ana, delightfully entertained them to a barbecue at a barbecue at Orange county park Saturday evening. Mrs. Forney, a recent bride, was formerly Miss Antoinette Ahern of Irvine. Mr. Forney is the son of D. M. Forney of Tustin. The young couple have been the incentive for several parties, since their marriage on May 31. Those who enjoyed the happy party, however, were Mr. and Mrs. Forney and initiating them into the "young married couples ranks," were Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson of Redondo Beach, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Keubler, of Anaheim, Mr. and Mrs. John Nelson of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warner of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Ole Nelson of Los Angeles, and Miss Lillian Ahern of Anaheim.

On Sunday, a large group of Irvine motorists to San Juan Hot Springs to enjoy a huge barbecue, given by several of the local people.

After a pleasant swim in the plunge, the merry group feasted heartily, enjoying all that goes along to make up a delectable feed. Dancing and card playing passed away the afternoon all too quickly, and the party broke up early in the evening, after enjoying a well spent day. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Hurley Sear and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cooke, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDonald and children, Lillian and Alona, and Lillian Avis Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Staples and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Morris, and daughter, Alice, and son Ralph, Mr. and Mrs. Stockton and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Quick and family, Mr. J. A. Ross and daughter Lulu, and Christine and son Leonard, Mr. Jim Peters, Mr. and Mrs. William Whitehead and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lyons.

Master Leonard Ross, suffered a light attack of the mumps this week.

Mrs. Oswald Staples and daughter Olga, are spending a few days in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spalletta motored to Los Angeles Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Orton and children Betty and Harry Jr. are spending a few weeks at Laguna Beach.

ANAHEIM SEEKS ANNEXATION OF TRACT

Industrial Section Included In New Area North- east of City

ANAHEIM, June 19.—Development of Anaheim's forty-acre industrial tract, together with other extensive acreage in the northeast section of the city, was assured today with the path cleared for the regular legal proceedings which will bring 128 acres of land into the city limits of Anaheim, thus warranting the extension of the outfall sewer line to this district, and also an adequate supply of light, power and gas.

Special Election Set.
A special election has been called for July 23, when registered voters in the proposed annexation district, will cast their ballots. An almost unanimous consent among the property owners to come into the city, was noted by the petitions presented to the city council at the special session called last night.

The election requires a majority vote only for the annexation and it is freely predicted that this will be easily obtained.

The territory which is to be brought into the city includes not only the forty-acre industrial site, but the property owned by the Anaheim Beef company, the Chrysler Chemical company, and the Holly Sugar company, besides extensive ranch territory.

Absorb Mexican Settlement.
The annexation will also probably absorb the territory occupied by the Mexican settlement which is located just north of the city on the main boulevard between Anaheim and Fullerton. It has been pointed out for many years that the Mexican settlement at this place has stopped the growth of the residential sections to the north and it is believed that with the annexation of the new land, this settlement can eventually be removed.

Local sewer lines which will be extended to the new industrial tract will provide another feature that will prove attractive to manufacturers who are securing sites in the tract.

Boundaries of the territory which will be annexed start from Patt street and extend to La Palma, then east on La Palma to a line parallel with the railroad; north on this line to the middle of Orange street; west on Orange street to the center of Patt street when extended to Orange street; south on the line connecting Patt street and Orange street to the Janss property; west on the northern boundary of the Fred West property; south on the west line of West property to the Holly Sugar company land; east on the north line of the Holly Sugar company to a point 190 feet east of the middle of Lemon street; then south 660 feet, and then west to the middle of Lemon street; south on the line connecting the city limits; then southeast parallel with Los Angeles street; then east parallel with La Palma street to the point of beginning on Patt street.

PERMIT TO ERECT HOUSE IS ISSUED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 19.—A permit for the erection of a residence estimated to cost about $3000 was issued here today to Mrs. Mary D. Benning, of 325 Fifteenth street, according to reports on file at the city engineer's office this morning. Walter and Massey of this city are the contractors for the building which will contain four rooms and will be of frame construction.

Despite the comparative slowness of building permit issuances for the month, several large enterprises are expected to be started toward the end of the month which will bring the total for the month still higher. Permits for the month to date total $3525. These permits include one residence and garage, three additions to residences, and business houses, and one garage.

FOUR HOMES AT FULLERTON LOOTED

FULLERTON, June 19.—Four local homes last night received visits from burglars who obtained about $35 in cash, a gold watch and demolished the greater part of a fine chocolate cake which had been left in the cooler. The intruders followed much the same tactics as those pursued in other robberies of local homes a few weeks ago.

In two of the places they gained access by silting screen windows, and using pass keys to get into the residences thoroughly but confined their operations to lifting money. The victims were: A. Peterson, 137 West Rosslyn avenue; A. L. Mason, 117 West Rosslyn; C. C. Taylor, 119 West Rosslyn; and D. Burdorf, South Harvard.

SECOND WELL IS BROUGHT IN NEAR COUNTY HARBOR; TWO OTHERS TO GO DOWN

NEWPORT BEACH, June 19.—Monarch well No. 1 of the Fulkerson syndicate owned by San Diego theater men, was today on the pump at slightly over 100 barrels daily production, it was announced by Walter J. Fulkerson, president of the company.

The oil in the new well is similar to that in the first Fulkerson well put on production, being of an unusually heavy asphaltic nature. Hot water is used in extracting it from the earth, Fulkerson said. A much higher price is secured for the asphaltic product than for ordinary "black gold," oil men admitted.

The Fulkerson company now has Monarch No. 1 and Newport No. 2 producing. Newport No. 1, which was brought in at 1700 feet, in the boring of which much trouble was encountered and many tools lost, will be abandoned, it was asserted. Fulkerson will begin the erection at once of two new derricks for wells near the present ones. The wells will be drilled to 1000 feet at least unless the price of crude advances, which will bring about a deepening. The Fulkerson company has eight acres leased and seeks more land.

Redlands Man Is Back At Beach; Rheumatism Again

NEWPORT BEACH, June 19.—Harry Weaver of Redlands is back at the Municipal Auto camp at Newport Beach.

Be it known that Harry himself says the bay at Newport is the greatest place in the world to cure rheumatism.

Two years ago Weaver drove into the auto camp suffering from rheumatism. He contracted it on the way down. Two days spent almost entirely in the water proved an effective cure.

Last Year Weaver contracted the affliction again and once more the Newport Bay waters cured him.

Now he's back again; came in Tuesday.

Representatives Of Beach Cities Seek Conference

NEWPORT BEACH, June 19.—Plans for a conference of all South Coast beach cities is being urged by the chamber of commerce of Long Beach, according to a letter received from the secretary of that organization by Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

The conference, according to Mr. Welch, coincides with the views of the officials of the Harbor Chamber and that organization will be represented at the meeting.

According to the Long Beach chamber official, the suggestion has been made at different times by a number of men from the various beach cities, suggesting a get-together meeting of the various chambers and business men of the beach cities to discuss matters pertaining to harbor development and other subjects of common interest.

Oliver J. Brisson, author of the letter, writes:

"We would be glad to have such a meeting in Long Beach or, if another place is preferable, we will gladly agree to work for such a meeting in any other city which may be chosen. The proposition of holding such a meeting for the mutual benefit of the beach cities has been discussed in the meeting of the board of directors of the Long Beach chamber and the suggestion has been received with favor."

Mr. Welch has written Brisson expressing favorable sentiment on the part of the harbor chamber directors for such a meeting and assurance that Orange county harbor will be represented.

WOULD OUST PEACOCKS.

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng., June 19.—Bournemouth citizens are circulating a petition demanding the removal of two peacocks that were brought here by the town council to beautify the city. The nocturnal cries of the two birds can be heard from one side of the town to the other, and one of the pair frightened an elderly spinster by appearing in her parlor window recently.

Appropriation For Life Saving Station Sought

BALBOA, June 19.—The Orange county board of supervisors is reported to be considering favorably at the urging of Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange county harbor chamber of commerce, the appropriation of $3000 to establish a weather and life saving station near the Palisades, it was learned today. The cost of the station is estimated at $6000 and it is expected that the remainder of the money will be raised at the harbor.

The installation of a weather and life saving station on the point has been under consideration for some time. The committee has been working on the matter and Mr. Welch appeared before the county board only after he had obtained sufficient data to warrant the request.

The recent disaster in which eight persons lost their lives is believed to have been a determining factor for action by the committee and county board.

Work on the station will be rushed and Anter Deraga, captain of the life guards, will be placed in charge. The government has agreed to supply the necessary weather reading instruments.

"It's another step towards government recognition of Orange county harbor," declared George P. Wilson, president of the board of trustees.

ROAD "SIGNING" TO BE FINISHED

BALBOA, June 19.—Newport Beach and Balboa real estate men have undertaken the signing of the coast line highway in co-operation with the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce. This agreement was reached by J. A. Armistead of Huntington Beach and the harbor realtors, at a meeting held Monday.

The suggestion for signing the road comes in response to numerous calls for information as to routing of travel between these coast points and until the paved road way along the shore line is finished short detours will be marked so that none can get off the best and shortest route.

The Huntington Beach chamber will appoint a special committee, it is learned, to meet with the Harbor Realty club committee which was appointed Monday and consists of H. H. Williamson of Costa Mesa, Benjamin Funcheon of Balboa and W. C. Burris of Newport Beach.

Work on the new paved roadway is progressing satisfactorily, according to Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Harbor Chamber of Commerce. The work of grading is going on from both ends and paving should be started within the very near future. It is believed the road will be open for travel during the early part of September.

FRUIT INSPECTIONS IN STATE INCREASE

Great increase in inspections of shipments of fruits and vegetables has made necessary reorganization of the State-Federal Fruit and Vegetable Inspection service, it was announced today by G. H. Hecke, director of the California state department of agriculture.

The number of shipping point inspectors is being increased. E. J. Powell, formerly supervising inspector of the Northern California district, has been appointed assistant state supervisor of shipping point inspection, in direct charge of all this work in the state. H. W. Peterson has been promoted to fill the position formerly held by Powell. H. F. Larson, supervising inspector, remains in the Southern California district, and also has charge of the shipping point inspection work in the coast district.

NAME DERAGA LIFE GUARD CAPTAIN

American Red Cross Chief Picks Him to Head Volunteer Body

NEWPORT BEACH, June 19.—Antar Deraga, well known life saver and weather man at Newport Beach, today received appointment as captain of the volunteer life savers of Newport Beach. Appointment was made by Commodore Davis of the life saving department of the American Red Cross, with headquarters in Seattle.

The volunteer life saving organization of Newport Beach is the only one of its kind in southern California. At the present time there are about ten members but it is believed by Deraga that this number will be increased to at least twenty within the next thirty days.

"With twenty men we could patrol the entire beach Sundays and give demonstrations on life saving and first aid," declared Deraga today. "Instruction is given by the guards in practically every beach resort in the country. People also should be taught how to use the life saving reel and other equipment. At the present time there is no place on the west coast where first instruction is given aside from Seattle."

Newport Beach Auto Camp Notes

NEWPORT BEACH, June 19.—E. Jackson of Yucaipa is making his annual visit to the Newport Beach Municipal Auto camp and is doing nothing more than swimming, sleeping and watching three boys he brought with him.

Jackson made his first trip to Newport a couple of years ago. He came alone that year. He repeated in 1923, again coming alone. This year he brought three boys with him to enjoy the bathing.

Jackson is a bachelor and believes, as he says, in taking things easy during the summer months after a hard winter's work. The boys he brought with him this year are sons of neighbors and they are having the time of their young lives, swimming and fishing, so they say.

Newport Beach and Balboa soon will come into their own. The annual summer influx will start next week, according to W. J. Truax, custodian of the Municipal Auto camp. Already Mr. Truax is receiving letters from former visitors who live in the northern part of the state. They seek information as to whether they can be accommodated this year. School will let out this week and next week should see the camp take on its usual summer hustle, says Truax.

"While we do not make any reservations," said Mr. Truax, nevertheless we inform the prospective visitors that they will be plenty of room for them and it necessary the camp will be enlarged to take care of them. "I look for the biggest summer season we have ever had."

NAMES ALMOST TWINS.

LUPTON, Colo., June 19.—After giving considerable thought to the matter, names have been provided for the three triplets of Mr. and Mrs. John Clawson. Leo, Leo and Leon were the names chosen for the babies, with alphabetical additions which will cause them to be known as Leo A., Leo B. and Leo C. Clawson.

HEAVY GRAZING HELPS

Recent tests have broken down the belief that heavy grazing ruins a pasture. Instead, it increases the output of milk or meat, and at the same time it is a good preventive against weeds. One steer to an acre recently brought nearly double the gain in weight than a steer to two acres.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga., flees to Alaska, after being told by Ivan Ishmin, Russian violinist, he had drowned. Paul Sarichef, Ishmin's secretary, Ishmin and Peter's wife, Dorothy, had argued him to flee to South America. He joins Big Chris Larson in response to a distress signal at sea, giving Larson's son, Peter, a chance to live. Larson's body is buried at sea. Peter, completely changed his appearance. Dorothy and Ishmin go to Alaska to return Peter's body. They do not find it. A storm strands them in the ice. Peter is tempted to murder Ishmin when he sees the latter kiss Dorothy, but next day rescues him from a charging bear. Ishmin, who had been wounded, "threw" his ship not before Peter lays plans for their escape before winter sets in.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I do mean it. You've kept your place so far and I know you'll continue to for the breeds as well as I can. We'll call it decided—only, if you don't mind, Dorothy, we'll wait one more day to see if the ship comes in."

Thus it was arranged, and now, as the night lowered, Ivan and Dorothy sat by the fireside at the door of her tent.

Tonight Ivan urged immediate marriage. When Dorothy asked him how, exiled as they were from civilization, immediate marriage could be brought about, he had a ready answer. "Can marriages occur only in civilization?" he asked. "It's especially simple here—you know that Nick Pavlov is empowered to marry people. As you must have heard, he has some sort of right from the Greek Church—hereditary, I guess—and it holds good through all this end of Alaska. A license is not required when there is no way to get it—it's just a legal record, at best—and if you wish, that could be handled when we get to Seward. Marry me tonight, Dorothy—then together we'll go away—to Russia, to the South Seas, anywhere."

His face was stark white; his eyes glowed like the coals of dying fire. Her lips trembled piteously as she caught his hand in the dusk. "Don't talk about it tonight," she urged, almost pleading. "I'm so troubled—the future is so uncertain—"

He looked straight into her eyes, as if he would hypnotize her. "You're troubled only because you haven't as yet made up your mind to accept me—a decision you are sure to make in the end," he told her slowly, with deep emphasis. "You won't quit being troubled until you do it—because you love me in your heart. For this same reason your future seems so dark and uncertain. Dorothy, marry me tonight and put your destiny in my hands."

"I don't want to think about it any more tonight," she told him earnestly. "Ivan, I wish you would play. Sometimes music is like a light, helping me to straighten everything out—"

He took the violin in his slim hands. He hesitated, then began softly the immortal "Elegie" by Tasselet. The song, so deathlessly sweet, brought her very nearly to the answer of her problem. She did not actually come to a conclusion in regard to Ivan's suit, but she believed she found the reason why she had not yielded to him long since, and thus the source of all her uncertainty, her haunting doubts and fears. This was a song of the dead, and through the magic of its genius she was able, vaguely, to pierce the veil of death.

It was, indeed, a loyalty to Peter—mistaken, perhaps, but yet an emotion of great power—that had kept her from Ivan's arms so long. Partly this loyalty was an echo of her remembered love for him, partly it was born of her remorse for failure in duty toward him. And now that she stood at Peter's grave, the situation had reached its crisis.

"Tell me something, Ivan?" The girl spoke quietly, her low, deep, beautiful voice tremulous with wonder, and the soft, starlike luster of tears in her eyes. "Ivan, do you believe in ghosts?"

"Of course," he said. "Who doesn't? No one can believe in immortality and not, strictly speaking, believe in ghosts. The whole world knows of them—not just believes in them."

"A great truth has just come to me," The girl was exalted. "I've known it all the time, but I just wasn't aware of it. Maybe that isn't plain, but I mean that I've sensed it, subconsciously—all the time I've been here—in some back part of myself; and I can't imagine why I've taken so long for my conscious self to be aware of it. The music sent it home to me, just now."

"It often takes music, or some other stimulus to the emotions, to send home the truth. What is it?" he asked gently.

CHAPTER XII

The Seance

THEY were both silent as they thought of the immensity of this; the convoy by the dead. Ivan, always something of a mystic, caught fire at once and leaped toward her in deepest interest. "Peter's spirit has held me up, all the way through," she told him in a soft monotone that did not in the least conceal her emotion. "It kept me from being afraid, all these days—and has comforted me when the wind blew—and during those long hours that I watched for the Warrior to return."

"It's not very flattering to me—that the ghost of a dead man should be more assurance to you than I!"

"You've been a wonderful help, too," She paused, and her face was stark white in the dusk. "Ivan, do you think we could get a message through to him?"

"I don't know," Ivan spoke very softly. "The dead have been called back. What do you want to tell him?"

any failure in duty toward him—and I want his advice, how to go on."

Ivan was fully receptive to her mood, and he sat a moment with bowed head. "We can try, Dorothy," he said at last. "We can hold a seance—surely every advantage is in our favor. Fortune Joe is a medicine man, and Bradford described what he called the spirit rite. He might bring a word through. Who knows?"

"Get all five of us in a circle—"

"The bigger the circle the better. Shall I summon the three men?"

But they chose to walk together to the guides' quarters, finding the men smoking in comfort before their low fire. "Joe, isn't it true you are a medium?" Ivan began addressing the witch doctor.

"That you can get word through to the dead?" Mr. Bradford told us you had that reputation—"

"Yes, Me talk with dead," Joe answered simply.

"Then tonight, Mrs. Newhall wants you to try to talk with the man who lies buried here," He pointed to the cross, and and ghostly itself in the pale light, on the beach, but a short distance below the camp. He was Mrs. Newhall's husband, as you know, and she wants to get a message from him. Will you be willing to try a seance?"

"Don't know seance. Sometime call—no answer. Maybe get answer tonight."

"You'll come too, Pavlov—and Pete. We're going to make a little circle."

To Pete, it was the crowning touch of the whole, fantastic tragic-comic adventure.

Yet there was a solemn air to the little meeting that was held straightaway on the grassy land just above the grave. The medium sat between Dorothy and Ivan; Pete was on the other side of Dorothy and Pavlov next to him. Touching hands lightly, they sat intent.

Fortune Joe had gone into what seemed a half-trance; his head was bowed, his face white as if with unutterable agony. They heard him moan softly, in the utter silence.

"What you want?" he mumbled at last. "Me all tangled—spirit keeps floating up there, keeps floating back here. Who you want 'ee to call?"

"My husband!" Dorothy answered quickly. "The man who lies here dead—under this cross!"

There was a brief spell of silence, then the native moaned again. There ensued a second of struggle in which liquid fire seemed to leap through the chain of their hands. Then Joe's trance seemed to deepen.

"Dead man—he here," he said slowly. "Man—died in the water—lay under cross. What you want?"

"Ask him if he forgives everything," the girl whispered. Tears softened her voice. "Ask him if I am to go ahead—and do what Ivan wants me to do."

The medicine man's blanched face and subdued struggles seemed to indicate tremendous difficulty in getting the questions through, and hearing their answer. His face worked. "You make fun of me," he moaned softly. "You laugh at me—"

Dorothy cast one indignant glance above the circle, saw that every face was intent, and soberly pressed tight the native's hand. "Oh, no! We're not laughing. Get what message you can for me then—"

She waited in ineffable anxiety for this word from beyond the grave. "The man—me here," the native muttered, half-intelligibly. "He drown—cut up by rocks. He say—change the name."

This was something concrete, and the girl trembled in the brooding mystery of the moment. "Is that all—to change my name?"

"Change name!" Me no get no more. Everything else all clouded."

Yet was it not enough? Dorothy did not doubt that she had her answer. To change the name—surely that meant nothing more or less than to yield her destiny to Ivan. The man who lay dead was willing that she should, by the fact of marriage, disclaim his own proud name and take the name of another.

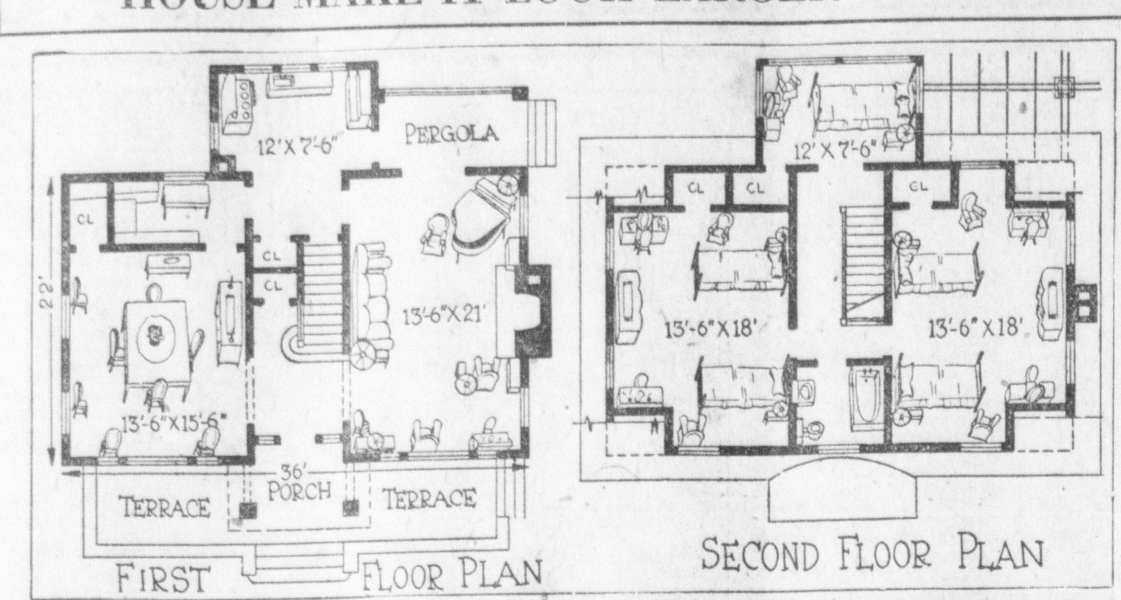

They waited a while more for further word from the other side, but the medicine man seemed only confused and faltering. "Can you talk to Paul Sarichef?" she asked. "Maybe you can get in touch with him. I want to know that everything is forgiven—over there. That all debts are paid."

HIDES IN BATH TUB

PARIS, June 19.—After searching four days for Andre Cochin, bank bandit, police found him hidden beneath an overturned bath tub, just outside Paris. When placed under arrest, Cochin told the authorities that he would like to take a bath before going to jail.

BROKEN LINES OF SMALL DUTCH COLONIAL HOUSE MAKE IT LOOK LARGER THAN IT IS

The Dutch colonial house building design is one of the most popular with prospective home owners.

This style of architecture is attractive in exterior appearance, while the interior is so arranged that there is plenty of light and ventilation, the rooms are of good size and conveniently arranged. The broken roof lines and the dormer windows at the front and back give the home the appearance of a much larger house than it really is.

The design shown in the accompanying illustration is an unusually good example of the Dutch colonial, made so by the terrace porch that extends the length of the house.

Five good-sized rooms, a sleeping porch and bath are shown on the floor plans. All of the rooms with the exception of the kitchen are unusually large, and are compactly arranged.

The entrance leads into a reception hall. At the right through a cased opening is the living room, running the depth of the house. Set into the outside wall is the fireplace.

At the back is a pergola porch, reached from the living room through French doors. At the left of the entrance hall, also connected by a cased opening, is the dining room.

The kitchen is large enough to accommodate the usual fixtures and still small enough to conserve the energies of the housekeeper. A large pantry connects the dining room and kitchen.

Upstairs there are two bedrooms, one on each side of the hall. Each is unusually large.

This home can be built, in most localities, for about $7,500. Building costs vary according to the interior woodwork and other materials used and the labor conditions in the community.

PLAN TO CLOSE NAVY TRAGEDY PROBE TODAY

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SAN PEDRO, June 19.—Final questioning of witnesses in the probe of the U. S. S. Mississippi disaster, which claimed 48 lives of officers and men, was expected to occur today.

Judge Advocate Boyd was to gather his naval board together on the hospital ship Relief this morning and hear from additional lips of seared sailors who were in Turret No. 2 but who escaped death, their recollections of the explosion.

Part of the day's probe will be conducted on the U. S. S. New Mexico, following departure of the Mississippi to San Francisco for repairs.

Turret captain C. F. Rynes, the one man in the second turret the board most wants to quiz, may never live to be questioned. He was reported in extremely critical condition aboard the Relief, with a probability death will claim him at any time.

In delirium, hovering between life and death, Rynes talks at times incoherently, muttering, "The air is low, sir. My God, we must have more air."

Possibility that low pressure in the air tubes that automatically clean out the guns may have caused the explosion would seem to be given additional credence if the ravings of the demented man may be taken as of any value.

The waterfront was teeming with its usual industry today as longshoremen worked and ships slipped into harbor or left for other ports.

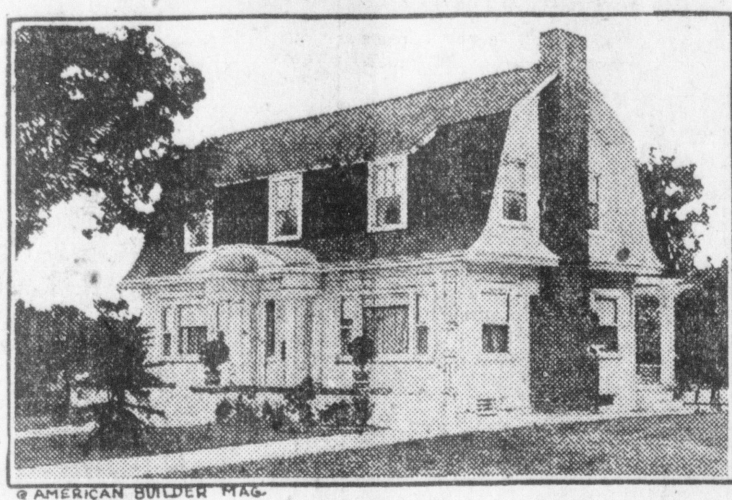

Aboard the vessels of the fleet, drills and routine duties were performed. One location in "battle-ship row" was vacant. The Mississippi was gone. It sailed last night for Mare Island, where the damaged turret will be repaired as soon as the final inspection is made.

Bodies of the dead heroes have been started on their last journey, back to the home towns from which the young men came, where sorrowing relatives and friends wait to receive them.

5 Motorists Pay Violation Fines

One speeder and four motorists who violated the city parking ordinance had been fined today by City Recorder W. F. Heathman.

Benjamin Funcheon of Balboa paid $15 for speeding across the intersection at Washington avenue and Main street. Chris Ambro was assessed $25 for parking his car over night in the downtown district, and H. E. Grebs was fined $5 for parking overtime in the two-hour zone. Mrs. W. K. Fogg and Mrs. Warner Cochrane, both of Pasadena, were fined $2 each for parking their automobiles in the restricted district.

HOUSE RENTALS INCREASE AT CO. HARBOR

NEWPORT BEACH, June 19.—

The rental situation in Newport Beach and Balboa is picking up. Inquiries for rental property are pouring in on Lew Wallace and W. A. Irwin at Newport Beach and the score of other realty dealers in Balboa.

A week ago, according to the realtors, the situation was not so good. But with school letting out people from the northern part of the state are planning their annual visit here. There are many strangers asking for houses, cabins and tents for from one week to the remainder of the summer.

At the present time there are many vacancies in both the beach cities. This condition, however, is not alarming, say real estate men. Before the end of June these same predilections will be at a premium.

Sick Boy Left To Strve by Alaska Indians

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, June 19.—

Evidence of continuation of brutal tribal customs by some of the Indian tribes of the far north came to light here when news was received that Sam Brooks, a native boy afflicted with tuberculosis, was taken by his tribal people, conveyed to a lonely spot far removed from settlement, given a supply of provisions and abandoned to starvation when his food was depleted. Unable to retrace his steps to the tribal village, the boy ended his life by cutting his throat.

Despite efforts of missionaries, there are yet many settlements of natives in the subarctic regions who still practice ancient customs in dealing with the aged and decrepit. Recently it was discovered that aged members of far northern tribes were taken into the wilderness, where a log hut was constructed in the form of a prison, wherein the victim was walled up to await the slow process of starvation.

Since the natives of Alaska for the most part have come within the jurisdiction of the bureau of education, the school and proper supervision have stamped out many of the evils besetting the aborigine before and after his contact with the white men. In the case of Sam Brooks, who was at one time a reindeer herder, the officials of the bureau of education are making an investigation.

TO SHOW VIEWS OF BUILDING PROJECTS

Santa Anans who are interested in the progress and development of important engineering projects throughout Southern California will be given an opportunity to see photographs showing the status of such development. These pictures will be shown in the near future to the public through the Southern California chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America.

Interesting views of the construction work at various stages during the course of erection will be taken each week by the chapter cameraman and placed on display in attractive frames in the public library and the windows of banks and stores here.

The first of the series of photographs will depict the work of unearthing the Haverly group of six prehistoric men, believed by eminent scientists to be of great age, which were recently found by the Thomas Haverly company, public works contractors of Los Angeles, on Mesa near the historic Baldwin hills.

PLANS $5000 HOUSE

Building permits took a jump of $5000 today when Building Inspector W. S. Decker announced the issuance of a permit for the construction of a five-room stucco residence and garage at 411 West Santa Clara avenue, to Roy Russell of 2016 North Broadway.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, June 18.—

The Presbyterian church here was well filled Sunday with parents and friends and the Sunday school children, beautifully dressed, did their best to entertain them with a children's Day program. There was an abundance of flowers, some of the children carrying large bouquets. The program was opened with a song by all, then an earnest prayer by Dr. Richard Foster, after which Thelma Jackson welcomed the guests. The children spoke their verses with a great deal of feeling and understanding, and the several solos by older girls were well rendered, and with poise. A special collection taken up by the children for home Sunday school work, netted something more than $15.00.

The boys of Rucker No. 1 have eight to fish a disk off a pole, which they lost a few days ago and are now making hole around 2400 feet.

HELEN WILLS AGAIN
LOSES IN ENGLAND

Molla Mallory Does Better But Suffers Defeat In Three Hard Sets

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WIMBLEDON, June 19.—Britain's women's tennis players won the Wightman cup today when Helen Wills, American champion, lost to little Miss Kathleen McKane of England in straight sets 6-2, 6-2.

The match was the deciding one of seven which are always played in competition for this trophy. "Great Britain" won all three that were played yesterday.

Molla Mallory today made a better showing against Miss Phyllis Covell than Helen Wills did yesterday, but she, too, met defeat, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

Defeat of the California girl was not unexpected, in view of her poor showing yesterday, but her game today was over-short. Where yesterday in losing to Miss Covell, she constantly drove out of bounds, today Miss Wills was failing to clear the net.

Miss McKane played brilliantly, catching the American out of position again and again. One hopeful sign was the improvement in Miss Wills' service. She was getting her first service in repeatedly, with tremendous pace. At the end she had tired visibly and was unable to cover much ground.

The first American victory in this year's Wightman cup matches came when Helen Wills and Mrs. Wightman defeated Miss McKane and Miss Collier two sets out of three. The scores were 2-6, 6-2, 6-4.

Sanborn's Little Plumber

It's the easiest thing in the world for the trap under your laundry tubs or kitchen sink to spring a leak. It may not be your fault—perhaps the plumbing is old and worn out. We can either fix the leak or give you an estimate of the cost of new plumbing. Send for us. You'll find us prompt, expert and reasonable.

BASEBALL'S BLUE BLOODS OF BINGLEVILLE

When the Red Sox go against the Tygers mighty clouters decorate the box score. Of the ten leading swatters in the American league, five of them are members of these two teams. Recently they posed together, the five of them; namely, Cobb and Heilmann of the Tygers; Boone, Harris and Shano Collins—no kin to Eddie—of the Red Sox. You see them here.

AGES OF 3 SENATOR
HURLERS TOTAL 106

Johnson Now at 37 Mark With Mogridge 35 and Joe Martina 34

BY BILLY EVANS
American League Umpire

Youth must be served is an old and usually truthful adage in the world of sport.

There are exceptions, however, to every rule.

This holds good for the pitching staff of the Washington club of the American league for this year. Manager Stanley Harris of the Nationals is rebuilding his ball club. Naturally the pitching staff is receiving much consideration. He feels that he has a number of promising twirling recruits.

Only recently President Clarke Griffith was reported to have expressed the opinion that in Fred Marberry he had a second Walter Johnson. In a number of games the big southerner has showed a lot of stuff but he has had his troubles winning.

Used for Relief

Going to the relief of other pitchers he has been of great value, but it has been a difficult matter for him to make much of a showing in the games won column. Twice he has rescued the great Walter Johnson and saved the day.

Paul Zahniser is another youngster with plenty of stuff. He figured to be a big winner for the Nationals, but wildness has been his great handicap.

Speech, a rookie with a Carl Mays delivery, looks like a good bet. He seems to lack only experience.

While the youthful Washington pitchers show great promise they have had their troubles winning ball games. Youth isn't exactly being served from a pitching standpoint, as far as Washington is concerned.

Veteran Pitchers Star

As a matter of fact the Washington players refer to their pitching strength as the 110-year-old pitching staff.

The players have reference to Walter Johnson, George Mogridge and Joe Martina. This trio comprises Washington's 110-year-old pitching staff, as the players call it, although the actual age of the three is only 106.

The great Walter Johnson is 37. The veteran George Mogridge confesses to 35, while Joe Martina admits to 34, making him the oldest rookie to ever make good in the big show.

Youth usually holds sway in sport but with the Washington club age dominates the pitching staff. Johnson, Mogridge and Martina have been the consistent winners for the kid manager, Stanley Harris.

Fights and Fighters

OAKLAND—Jimmy Duffy, Pacific coast welterweight champion, knocked out Young Carmen, of San Francisco, in the third round of a terrific battle here last night. Johnny Farr outpointed Eddie Maczy. "Dutty" Miller, colored heavyweight, received the decision over Fred Sullivan. Jack Dempsey was present.

Grunion Seekers
In Last Workout
Of June Tonight

The third run of grunion during the full moon will occur tonight, unless cloudy weather or rip tides interfere. Tuesday night few fish were caught, although considerable grunion were caught by fishermen last night. Tonight, the final night of the monthly season, the fish will be in at high tide, scheduled for 10:58 p. m.

Grunion may be caught either with nets in the surf, or picked up on the sand when the receding waves leave them high and dry.

Frank Angell's Pen Pushers completed their Harbor league bowling schedule at the A. and B. alleys here last night by winning by forfeit from the Dale Hardware. The Dales, not showing, Angell's team rolled as follows:

Angell's Pen Pushers
James	1st	2nd

ERTLE TRIMS LEARY

SAN FRANCISCO—Bobby Ertle, coming from behind, received a verdict over Tommy Leary in the main event here last night. Johnny Burns defeated Battling Dane. Eddie Boody outpointed Min Minnick.

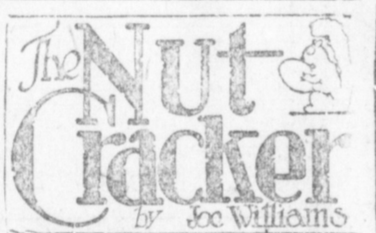

Cyril Walker is the smallest player to win the open golf championship since 1908 when half-pint Freddie McLeod strode on to victory at the Myopia Hunt club. Walker is even smaller than McLeod.

The New Jersey professional weighed 122 pounds at the start of the championship. After he had run down the winning putt on the seventy-second green at Oakland Hills he weighed 116 pounds. In two days, then, he dropped six pounds. That gives you an idea of the terrific strain the golfer faces in the "$50,000 championship."

A bigger man—a man of the Ted Ray type—would have dropped about twenty pounds. Walker came through mainly because he was hitting his shots well and did not have to "fight" for his scores. He was not often in trouble, and the blustery weather gave him only a modicum of trouble.

Walker's game is built essentially on wrist action and the secret of playing in gales, such as existed at the Michigan course, is all wrist control.

It is reported that Jack Dempsey has faded to a shadow, but even as a shadow boxer he's probably better than the rest.

In spite of the fact that it has been a cold spring we note that Walter Johnson is fanning as many guys as ever.

Somebody ought to ask Mr. Coolidge which circs gave him the most luffs—Ringling's or Congress.

Connie Mack spent $100,000 last winter to strengthen the Athletics who are now last * * * Maybe the job was turned over to the same gents who built our airplanes during the war.

We would be more excited at the news that McGraw is suffering from housemaid's knee if we could be sure that it had a dimple.

For a team of discards the Red Sox seem to be doing pretty nicely. * * * But as Mr. O'Goofy says it is not hard to pick a winning hand from the discards if you know the game, and Lee Fohl apparently knows the game.

It seems that the Sinclair entry was gyped out of third place in the Derby * * * Now in the good old days Harry Daugherty would never have stood for anything as raw as that.

QUENTIN ROMERO WINS.

Don't Paint
Your Car!
—until you have investigated
"DUCO"

the nationally advertised Dupont product which is revolutionizing Automobile Refinishing and which we are now applying in Santa Ana.

The Weather Cannot Hurt the New Duco Finish

Duco Finish is different from any other finish ever put on a motor car. And it stands what no finish has ever stood before.

With Duco Finish on your car; you can leave it out in all kinds of weather. Rain, mud, snow, ice, won't hurt it a bit. Let the hot sun shine on it all day, or run the engine scalding hot. Duco won't blister or fade.

After weeks of hard driving, you can rub ordinary mud spots off Duco with a dry cloth, if you like, for only sharp pebbles will scratch the finish. The lustre gets higher and finer with age.

Every car owner who has seen Duco wants it. Come to our shop and see cars finished with it. Watch us make tests to prove its durability. Talk to owners who have tested every claim we make. Let us finish your car with Duco in one-third to one-half the usual time required. It will always look new as long as you own it.

We have engaged Mr. Fort, a factory expert, as our head finisher, who is considered the best on the coast today.

EVENING SALUTATION

Oh, sweet the dropping eve, the blush of morn.
The starlit sky, the rustling fields of corn.
The soft air blowing from the freshening seas.
The sun-flecked shadow of the stately trees.
The mellow thunder and the lulling rain.
The warm, delicious, happy summer rain.
When the grass brightens and the days grow long.
And little birds break out in rippling song!

CONGRESSMAN SWING'S PLATFORM

In plain language that anyone can understand, Congressman Phil D. Swing on his return from Washington has given forth a statement opening his campaign for re-election. Congressman Swing has never dodged issues; he is not built on the dodging line. He sees a thing clearly; he states his views clearly; he is not afraid to give an accounting of his acts.

And his statement to the voters of the district is forward-looking. He sees ahead. Incidentally, in looking ahead, he makes reference to the things that he has stood for.

In another column of The Register, the congressman's statement appears in full. It is the duty of every voter of this district to read that statement carefully. No man or woman has a right to pass judgment upon a candidate without giving that candidate a fair hearing. While it seems certain that Congressman Swing, in his campaign, will have overwhelming support in this county, it is only fair to him that that support be based upon his views as well as upon his personality, record, experience and value to the district. Those who are for Swing, on reading his statement, will have added strength to their advocacy of his re-election.

"I favor the Volstead act and its strict enforcement." What could be more direct, more to the point, than those nine words? Congressman Swing has not wasted a syllable in making his position clear.

His modesty is evidenced in his declaration concerning the closing of the Mexican border. He does not take to himself the credit he deserves in securing the enactment that has resulted in the betterment of conditions along the border. Yet it was he and he alone who won that fight. He created the issue at Washington and saw it through to a conclusion. The fact that he did win is recognized as one of the most potent reasons why certain elements in San Diego stirred up opposition to him.

Swing declares his support for President Coolidge for President. He asks that he be allowed to return to Washington that he may complete the fight for the Boulder dam. He recites the need of eternal vigilance in preserving the protective tariffs that have been given California products. However unpopular his declaration may be to those who believe that a congressman should have but one string to his fiddle, and that string be tied to San Diego harbor, Swing renews his pledge to seek government aid for Orange county's harbor.

Most of us have the strength and courage to feel that we can defend ourselves against our enemies, but we all need help in defending ourselves against our fool friends.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

WEALTHY LABOR'S SUCCESS

Organized labor has only been in the banking business three or four years. It started with the Locomotive Engineers and so far is mostly confined to the railroad brotherhoods. Yet there are now 30 labor banks in the United States, and they have total resources of almost $100,000,000.

This is a mere hint of the capitalistic power that labor may attain in the future. Labor really has greater opportunity for the accumulation of wealth and financial control of industry than has "capital" itself, as we understand capital at present.

The bulk of the earnings of any big industry goes to labor. Labor has passing through its hands at any time most of the vast sums of money with which the nation's business is done. It is mainly a question of how much of that money labor saves and invests.

In this favored country, with high wages, labor can, if it will, save and invest more millions per year than can the salaried and capitalist classes. With systematic saving and united action, labor can eventually dominate industry financially. That may never happen, but the possibility is evident.

And the possibility need not arouse any fears on the part of timid capitalists of the old type. A workman is seldom a "red" when he owns his home and has a bank account. A labor union is less prone to radical utterance and action when it is in the banking business and realizes what industrial disturbances do to industry and commerce.

The labor men are said to run their banks conservatively, making good profits but taking no rash chances. If they ever come to own their industries, they may run them just as conservatively, giving both capital and labor a fair chance.

This section is strong for Congressman Swing, on the strength of his record for decency in cleaning up the border situation and on his strenuous work for the Boulder Dam.—Redlands Facts.

PLANES AND PIGEONS

An airplane beat 55 carrier pigeons from New York to Washington last week. It made the flight in five hours. The swiftest pigeon took an hour and 10 minutes longer.

That makes the famous winged messenger look a bit cheap. And it is getting to be an old story. Planes nearly always pass birds. It has been discovered that the fastest planes outfly eagles.

Yet man has no great reason for boasting, as yet. Though the carrier pigeon, like many another far-flying bird, is not as swift as a man-built gas machine, he is more dependable and persevering. His merits show in a prolonged flight. If the carrier pigeons had entered their champions in the present airplane race around the world, it would be safe to bet on the pigeons.

AGRICULTURAL MOVIES

The United States Department of Agriculture now has the largest and best equipped moving picture studio outside of New York, according to commercial movie men, who ought to know. It is located in Hollywood, and there the government is turning out educational pictures, chiefly agricultural, which are shown practically all over the world.

The development of this phase of the department's work is interesting. It was hampered at first because it could not spend large sums for technicians, scenario, writers and actors. Employees of the department were asked to try their hands at scenarios and many of them were pressed into service as character actors in some of the rural thrillers.

Today the department has high speed cameras, high-powered studio calcium lights, rapid developer tanks and drying racks, devices to take microscopic pictures of bugs and bacteria, livelier scenarios and even professional actors on a limited salary range.

The department is now able to make an interesting picture about anything from the food value of milk or the health value of home gardening, on up to a four-reel thriller entitled "Clean Hands — and Hearts." The thriller depicts a community campaign for the eradication of animal tuberculosis, the relation of this to human health, the economic losses due to the disease and the opposition to the campaign from various sources. It portrays political intrigue, love, hope and despair, even as the commercial films.

Millions of people see these pictures every year, are entertained by them and instructed. Thus is the advancement of American agriculture promoted and the production of an abundant and wholesome food supply encouraged.

There is said to be a laughing horse in Indiana. And no doubt, having horse sense, he knows enough not to laugh in the wrong place.

Where Money Comes From

Stockton Independent

Alden Anderson, banker and large fruit grower of Sacramento, in a survey of conditions in the Sacramento Valley (which he found good) remarked that, "I doubt if people realize just what it is that brings money into California," and then he proceeds to show 'em:

For instance, the bean crop for 1923, in value, equaled the raisin crop, which was a little more than $18,000,000.

The celery crop brought approximately $2,350,000, while the plum crop brought only about $2,000,000. Yet the celery industry is little advertised.

Again in 1923 the asparagus crop—90 per cent of which, by the way, is raised in Sacramento County—brought $13,260,000, while the barley crop of the state, amounting to 444,000 tons, brought in about $13,000,000.

This year barley is going to be a little short, but the asparagus crop will be bigger, and prices will be better.

It will be noticed that Mr. Anderson compares little advertised with largely advertised products. Why should it be surprising that the bean crop is as valuable as the raisin crop? Why are raisins taken as a standard of comparison? Obviously because raisins have been extensively advertised.

The same applies in the comparison of asparagus and barley. The latter is an old staple crop and traditionally is one of the chief products of the state—only in fact it isn't, and we are given a shock of surprise to learn that it is equalled by that of the succulent vegetable. If one should read that the asparagus crop were ruined he would feel sorry for the growers; on the other hand, if he heard the barley crop was ruined he would at once assume that the state had sustained a severe blow.

Few keep up with the newer resources and newer development of the state. The cereals still have their traditional importance, and a season of limited rainfall is regarded as fully as serious as it was when California was devoted exclusively to dry farming. A dry year is serious to be sure, but it should be appraised actually and not traditionally.

Japanese Hysteria Passes

San Francisco Chronicle

We were convinced that the crisis of Japanese feeling about the American immigration law would be soon passed. Signs multiply that the peak is already behind.

The Tokyo police have already put their foot down on the boycott and on the distributors of anti-American handbills. The government, by permitting it to be said that Viscount Ishii is to be the next ambassador at Washington, has evidently wished to show that Japan wants to be as friendly as possible to the United States.

Some hysteria was to be expected. The government—and it is a very wise government—evidently thought it necessary to give some chance for the steam to blow off. It is to be noted that it never permitted any of the demonstrations to reach the point of violence. The safety valve was well handled. The ebullition discharged itself in noise and at the proper moment has been shut down. The rules of the Japanese are skillful.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

CAUGHT NAPPING

I watched a clever amateur boxer attempt to make a "come back" after five years away from boxing, owing to a war injury. He won his bout, but he was far from the finest boxer that he had been in years before. Although the bout was only one of three rounds, it was well into the second round before I realized just what was wrong with his work.

He had lost his judgment of distance, and the "timing" of his blows. The nerve centers that control this part of his nervous and muscular make-up had been "out of use" for so long, that he had not "educated" them again to the point where they had been before.

A blow that he should have landed or guarded within a certain part of a second, took just a fraction longer. His eye was just a fraction slower in grasping openings and so forth. Now why do I tell you all this?

Well, perhaps you have been ill, have been under the weather for a while. Possibly an attack of flu, or just ordinary indigestion. You have been forced to remain at home, to remain in bed, in fact, for a number of days or weeks.

The day comes when you are to get up, and as you step out on the floor you have such a feeling of "faintness" that you are glad to get back on the bed again.

What has happened?

Well, all the days or weeks you have been lying so quietly in bed, there has been no call for much work on the part of the body. The nerve centers, therefore, that govern the muscular part of the body, have practically gone to sleep for the time being, because there are not any calls made upon them.

And so when you attempted to get up, they were caught "napping" and did not send the necessary "force" to your heart to pump the amount of blood necessary to do the extra work.

Your blood was not on full pressure as it were, and hence your faintness. And yet later in the day when you have given notice to your brain that you are going to get up, and you get up slowly and gradually, you are able to do so without the feeling of faintness you previously experienced.

And it is the same with every part of that body of yours. If you don't completely fill your lungs regularly, and take a few long breaths, the nervous mechanism controlling breathing isn't prepared for such an onslaught and can't accommodate itself to your needs fast enough. Similarly with your heart. You haven't run a block for years and then, suddenly decide to run for a car. The result is palpitation and a feeling of weakness.

As you grow older it was not intended that you should indulge in the strenuous games of your youth, but it was not meant that you should quit exercise or work completely.

The advice, "taper off gradually" as the years go by, is mighty sound.

They Won't Catch Him Napping

SONG FROM
"VALENTINIAN"

Care-charming Sleep, thou easer of all woes,
Brother to Death, sweetly thyself dispose
On this afflicted prince: fall like a cloud
In gentle showers; give nothing that is loud
Or painful to his slumbers; easy, sweet,
And as a-purling stream, thou son of Night,
Pass by his troubled senses; sing his pain,
Like hollow murmuring wind, or silver rain.
Into this prince gently, oh, gently slide,
And kiss him into slumbers like a bride!
—Beaumont and Fletcher.

California Business Sound

San Francisco Chronicle

In the opinion of William T. Summers, president of the United Bank and Trust Company, the outlook of business in this state for the last half of the year is decidedly better than most people seem to expect, and the feeling has not been really depressed anywhere. We are nearing the end of the period which is normally the least active of the year and there is no reason not to expect the regular increase from now on.

No one else is so well equipped to forecast business correctly as the banker. The press can only report what well-informed people say. The banker sees actual balance sheets and does not guess, but knows, whether cash and quick assets are ample. He also knows whether borrowers are eager. Their needs are normal and the banks do not rediscount so much as the Federal reserve banks wish they would. They have plenty of money of their own.

President Summers bases his opinion on something like the following statement of what he believes to be true:

He does not expect any such reduction of our fruit crops as is generally assumed. Fruit has the habit of taking on weight. If the crop is thin the fruits are bigger. And in view of the light rain the light setting of fruit is a blessing. We are likely to clear up our carryover of canned and dried fruits and get a normal aggregate cash return for the new crops.

All the irrigated lands will produce the usual crops, although there will be some shortage late in the season where there is not adequate storage. There have, of course, been losses, especially in grain on the dryer lands. The dairy and other live stock industries are profitable. The percentage of cattle affected by the foot and mouth disease is trifling and the owners are paid for slaughtered cattle. The forest and mining interests are in good condition.

A very important factor is the rapid increase of population, making a home market for our established industries and getting one for the new concerns—in both cases saving freight. The various forms of transportation are as active as they should be at this season if they are expected to care for the autumn trade. The newcomers bring money and employ money. Mercantile and industrial inventories are small and kept small, which is first class business insurance. We have had no boom and, therefore, dread no reaction. We shall not have wartime business this year, but we shall do nicely, thank you.

Worth While Verse

TO A BUTTERFLY

I've watched you now a full half-hour.
Self-poised upon that yellow flower;
And, little butterfly! indeed,
I know not if you sleep or feed.
How motionless! not frozen seas
More motionless! and then
What joy awaits you, when the breeze
Has found you out among the trees.
And calls you forth again!

This plot of orchard-ground is ours;
My trees they are, my sister's flowers;
Here rest your wings when they are weary;
Here lodge as in a sanctuary!
Come often to us, fear no wrong;
Sit near us on the bough!
We'll talk of sunshine and of song,
And summer days when we were young;
Sweet, childish days that were so long
As twenty days are now.

—William Wordsworth.

Little Benny's
Note Book

By Lee Pope

Pop was smoking to himself and ma was reading a letter from Ant Fanny, saying, Wat do you think, Willyum, the latest development seems to be that my sister Fanny is thinking of letting her little boy Herbit be a printer just like his father.

That's a nice modest ambition, pop sed. Most scheming parents jest now are thinking of having their children study the bootlegging profession, he sed.

That's ridiculous, and anyway, Fanny is strictly temperant and always has bin, ma sed. But listen wat she writes, she writes, its really remarkable the decided taste little Herbit is showing for letters of all kinds. His father gave him a set of spelling blocks for his birthday only 3 weeks ago and in this short space of time Herbit has already licked off every letter except the left side of a W and the dot of one I. So it not only shows that he has a strong inside feeling for letters but that he is also thorough about it which his father says is very essential in a good printer.

I want offer my opinion until I hear he has swallowed a printing press, or at least a typewriter, pop sed, and ma sed. Now Willyum listen to wat she writes, she writes, Every time I take him in a trolley car and there happens to be a man reading a paper next to me, with there usually is, naturally, Herbit insists on reaching for the paper and pulling it rite away from him and crumpling it all up as if he was simply crazy about the idea, and although the men who were reading the paper in the first place dont genrally take the incident in a trendy spirit, they usually dont have much more to say when I tell them about Herbits tendency towards printing.

Now Willyum cant you give the child a chance? ma sed, and pop sed, I could give him more than that if I ever layed hold of him.

And he got in back of the sporting page and stayed there.

IN THE LONG AGO

14 Years Ago Today
From the Register Files

JUNE 19, 1910.

An action asking for a judgment of $53,528 was begun by Howard Hill, a stockholder, against a Pacific Coast Soda company. Hill alleged the board spent that sum on property to which the company had no deed.

With indications of oil prevalent, E. E. Burson, manager of the Modjeska Mineral Springs company, planned to test the territory with a drilling rig.

Santa Ana police sought two men, Russell Tillman and J. C. Akers, charged with taking Dr. C. D. Ball's automobile for a joy ride.

Thirty-five seniors of the Santa Ana high school will receive diplomas at commencement exercises to be held Friday night. Among those graduating are Dean Collier, Howard Hankey, Carolyn Haughton, Henry Padgham, Doris Robbins, Harry Warner and Eva Osborn.

One hundred and seventy members of Santa Ana lodge No. 734, B. P. O. E., marched through the streets of the city and raised the Stars and Stripes over the lot on Sycamore street on which the order will erect its new clubrooms.

The Newspaper Business

Will Irwin, the veteran newspaper man and magazine writer had an article in a recent issue of Colliers, in which he discussed recent newspaper suspensions and conditions in New York especially and in the country at large. His article was headed, "Newspapers and Canned Thought," and he analyzed not only the trend in the newspaper publishing business towards fewer and larger newspapers, but also the effect of syndicated features and "chain" or multiple ownership.

After telling of the elimination of four of the New York City daily papers by the operations of Frank A. Munsey, Mr. Irwin says:

"As indicated by the flurry in paper in one of the greater cities like New York or Chicago to enjoy prosperity on a daily circulation of less than 100,000 copies.

"That can no longer be done. There is a dead-line of circulation below which you cannot go and still keep ahead of the books; and in the smaller cities that line, though lower, is just as definite. A newspaper which fails to reach that mark must quit or 'amalgamate.' Hence this late flurry in metropolitan journalism. And since most movements in both the business and professional sides of newspaper publishing spring either from New York or Chicago, we may expect still more amalgamations in the smaller cities.

"From the sober statistics of the 'Editor and Publisher,' the philosophers of the game plucked, still another startling fact. On January 1st last, 10 per cent of the newspaper circulation of the country was published in combinations—by companies or individuals—growing from three to twenty-eight newspapers in various cities. W. R. Hearst, for example, has twenty-two big-city dailies. During Mr. Hearst's recent spurt of political ambition, it was currently reported that he hoped some day to have a personal organ in every state of the Union. That may not be true, but at any rate he is constantly extending his string. The Scripps-owned, in spite of adverse publishing conditions, has since 1914 expanded its string from twenty to twenty-eight. And smaller combinations, which may threaten these giants, are in process of formation.

ADVENTURES
Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 9—A TRIP TO ENGLAND

The next night when Johnny Jump Up, the garden fairy, wakened the Twins and the three of them had climbed down the rose vine into the magic garden, the little fairy skipped over to a patch of yellow flowers and stopped.

"Do you know what these are?" he asked.

"Sort of," said Nancy. "I've seen something like them before."

"These are English primroses," said Johnny Jump Up. "In America primroses are pink and purple, but in England they are yellow, and come out early in the spring."

"Why don't you let them see for themselves?" said a silvery voice.

And the Twins beheld a lovely little fairy standing in the primrose patch. "The Fairy Queen said you had telephoned for three tickets to England," said the fairy, "so I got them and flew here as fast as I could come, and But you are talking and talking as though you never would get through."

"Why, you're talking and talking yourself," said Johnny Jump Up crossly.

"Now you're both talking," said still another voice. "This is said still another place I ever saw. Now that you have your tickets and everything is settled, why don't you start?"

And there stood the timemuse. "We're ever so much obliged for the tickets," said Nancy to the primrose fairy. "And I'm sure Johnny didn't mean to be so cross."

"Of course I didn't," laughed Johnny merrily. "I was only fooling. Please excuse me."

"Oh, do come on," begged the timemuse. "It's a long way to England and back and the moon looks wet. I'm quite sure it will rain."

So away they went on the titmouse's back.

As they flew toward the east they met the sun.

"Hello," he called down. "Have a good time."

And bye and bye they came to England.

"Down there is London Town," said Johnny Jump Up, pointing to a city so big the Twins could not see the effect of it.

"That's famous for lots of things. London Bridge that's always falling down, and the place Dick Whittington came to before he got his cat and became lord mayor, and the place the little boy came to get himself a wife because the rats and the mice did lead him such a life, and the Prince of Wales, and a lot of other important people."

"But where are the primroses?" asked Nancy. "I don't see one."

"Of course not," said Johnny Jump Up. "They're out in the country. Fly on, timemuse."

The world was yellow with primroses out in the country. And a lovely sight they were.

"Is that all there is in England—London Town and primroses?" asked Nick.

"Goodness, no!" said Johnny Jump Up. "But if we stayed to see one hundredth part of it all we wouldn't get home until the week after next. Home, timemuse, if you please."
